

The Eminent Kidney and Bladder Specialist.

The Discoverer of Swamp-Root at Work in His Laboratory.

There is a disease prevailing in this country most dangerous because so deceptive. Many sudden deaths are caused by it—heart disease, pneumonia, heart failure or apoplexy are often the result of kidney disease. If kidney trouble is allowed to advance the kidney-poisoned blood will attack the vital organs, of the kidneys themselves break down and waste away cell by cell. Then the richness of the blood—the albumen—leaks out and the sufferer has Bright's Disease, the worst form of kidney trouble.

Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the new discovery is the true specific for kidney, bladder and urinary troubles. It has cured thousands of apparently hopeless cases, after all other efforts have failed. At drug stores in fifty-cent and dollar sizes. A sample bottle sent free by mail, also a book telling about Swamp-Root and its wonderful cures. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., and mention this paper.

Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

Old Employee Learns Why Young Man Was Jumped Over Him.

New York Sun.

SOME of the elderly men who are trudging along at the same gait as ever in the houses where they are employed at the same salary they received twenty-five years ago may benefit by the following incident which occurred only last week in a down-town store:

A young man who came to the place less than two years ago was advanced over a man who had been there thirty years. The latter went to the proprietor and complained that such treatment he had received after all his years of service was unjust. The proprietor, without pretending to notice the complaint, asked:

"What is that noise in the street?"

The old employe replied that he did not know and waited.

"Better see what it is," said the proprietor.

The old employe went out and returned with the information that the noise was made by wagons.

"How many wagons?" asked the proprietor.

The old employe said he hadn't counted them.

"Better find out," said the proprietor.

The old employe went out again and returned with the information that there were eight.

"What was the cause of the noise?" asked the proprietor.

The old employe said he didn't know, and the proprietor suggested that he had better ascertain. The old employe went out the third time, and returned with the information that the teamsters were hurrying to load their wagons with goods.

The proprietor then touched the bell on his desk, which summoned the young man who had been advanced. The proprietor asked him:

"What is that noise in the street?"

"I will see," replied the young man, who went out and returned a few moments later with the following report:

"There are eight wagons out there and the teamsters are hurrying to load them with goods."

The proprietor turned to the old employe and said:

"Do you understand now why this young man was advanced over you?"

The old employe understood, but his knowledge came too late.

Battlesnakes and Whiskey.

If a man jokingly praises whiskey as a beneficent agent because it overcomes the effect of a snake's bite, tell him why the whiskey offsets the rattler's poison.

The bite of a rattlesnake injects into the blood a poison which deadens the heart's action, and which, under certain conditions, so interferes with the heart and the circulation as to destroy life.

Whiskey is good for a rattlesnake bite because whiskey lashes the heart to desperate activity.

If a rattlesnake bites you and you cannot secure the help of a doctor, or some sensible heart stimulant, by all means fill yourself with whiskey—using one enemy to kill off another temporarily more dangerous.

But don't see that the action which makes the whiskey useful in combination with a rattlesnake's poison is destructive to the heart and the brain under normal conditions? If you were pursued by a ferocious animal, you would lash your horse to its highest speed, regardless of consequences. But what would become of your horse, how long would it last, if lashed and goaded to high speed every day of his life?

The man who habitually drinks whiskey, or who drinks occasionally to excess, is lashing his own heart, exhausting his own vitality and drawing on his own future.—New York Journal American.

DR. WIMBERLEY'S CERTIFICATE.

This is to certify that I have used Hancock's Liquid Sulphur in my practice and have tested it sufficiently to know it to be a remedy of great merit. Have used it with curative results in cases that nothing else would benefit.

Disturbances of strikers are not nearly as grave as an individual disorder of the system. Overwork, loss of sleep, nervous tension will be followed by utter collapse, unless a reliable remedy is immediately employed. There's nothing so efficient to cure disorders of the Liver or Kidneys as Electric Bitters. It's a wonderful tonic, and effective nerve and the greatest all-around medicine for run-down systems. You Will Be Happy if Well.

Paine's Celery Compound

Bestows that Health and Vigor that Makes Living a Pleasure.

If you are sick and out-of-sorts, it is in your power to make yourself healthy, strong, and happy.

There is not the slightest reason why you should go through life feeling sickly, miserable, languid, and melancholic. To be well and strong, means happiness and true joy.

If you are sleepless, rheumatic, neuralgic, dyspeptic, or have the shadows of disease hovering over you; if you are not as bright, energetic, and strong as you were some weeks ago, the use of Paine's Celery Compound will tone up and fortify your whole system, cleanse the blood, correct digestion, sharpen the appetite, and conduce to restful sleep. Thousands once in a half-dead condition owe their present good health to the use of Paine's Celery Compound. Mr. Wm. S. Gibson, of Pleasureville, Ky., who, through sickness and suffering, was brought near the dark grave, writes as follows, regarding his marvelous cure:

"I have been broken down in health and strength, nervous system shattered, kidneys out of order, had nervous and trembling spells off and on for the last ten years. I have taken these bottles of your Paine's Celery Compound and all of the above-mentioned troubles have left me, and I can now do a good day's work. I go about my business all day long and it don't worry me, and I now feel better than I have in ten years. I have a good appetite, and can eat and get around on foot as active as when I was a boy. My age is 65 years."

