Cotton at Six Cents Per Spool.

The fact that the thread trust has raised the price of that useful and necessary article has attracted little attention save among dealers and persons who use a great deal of it. The addition of one cent to the price of a spool of thread will not inconvenience many people and will be paid without protest. Let us see, however, what the effect will be with respect to results from the view point of the thread Manufacturers.

Before the increased price was announced the thread manufacturers priced their goods at 55 cents per man lived entirely in a back room of dozen spools. This price, however, was subject to several discounts whereby the dealer finally secured his thread from the manufacturer at 45 1-2 cents per dozen. There are 5 1-3 dozen spools to the pound of cotton, hence the manufacturer sold his finished product at the fat price of $2.40 per pound.

The new price, which has caused the retailer to add a cent to the price of each spool, is given as 67 to the three discounts is finally price of other cotton goods this price notwithstanding the fact that the best thread is manufactured from the ing his cotton back at $3.48 per just to show her that I have not gone pound.—Augusta Herald.
