

Surprising, What Kodol Will Do

For you, when you need it. But the longer you neglect indigestion, the more you will suffer before Kodol can restore Good Digestion.

And, of course, indigestion if neglected long enough, brings on serious diseases in which Kodol cannot benefit you. Some of these there is no help for at all.

There are, in fact, very few ailments which cannot be traced directly to impure blood. And impure blood is always due to a disordered stomach.

Use Kodol and prevent Nervous Dyspepsia.

Kodol will effectually assist Nature to secure a complete restoration of good digestion. It does this by at once digesting all food in the stomach and keeping it digested, until the stomach is rested and can resume its own work. Kodol removes the cause—and the effect quickly removes itself.

When it is recalled that Apoplexy, Heart Disease, Cancer—and even Consumption—are due to poor digestion and poisons thus transmitted to the blood, and throughout the system—the importance of maintaining good digestion is at once realized.

Ashe's "North Carolina."

No more gratifying testimony to the awakening of the new South has been offered than the great output in recent years of valuable and interesting historical books. Traditional reticence has been overcome in the publication of family memoirs of the older period and of important reminiscences for later days, while the formal historian of institutions and of local events has been busy at work. In the mass of historical production, however, the new "History of North Carolina," by Mr. Samuel A. Court Ashe (Charles L. Van Noppen, Greensboro, N. C.) of which the first volume is before us, stands apart. In scientific method, in impartiality of judgment and in sobriety of language it is fully up to all modern requirements and can hold its own with any product of the colder North.

The first volume ends with the close of the Revolution. The first chapter avoids all controversy regarding the first settlements by presenting the documents in the case with a brief but adequate commentary. All legends are stripped from the lost colony of Croatan and only the known facts are offered. From the real settlement on the author continues to present the ascertained facts without bias, with the citation of authorities on the margin. A signal example of his fairness will be found in the account of the Mecklenburg Declaration of Independence, which, however unsatisfactory to extremists on either side, sums up the case as sane observers must see it. The references throughout are to original authorities. It will be interesting to observe the application of Mr. Ashe's method in the second volume, which will deal with more immediately controversial matters.

The "History of North Carolina" reflects honor on the State whose glorious story it tells, on the author and through him on Southern scholarship.—New York Sun.

Sunshine Philosophy.

"Whatever the weather may be," says he,
Whatever the weather may be,
It's the song ye sing,
And the smiles ye wear,
That's a-making the sun shine everywhere."
—James Whitcomb Riley.

Weston, Ocean-to-Ocean Walker, said recently: "When you feel down and out, feel there is no use living, just take your bad thoughts with you and walk them off. Before you have walked a mile things will look rosier. Just try it." Have you noticed the increase in walking of late in every community? Many attribute it to the comfort which Allen's Foot-Ease, the antiseptic powder to be shaken into the shoes, gives to the millions now using it. As Weston has said, "It has real merit."

The Value of Good Roads.

Hon. William Sulzer, representative in Congress from the tenth district of New York, recently made the following address in the National House of Representatives:

"Mr. Speaker:
"Good roads mean progress and prosperity, a benefit to the people who live in the cities, and an advantage to the people who live in the country, and it will help every section of our vast domain. Good roads, like good streets, make habitation along them most desirable; they enhance the valuation of farm lands, facilitate transportation, and untold wealth to the producers and consumers of the country; they are milestones marking the advance of civilization; they economize time, give labor a lift, and make millions in money; they save wear and tear and worry and waste; they beautify the country—bring it in touch with the city; they aid the social and religious and the educational and the industrial progress of the people; they make better homes and happier hearts; they are the avenues of trade, the highways of commerce, the mail routes of information, and the agencies of speedy communication; they mean the economical transportation of marketable products—maximum burden at the minimum cost; they are the ligaments that bind the country together in thrift and patriotism; they promote social intercourse, prevent intellectual stagnation, and increase the happiness and prosperity of our producing masses, they contribute to the glory of the country, give employment to our idle workmen, distribute to the necessities of life—the products of the fields and the forests and the factories—encourage energy and husbandry, inculcate love for our scenic wonders, and make mankind better and broader and greater and grander."