A Typographical Tragedy.

Indianapolis Sun.

"You must have a bunch of humorists working on your linotype machines, haven't you?" asked the poet as he entered the office.

"Haven't noticed that any of them have any laughing in that line," answered the editor.

"Well, you are a poor observer. Do you read your own paper?"

"Occasionally."

"Did you read my poem 'To Agatha,' in yesterday's issue?"

"N—no."

"I thought not. In the poem I wrote a line which read, 'I love you better than I love my life.'"

"That was a neat line."

"And one of your linotype humorists made it read, 'I love you better than I love my wife.'"

"Ex—"

"Exactly—my wife. And my wife not being acquainted with the fallings of these key thumpers, thinks the poem was printed exactly as it was written and hasn't spoken to me since it was published."

And after taking a kick at the desk he crossed the hall and fell down the elevator shaft.

DANGER OF COLDS AND GRIP.

The greatest danger from colds and grip is their resulting in pneumonia. If reasonable care is used, however, and Chamberlain's Cough Remedy taken, all danger will be avoided. Among the tens of thousands who have used this remedy for these diseases we have resulted in pneumonia, which shows conclusively that it is a certain preventive of that dangerous disease. It will cure a cold or an attack of the grip in less time than any other treatment. It is pleasant and safe to take. For sale by E. T. Whitehead & Co., Scotland Neck, N. C., and Leggett's Drug Store, Hobgood, N. C.

Does it Pay to Live a Century?

Atlanta Journal.

"May you live to be a hundred," is a common and very ancient form of blessing. The idea of long life as a basis of human happiness and as a reward for virtuous deeds, is firmly fixed in the traditions of the race. Yet there has always been some question as to whether the necessary infirmities of advanced years did not cancel their benefits. The "seventh age," as described by Shakespeare, "sans everything," is hardly an inviting picture. The trouble seems to be in drawing the line where fullness of years becomes mere burdensome senility.

Mrs. Olive Cleveland, a venerable lady of Lafayette, N. Y., recently celebrated the 102nd anniversary of her birthday. She was 15 years old at the battle of Waterloo; and at the time of her birth Napoleon was first consul and George III was king of England. In a conversation with a reporter of the Boston Globe, Mrs. Cleveland said:

"I pray the good Lord he will not let me live to be 103 years old. I have aged terribly since I was a hundred years old and people began to notice that I was having birthdays. When I was a young woman of 90 I used to do as much work as any of them, but now I am getting old. It has been several years since I was able to read, and time passes rather slowly. After you have lived a hundred years you have aches and pains you never had before. You begin to lose your memory; you can't see as distinctly as you used to, and you can't hear well. You forget how your friends look and you miss the sounds of their voices and you seem to be in another world. You know that there is much going on of which you are not aware, and yet you can't help it."

So what is "a good old age?" Is it a hundred? or is that too far advanced? Is it 80, then, or 75? The only answer must be, that the matter is relative, and varies with circumstances. Some people are old at 35. Some die of old age at 40. It is almost an axiom that youth is not entirely a matter of years. If well wishes would add to their benediction, "and not feel old even at a hundred," they would come nearer to saying what they mean.

"The Footpath of Peace" is the roadway to contented old age. Long life may be either a curse or a blessing. In the springtime years is sown the harvest, which will yield bread or armed men. If the planting be good—if the tares of worry and the dragon's teeth of sin be kept out of the field, then even the full century of life may be rounded out in calmness and strength. It pays to live a hundred years, only if the first five decades have been lived aright.

MR. LAMB'S CERTIFICATE.

My little son had been troubled with Ringworm on his hand for a year. Used various remedies with no effect. At last we used Hancock's Liquid Sulphur, and after three or four applications there was improvement, and in three weeks it was entirely cured.

Prof. Weaver in Jail.

A special from Asheville to the Charlotte Observer a few days ago gave the following account of how Prof. Weaver went to jail:

"Because he refused to be vaccinated and to pay a fine of $25 as imposed upon him by the courts, Prof. T. A. Weaver, a well-known citizen of this county, and a professor at Weaverville College, has gone to jail.

"Prof. Weaver believed that the fine was an unjust one and did not intend to submit to it. It is understood that he expects to pay his own living expenses while in jail, though his meals will be sent to him. It is said that Prof. Weaver will try and make it hot for the Buncombe officers who had him arrested."

Seal of the Confederacy.

New York Press.

The great seal of the Confederacy is supposed to be in the office of the Secretary of State of South Carolina. The original design called for an equestrian portrait of Washington in the center, after the statue which surmounts his monument in the Capitol square in Richmond, and no doubt that design was executed by Joseph S. Wyon, chief engraver of her Majesty's seals, 287 Regent street, London. His charge for the work was £122. Somebody issued proofs of the "great seal," which had Washington wearing whiskers and a Confederate slouch hat. Who has the die from which they were struck? It should be worth a handsome sum as a curiosity.

Nothing has ever equalled it. Nothing can ever surpass it.
