since the list of 1907 was made up, and of the remaining few in the county doubtless a large per cent. will pass away before the list for 1909 shall be made up.

Blessings on their memory, and as they pass out may the good Angel of Peace be present, safely to guard their spirits to the "rest under the shade of the trees" of which the immortal Stenwall Jackson caught a vision as he passed out of life into the great unknown beyond.

A NEWSPAPER MAN'S BUSINESS. Now and then—yes quite frequently—some one takes time from the whirl of his own busy shop to outline the business of some one else.

About the clearest-headed venture we have seen in this sphere of humanitarianism is the following from an exchange about a newspaper man's business:

"It is the business of the newspaper man to boom the city for all it is worth month after month and then see a hundred dollars' worth of printing sent away because ten cents can be saved by so doing.

It is the business of the newspaper to give every local enterprise enthusiastic and frequent "sendoff," and then suffer abuse because he failed to record the fact that some prominent citizen has had his delivery wagon painted.

To subscribe liberally to every public, charitable and church enterprise, advertise them for nothing, pay his own way to everything and then be called prejudiced and mean spirited because a column is not devoted to that particular affair.

Do you wonder that there are so many cranks in the newspaper business? It is bound to make either a crank or a philosopher out of a man."

SKETCH OF HIS LIFE. The following appeared in the News and Observer the day after his death:

"Grover Cleveland, three times the candidate of the Democratic party for the Presidency, and twice the President of the United States, was seventy-one years, three months and six days old when he died, having been born on the 18th of March, 1837, in Gladwell, Essex county, N. J.

"On his father's side he was of English origin. His great grandfather, Moses Cleveland, emigrated from Ipswich, County of Suffolk, England, in 1775, and settled at Woburn, Mass., where he died in 1797. His descendant, William Cleveland, was a silversmith and watchmaker at Norwich, Conn., and Richard Bailey Cleveland, his son, was graduated at Yale in 1821, ordained to the Presbyterian ministry in 1829 and in the same year married Miss Ann Neal, daughter of a Baltimore merchant of Irish birth, these two being the parents of Grover Cleveland.

"The Presbyterian parsonage in which young Cleveland was born had been first occupied by Rev. Stephen Grover, in whose honor he was named, but the Stephen part of it was dropped and he was known as Grover Cleveland. When he was four years old his father took charge of the Presbyterian church at Fayetteville, near Syracuse, New York, where Grover Cleveland had a common and academic education and afterwards clerked in a country store. The family removed to Clinton, N. Y., and he received additional educational advantages in the academy there. In his seventeenth year he became a clerk and an assistant teacher in the New York Institution for the Blind in New York city in which his older brother, William, a Presbyterian clergyman, was then a teacher.

"In 1855 he started West to seek employment, but on his way he stopped at Black Rock, now a part of Buffalo where his uncle, Lewis F. Allen, induced him to remain, and aid in the compilation of a volume on the American Herd Book. For his six weeks' service he was paid $60, and afterwards, while studying law, assisted in compiling other volumes of the work, and in the preface to the fifth volume, issued in 1861, acknowledgment is made of his services. In August 1855, he secured a place as clerk and copyist in the law firm of Rogers, Bowen & Rogers, in Buffalo, began to read Blackstone, and in the autumn of that year was receiving $4 a week. In 1859 he was admitted to the bar, but for three years longer remained with the firm that had first employed him, acting as managing clerk at $600 a year; a part of which he devoted to the support of his widowed mother who died in 1862. On the first of January, 1863, he was appointed assistant district attorney of Erie county and held the office for three years, at this time the Civil War raging, two of his brothers being in the Northern army. His mother and sisters dependent on him for support, he borrowed money and sent a substitute to the war, and it was not till long after the war that he was able to repay the loan. "In 1865, at the age of 28, he was the Democratic candidate for district attorney but was defeated by the Republican nominee, his intimate friend, Lyman K. Bass. He then became a law partner of Isaac V. Vanderpool and in 1869 a member of the firm of Lanning, Cleveland & Folsom, practicing successfully till 1870 when he was elected sheriff of Erie county. At the end of his three years' term he formed a law partnership with Lyman K. Bass, the firm being Bass, Cleveland and Bissell, and later when Bass retired from failing health, Cleveland and Bissell. In 1881 he was the Democratic candidate for mayor of Buffalo and was elected by 2,530 majority, the largest ever given a candidate in that city. He soon became known as the "Veto Mayor" because of his refusal to sign measures for expenditures he thought reckless. In 1882 he was nominated and elected Governor of New York, defeating the Republican candidate, Charles J. Fulger, then Secretary of the United States Treasury, by a plurality of 192,854.

"On July 11, 1884, he was nominated at Chicago by the National Democratic Convention for the Presidency, and in the election was opposed by James G. Blaine, Republican nominee, Benjamin F. Butler, of Massachusetts, Labor and Greenback nominee, and John P. St. John, of Kansas, the Prohibition nominee. In the electoral college he received 219 votes and Mr. Blaine 182. June 6, 1888, he was unanimously renominated by the National Democratic Convention at St. Louis and was defeated by Benjamin Harrison, the Republican nominee, who received 233 electoral votes to Cleveland's 168, though on the popular vote he defeated Mr. Harrison, the vote being Cleveland, 5,540,329, Harrison, 5,439,852. At the close of his administration he took up the practice of law in New York.

In June 1892, the National Democratic Convention in Chicago nominated him for the third time and on the first ballot. In the electoral college he received 277 votes, Benjamin Harrison 145 and James B. Weaver, the People's Party candidate, 22. Of the popular vote Cleveland received 5,553,142, Harrison 5,186,931 and Weaver 1,030,128. On March 4, 1897, he retired from the White House to Princeton, N. J., where he has since resided.