"The plain people of the land are familiar with the truths of history. They know the past. They realize that often the difference between good roads and bad roads is the difference between profit and loss. Good roads have a money value far beyond our ordinary conception. Bad roads constitute our greatest drawback to internal development and material progress. Good roads mean prosperous farmers; bad roads mean abandoned farms, sparsely settled country districts, and congested populated cities, where the poor are destined to become poorer. Good roads mean more cultivated farms and cheaper food products to the toilers in the towns; bad roads mean poor transportation, lack of communication, high prices for the necessities of life, the loss of untold millions of wealth, and idle workmen seeking employment. Good roads will help those who cultivate the soil and feed the multitude, and whatever aids the producers of our country will increase our wealth and our greatness and benefit all the people. We can not destroy our farms without final decay. They are today the heart of our national life, and the chief source of our material greatness. Tear down every edifice in our cities and labor will rebuild them, but abandon the farms and our cities will despair forever."

"Mr. Chairman, the far-sighted wisdom of Julius Caesar built from the imperial exchequer the magnificent roads that lead in all directions to eternal Rome. The great Napoleon—Caesar like—built the roads of France that center in Paris from the general funds of the government; and the French roads have done more than any other single agency to encourage the thrift and increase the industry and insure the contentment of the people of France. Caesar and Napoleon were the great road builders of ancient and modern times, and their foresight and their judgment and their work demonstrated the beneficial results that follow like the night the day the building of great government highways."

Value of Peas and Clover.

All over the South there are splendid opportunities for the profitable use of the pea for the feeding of stock and the improvement of the soil, and with cow-peas and crimson clover, sandy land in the South can be brought up to the production of two bales of cotton per acre while making a profit in the feeding of live stock. Even if the crop is not saved as hay, the land will receive great benefit, and the farmer likewise, if the live stock are only hogs feeding on the peas and enriching the soil, while making profit in the bacon produced and cured on the place. I have lost none of my enthusiasm for the pea, for the longer I live the more I am convinced that this "clover of the South" has a still greater future before it for the Southern farmer. Will you not let it help you make money this year? —Progressive Farmer.

Some men who talk loudest about the country having an "elastic currency," wouldn't contribute more than a rubber band to get it.

A Call to Arms.

We want the tariff cut in two,
We want an untaxed right to buy,
We want no favors for a few
Paid by the people—you and I.
We want the strictest justice done,
Hew to the line whatever betides,
Be fair, be just with every one.
But—don't disturb the rate on hides.

This tariff is no local fight,
It needs but statesmanship and sense
To bring us out of dark to light
And level this high tariff fence
We want no tariff levied by
A few pet interests with pull,
Strict justice is our only cry
And—don't disturb the rate on wool.

We have paid tribute far too long
To well-fed infant industries.
The principle is wholly wrong
To fat such greedy things as these.
Lay low the wall, let commerce grow,
Until our pulses thrill and feel
The blood of life, let traffic flow
And—don't disturb the rate on steel.

To arms, to arms! The people need
New champions to fight their cause,
'Tis time we checked this horrid greed
Of men for self-made tariff laws.
Be strong, be just, be true, be brave,
Ye men who sit in Congress' hall,
Fight on to glory and the grave,
But—don't disturb OUR rates at all.

"Johnny," said the teacher, "can you give us a definition of the word speculation? A New Back for an Old One—How It Can be Done in Scotland Neck.

The back aches at times with a dull, indescribable feeling, making you weary and restless; piercing pains shoot across the region of the kidneys, and again the loins are so lame to stoop is agony. No use to rub or apply a plaster to the back in this condition. You cannot reach the cause. Exchange the bad back for a new and stronger one. Scotland Neck residents would do well to profit by the following example:

J. Frank Powell, West Tarboro, N. C., says: "I suffered from a severe attack of grippe which left my kidneys disordered. Standing so much during the day greatly aggravated the pains in my back and frequently I was forced to sit down. A dull ache across my loins kept me in almost constant misery, and whenever I attempted to stoop or lift sharp, shooting pains darted through me. I at length procured Doan's Kidney Pills, and can say they gave me relief in a short time. I have not suffered from backache since and my kidneys have been normal. I am pleased to recommend Doan's Kidney Pills to other sufferers."
