SLAUGHTER OF GAME

ANIMALS AND BIRDS RECKLESSLY KILLED BY HUNTERS.

Indian Territory Is the Scene of Their Wanton Destruction in Spite of Laws Passed to Protect Them.

The mercenary hunter and trapper who has been responsible for the extinction of valuable animals and birds in older sections of the United States is now playing his trade in Indian territory, in spite of the strict game laws in force, says a Muskogee correspondent of the Kansas City Journal.

The Indian agent has discovered that quail trappers are making a systematic campaign against this class of birds by trapping them and sending them out of the territory. While waiting for a train at Crowder City the other day Agent Schoenfelt noticed a commotion in several boxes, and upon investigation found that they were filled with live quail, which were killed to Anthony, Kan. He ordered them released, and at least 3,000 full-grown birds flew away toward the neighboring fields. Last year the agent discovered 5,000 live quail at Paul's Valley, which were about to be shipped to New Zealand to a firm that is trying to establish these birds in that country.

The professional quail trapper is probably the greatest enemy of the true sportsman of Indian territory. He stretches a large net in the tall grass and then drives the birds along the ground until they are within its reach, when the ends are closed in upon them and they are prisoners in its meshes. The Indian policeman, through the instructions of the Indian agent, have been releasing a large number of quail this year which have been caught in this way, and wherever the trappers can be found they are being arrested. In order to make the Indian policemen more vigilant, they are allowed to keep any game that they confiscate which has been killed by hunters. When they confiscate live game it is always released.

One of the great menaces to the game of Indian territory is the professional trapper of fur-bearing animals, who travels over the country plying his trade at different seasons in the sections of the country where he will get best results. In certain portions of the Blue river thousands of beavers build their dams. These animals are easily trapped, and the professional trapper catches them by the hundreds if allowed to work unhindered. The Indian police are instructed to keep close watch on these streams and to arrest all persons who attempt to trap or kill the beaver. Indian territory also has many other fur-bearing animals which would make rich prizes for the trapper if he were allowed to hunt them unrestrained.

The Indian agent is having his usual trouble with hunters of deer this season. If a man wishes to kill a deer or two for his own use there is no objection. But there are men in the territory who attempt to make their livelihood by hunting deer and selling them to butchers in and out of the territory. The great and increasing demand for venison in railroad eating houses and butcher shops all over this section of the country makes the traffic in venison profitable. The Indian police are instructed to make the rounds of the territory at regular intervals and to confiscate any venison or quail that they may find for sale in these places. This is done very frequently in most territory towns, but seldom becomes known to the general public, as no arrests are made and the butcher from whom the meat is taken keeps his own counsel.

She Hated to Be Corrected.
"Of all the people who provoke me," said a woman on a Westport car to another yesterday, "the person who is always trying to correct my grammar makes me maddest. At Mrs. Blank's tea the other afternoon I chanced to use the word 'ain't,' and immediately a young woman there took occasion to inform me that the word is a bad one. I was quite mortified, as several other women heard her instructing me."
"Oh, I wouldn't feel badly about that," said the other woman. "By the way," came from the first woman, "you used 'badly' improperly then. 'Badly' is an adverb and can be used properly to modify the verb 'feel' only when you speak of feeling with the fingers or something like that. You should have said: 'I wouldn't feel bad.'"
Then she wondered why the people near by in the car smiled.—Kansas City Times.

Bag Game Without Gun or Dogs.
Mrs. Owen, who lives three miles north of Cookeville, came in this morning with 15 quail, 11 rabbits and two squirrels, and when asked how she killed so many stated that her four little sons went out walking yesterday (Sunday) without dogs or gun, tracked a covey of quail into a brush pile and killed 15 by getting on the pile and jumping up and down. They killed a number of rabbits in the same manner, and still others by chasing them into dens and twisting them out with long forked sticks. The squirrels were killed by getting them into hollow trees and twisting them out in the same manner as the rabbits.—Nashville American.
