CELEBRATED LEE'S BIRTHDAY.

Mr. Smith's Fine Address.

Every surviving Confederate Veteran will love and revere the memory of Robert E. Lee to the last. The birth-day of the great general coming on Sunday 19th of January, Monday 20th was observed throughout the South in honor of the great chieftain. The Buck Kitchin Camp of Confederate Veterans of this place appropriately observed the day. At 1:30 o'clock they assembled in their hall in Main Street Hotel. Commander W. F. Butterworth being absent by reason of sickness, the Mrs. N. B. Josey went to Wake meeting was presided over by Mr. J. Y. Savage. his character. The address was strong and forcetribute to the character of Lee, as a Mr. E. L. Watson, a live business statesman, a great chieftain, a priman. Frequent applause interrupted the speaker during the unique able and beautiful address. The Daughters of the Confederacy had in waiting for the veterans a fine oyster dinner, and after the address, they descended from the hall, formed a line on the sidewalk and Miss Mamie Brinkley, of Weldon, marched to the Scotland Neck hotel who had been here some time on a where a most delicious repast was visit, to relatives, returned home served by the ladies. It was enjoyed by every one, the number present being about thirty. After all had partaken of the delightful dinner to full satisfaction, Mr. J. Y.