"President Cleveland was married in the White House on June 2, 1885, to Miss Frances Folsom, daughter of his deceased friend and law partner, Oscar Folsom, of the Buffalo bar. Mrs. Cleveland was the youngest (except the wife of President Madison) of the many mistresses of the White House, having been born in Buffalo, N. Y., in 1864. She is the first wife of a President married in the White House, and the first to give birth to a child there, their second daughter, Esther, having been born in the Executive Mansion in 1893 during President Cleveland's second term.

Tax the Dogs. Editor THE COMMONWEALTH: Perhaps while the dog is so faithful to man he will always preserve a portion of empire and a degree of superiority over other animals; and as he is above all others that which are most attached to man, it may seem hard to tax the noble dog. But when I think about so many worthless dogs on the streets during the day and how they bark and howl at night so some of us can't sleep and sometimes they even disturb the services in church, I think they should be taxed at least $1.00 each, which would stop the accumulation of so many worthless ones in town. The people in some towns not only think so many of them are a common nuisance but that they are dangerous, and they are not allowed to run at large so freely as they do in Scotland Neck.

I think I voice the sentiment of all the people in town when I say we should either have a dog taxing or a dog killing.

I hope the commissioners will consider this matter. J. D. RAY.

Pretty Marriage in Littleton. Littleton, July 2.—The Methodist Episcopal church was a scene of loveliness last Wednesday evening, the event being the marriage of Mr. Cleveland Stallings to Miss Mary Elizabeth Perkins. Sharply at 9 o'clock the band started the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march and the ushers, Mr. B. H. Browning, Mr. H. E. Tarry and Dr. W. Alston, Jr., headed the bridal party. Behind them came Miss Annie Land, who was maid of honor. She wore a dress of blue net made over taffeta and carried roses. Immediately behind her came the bride leaning on the arm of her uncle, Mr. Whit. A. Johnston. The bride wore a beautiful dress of white duchesse satin and carried lilies of the valley with orange blossoms in her hair. They were met at the railing by the groom and his best man, Mr. Eugene Johnston, also an uncle of the bride. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. W. Parker, of Franklin, Va., who was a fraternity mate of the groom while they were at Trinity College. The ring ceremony was used, and the bride was given away by Mr. W. A. Johnston.

Immediately following, the party retired to the bride's home where a sumptuous reception was given, attended only by the bridal party and immediate families of the contracting parties. The happy couple left on No. 33 for an extended trip of seven weeks. While away they will tour the western part of the continent, visiting California, Yellowstone Park and other points of interest in that section.

Upon their return they will reside temporarily at the home of Mrs. Perkins.

Mr. Stallings is the son of Mr. S. J. Stallings. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Nora Perkins, and is a grand-daughter of the late Sterling Johnston, known and beloved by all in these parts.

White Man Killed by Train. (Charlotte Observer.) Rocky Mount, July 5.—Thomas Bradley, a young white man about 33 years old, was found by a south-bound freight about 4 o'clock this morning in an unconscious state near Whitakers. From marks on the body and surrounding evidence it is certain that he was struck by a northbound train about 11 o'clock. He was picked up and brought to the A. C. L. Hospital at this place, where he died today about 9 o'clock, never regaining consciousness. Bradley was a painter by trade, though he had filed no contract in this work for the past several years. He was a single man and leaves mother and father and several brothers. There are indications that he was somewhat intoxicated at the time of the accident.

$100 REWARD, $100. The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address, F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O. Sold by druggists, 75c. Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

Death of Mrs. C. H. Dickens. (Cor. to The Commonwealth.) HALIFAX, N. C., July 7, '08. At her residence about four miles south of this place, Mrs. C. H. Dickens died very suddenly and unexpectedly on last Sunday morning, aged about 30.

She was before marriage Miss Roberta Moore, daughter of Mr. J. G. Moore, of Halifax county.

The deceased was a woman with a great deal of energy and activity, and was very useful and helpful in the home in which she wrought. She was a good mother attending faithfully to the needs of her children, and lending willingly and cheerfully, aid to her husband.

She was always anxious to have everything around her in good shape, and to this end she strove, exerting herself even more perhaps than was wise, that she might have the satisfaction of knowing that duty had been done.

There are left the husband and four children, one being only six weeks old.

She will be badly missed in the home by the husband who contributed so much to her happiness while living, and by the dear children who lovingly and willingly served mama day by day.

His ways are unsearchable, His wisdom unquestionable, we do not even try to understand His divine dispensations of providence, but we do know that all He does is for some specific purpose. We console ourselves with the belief that if we conform our will to His, then we can say even with breaking hearts, "Thy will be done."

The remains were taken to her old home and placed in the family burying ground near Scotland Neck on last Monday.

W. F. COPPEDGE. ANOTHER REPORT OF THE DEATH. HALIFAX, N. C., July 6, '08.

This neighborhood was shocked early yesterday morning by the sudden death of Mrs. C. H. Dickens who lived about five miles from town. Mrs. Dickens had been in feeble health for several months but it was thought she was improving. She was up and attending her household duties, came in from the dining room by her husband who was sitting near the door and said to him she felt real bad and fell down on the bed and in a moment he heard her make a noise and looked and she was a dead.

The deceased is survived by a husband and four small children, the youngest being six weeks old, a father, three sisters and several brothers besides other relatives to mourn her loss. She was just in the prime of life being about 29 years old. The remains will be taken to the family cemetery four miles from Scotland Neck and there laid to rest. We sympathize deeply with the family in their bereavement.
