of the City,""State Missions." Miss Heck was the real central figure of the meeting and her addresses were all gems of excellence and especially helpful and instructive, but many spoke in especially high praise of the what they called the master address of the Institute, "The Challenge of the City." It was purely ethical and philosophical and was convincing and inspiring to her hearers. Miss Heck is a woman of much dignity, grace and ease and earnest consecration and her efforts here will bring forth good fruit. The meeting was closed by an able and comprehensive address on Friday night by Dr. Wm. H. Smith, of Richmond, Va., Editorial Secretary of the Foreign Mission Board, who spoke to a congregation of both men and women on "Some Things we all Should Know."
