Briefs About Electrical Development.

A bill is before the legislature of Texas providing that all locomotives in that state be equipped with electric headlights.

Trackless electric trolley lines are growing in favor abroad. The latest one to be opened is between Spezia and Portovenere, in Italy.

Great Britain is seriously considering the adoption of the electric mile on the English canals. A special commission has the matter under consideration.

Several wireless telegraph stations will be established in the Turkish empire. American experts will train the Turks to use the instruments.

The city of Constantinople, with a million and a quarter inhabitants, is without electric light or power. German capitalists have been granted concessions by the Sultan and the city very shortly will be supplied with both lights and street railways. Water power will be developed not far from the Turkish capital.

A shoe shining parlor has been opened in Denver in which only electro-pneumatic brushes and polishers are used. Electrically heated irons are also used in the same establishment for pressing hats and clothes.

Now the church militant recognizes the value of advertising. The Fifth Avenue Baptist church in New York City, better known as the "Rockefeller Church" has erected a large electric sign, exciting no end of comment—and bringing results.

A new type of direct current generator has been produced by the General Electric Company, which gives greater power for less floor space and can be attached to walls or ceilings.

The new copper clad wire for telephone and telegraph lines is made by welding copper to the steel in electric furnaces before the ingot is drawn into wire. It is claimed the results are as good as though the wire were solid copper and the saving is considerable.

Damascus is the first city in the Turkish empire to be electrified, as three and a half miles of trolley line is now under construction. Power is secured from the falls of the River Barara, twenty-two miles from the city. The Turks believed for many years that electricity was the devil's power, and for this reason it was tabooed by the Sultan.

An electrical process for aging flour has been perfected, doing away with the cost of storage and additional floor space. Instead of letting the flour age by standing, it is now done by allowing it to come in contact with air which has been ozonized by the breaking of an arc. The oxygen of the air, turned to ozone, acts chemically on the flour.

An electrically driven hearse is in use in Berlin.

The newest thing in Teddy bears is one that has tiny incandescent lights for eyes. A storage battery is provided, and when the bear's paws are squeezed the eyes light up.

Sir Hugh Bell, of London, prophesied a few days ago that a century hence a ship with hardly any machinery would speed across the Atlantic propelled by electric force generated by the falls at Niagara and transmitted to the vessel wirelessly. This seems incredible, but the electrical wonders of to-day would have seemed more so twenty-five years ago had they been foretold.

Wireless telephone experiments are being made on the New York curb between the brokers and their respective officers.

A railroad with a 72 per cent grade, at Weehawken, N. J., is one of the queerest ever built. It runs up a 300 foot incline and the cars are 20 feet wide and 40 feet long and will carry a load of 50,000 pounds. They are operated by 300-horsepower electric motors and make the ascent in one minute, carrying both freight and passengers.

At Eventide.

(By Marie Corbett.)

In our hearts celestial voices
Softly say:
"Day is passing, night is coming,
Kneel and pray!"

Father, we obey the summons;
Hear our cry.
Pity us and help our weakness,
Thou Most High!

For the joys that most we cherish
Praised be Thou.
Good and gentle art thou ever,
Hear us now.

We are only little children
Kneeling here—
And we want our loving father
Always near.

Take us in Thy arms and keep us
As thine own.
Gather us like little sunbeams
Round Thy throne.

Why He Had No Enemies.

(Indianapolis Star.)

Bishop John P. Barry, during the Methodist Conference's recent session, told a story in illustration of the tender mercies of the wicked.

"It is said," he began, "that when the great Spanish marshal, Narvaez, lay dying his confessor asked him if he had any enemies.

"No," whispered the marshal; I have none."

"But the priest, reflecting on the stormy life of the dying man, repeated:
"Think, sir! Have you no enemies? None whatever?"

"No," said the marshal, "none." And he added, tranquilly, "I have shot them all."

Justice for the Railroads—and Nothing More.

(Progressive Farmer.)

The railroads have so long sowed to the wind, have so often plundered States or corrupted governments, that they get scant sympathy from most of us in the sudden and widespread retribution that now threatens them. But still we must recognize that railroad, whatever the sins of some railroad builders, is perhaps the foremost material agency of civilization, and that the South needs many a new line to develop resources that must otherwise lie idle. There is the old straight and narrow path of exact justice that we are called to tread—and the South needs leaders who will walk in it. To us this at least seems clear:

1. That we should not lay the same burdens on the strong and the weak, the struggling new road and the old and prosperous. Let us encourage the weaker lines by proper concessions.
2. That the railway's greatest sin has been not in high rates, but in discriminating rates—rates which built one city and wasted another, enriched one man and bankrupted another. Consider, for example, just three facts mentioned by Mr. H. C. Brown in his address to the merchants at Greensboro:

For instance, the distance from Cincinnati to Lynchburg via the C. & O. is 474 miles, and to Greensboro is 472 miles, and yet the freight on many articles is twice as much to Greensboro as it is to Lynchburg. A car-load of grain from Cincinnati via Greensboro to Lynchburg is $24, but if the car stops at Greensboro it is $56. A car-load of molasses from New Orleans to Lynchburg is $52, but if the car stops at Greensboro the freight is $104.

Here then is the task for us—(1) to stop discriminations, and (2) to hold the powerful roads in check without discouraging the struggling ones. And it is a big task.

Columbus just landed; meeting a big Indian chief with a package under his arm, he asked what it was. "Great medicine Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea, said the Indian. 35 cents, Tea or Tablets.

Nearly all the old-fashioned Cough Syrups are constipating, especially those that contain opiates. They don't act just right. Kennedy's Laxative Cough Syrup contains no opiates. It drives the cold out of the system by gently moving the bowels. Contains Honey and Tar and tastes nearly as good as maple syrup. Children like it. Sold by E. T. Whitehead & Co.

Long Live the King!

is the popular cry throughout European countries; while in American, the cry of the present day is "Long live Dr. King's New Discovery, King of Throat and Lung Remedies!" of which Mrs. Julia Ryder Paine, of Truro, Mass., says: "It never fails to give immediate relief and to quickly cure a cough or cold." Mrs. Paine's opinion is shared by a majority of the inhabitants of this country. New Discovery cures weak lungs and sore throats after all other remedies have failed; and for coughs and colds it's the only sure cure. Guaranteed by E. T. Whitehead & Co., Druggists, 50c. and $1.00. Trial bottle free.
