Wonders Have Kidney Trouble and Never Suspect It.

How To Find Out. A brick dust sediment, or settling, stringy or milky appearance often indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys; too frequent desire to pass urine or pain in the back are also symptoms that tell you kidneys and bladder are out of order.

What To Do. The greatest comfort in the knowledge so expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's medicine, the great kidney remedy, will cure every ailment in correcting the trouble in every part of the urinary system. Corrects inability to hold water without pain in passing it, or bad taste in the mouth, or the presence of blood in the urine, or the use of liquor, wine or other stimulants that unpleasantly excite the system, or the necessity of going to the toilet at night, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and safe effect of Swamp-Root is remarkable. It stands the highest because it is a natural, vegetable product. If you need it, you should get it. Sold by druggists in fifty-cent bottles. Write for a free sample bottle sent free to you. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. Mention this paper and the name of the newspaper, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

IMPORTANT STEP. Medical Inspection of Schools Well Established.

Medical inspection of school children is now in successful operation in several parts of the State, notably in Guilford, New Hanover, and Durham counties, as well as several of our more important cities and towns. In many other localities the public generally is becoming awakened to a sense of responsibility in this matter. And why not? Of over a quarter of a million school children recently examined it was found that over 21 per cent had defective vision, 49 per cent had defective teeth, and over 27 per cent had diseased tonsils. About the same percentage in our State are more or less infected with hookworm disease. Such conditions, so easily remedied, are not only a disgrace to us, but a crime against our children.

It is a well known fact among doctors, sanitarians, and teachers that when the physical disabilities of children are removed the backward children frequently become the brightest in the school. Our children are surely entitled to the square deal. In many places the examining physician also acts as sanitary lecturer and gives the schools he visits short, instructive talks on sanitation, hygiene, and how to keep well. The child certainly has the right to learn that simplified breathing is more necessary than simplified spelling; that nose plus adenoids equals backwardness, and that a decayed tooth multiplied by ten gives malnutrition. In fact, the question is no longer, Should we have medical inspection of schools? but—

HOW TO SECURE IT. In those progressive counties and cities where the health and lives of school children are now being safeguarded by this work, provision has been made for it by those in authority—the county commissioners and boards of aldermen. But in nearly all instances some one or two or three individuals became interested in this important problem, secured literature from boards of health and ascertained the facts relative to medical inspection of schools. These interested and informed public-spirited people then called the attention of such local organization as the Farmers' Union, Women's Club, Civic League, medical and social societies, to the matter, interested them, and altogether they succeeded in having their governing authorities study the question sufficiently for the authorities to understand the importance of the vital problem in school work; then the county or city government made adequate financial provision to have the work done.

The point for the reader to retain is, that some individual or a very few individuals are responsible, and deserve the credit, for this important work which is now being taken up by our progressive cities and counties.

Write to the State Board of Health for information on this phase of sanitation, and start a movement for this work in your county. How can you better meet the opportunities of the wide-awake citizen?

"It's positively disgusting!"
"What is?"
"The way people crowd to a theater to see an improper play. Just think! They've sold out the house for three weeks in advance!"
"How do you know?"
"I tried to purchase tickets and couldn't."—London Opinion.

ART EXHIBIT AT GRADED SCHOOL. An Opportunity to See Reproductions of Some of the Greatest Masterpieces in the World.

The teachers of the graded school have arranged to have an Art Exhibit in the Library and auditorium from Wednesday, November 29th to Saturday, December 2nd. 200 pictures from the galleries of the Horace K. Turner Company will be exhibited. It will be worth the time and a great deal more than the small admission charge for every man, woman and child of Scotland Neck to see these pictures. They are reproductions of masterpieces that our people will doubtless never have an opportunity of seeing again unless they visit the art galleries in some of our largest cities.

Art Exhibit Catalogues illustrated by half-tones and colors may be secured from children who have been appointed from each grade to sell them, 10c each. One of these catalogues should be in every home. They are educative in themselves as they give the history of many of these famous pictures.

The purpose of the exhibit is to raise money to buy pictures for our class rooms and halls. We have a beautiful new school building, but children can not be taught the highest ideals surrounded by bare walls. We trust to have the patronage and co-operation of all parents and friends of the children.

Printed below are some press notices from cities where the Exhibit has been held. The fine arts exhibition of the season here in Boston opened yesterday morning in the Art Club galleries, in the shape of a collection of works suitable for school decoration. The object is an important one, and the collection admirably illustrates the purpose. The subjects are well chosen, and indicate how rich a variety of material is available. The landscape photographs of American scenery are particularly good, and the views of Moorish architecture are the most beautiful ever shown here.—Boston Sunday Herald.

The exhibition of art photographs which opened in City Hall this morning represents the finest thing in this line which has ever visited Springfield, and merits a good attendance.—Springfield Union.

Without a doubt one of the finest art exhibitions ever presented in this country is that to be given in the art gallery of the Rhode Island school of Design during the coming week. An opening reception was given last evening, to which all persons holding season tickets were admitted, and very many people throughout the city who are especially interested in art took advantage of the opportunity to enjoy a quiet inspection of this admirable exhibition.

Those who visited the gallery last evening were struck with the beauty and artistic merit of the scene presented. All the pictures are reproduced directly from originals by the most scientific and modern methods of reproduction. They are all illustrative of objects of world-wide interest and of great educational value, and especially suitable for schoolroom decoration.—Providence Sunday Telegram.

THE ARTIFICIAL ARM. Pretty Fair in Some Respects But Not in It With the One Nature Provides.

The demand for artificial arms has increased if anything more rapidly than that for artificial legs. The growing use of machinery in manufactures, the mowing and reaping machines on the farm, the use of high explosives and again the railroad, the trolley car and the motor car, all stimulate business for the artificial limb maker. Substitute arms are of ancient invention. Pliny tells how M. Sergius had one away back in the second century B. C. and used it for holding his shield in battle.

But the wearers of these ancient artificial members would have formed a strong arm contingent in one way at least since the substitutes they wore were made of steel, copper and leather and weighed from 20 to 30 pounds. The modern article is made of rubber, wood, rawhide, leather and metal and weighs from one to two and a half pounds. The arm that is made to order, and especially the hand attached to it is not any great shakes, though, compared with the one nature provides. The most that can be said for it is that it will perform some simple but very helpful acts, it will look better than an empty sleeve and it produces, by affording exercise, a more healthful condition in what remains of the real arm.

Some persons have learned to write with an artificial hand. There are carpenters who hold a nail, drive a plane or carry tools with one and they are more or less useful in every case, depending chiefly on the personality of the wearer. "Artificial hands should always be gloved," says the man who makes them. "Otherwise nobody will ever be mistaken about them. The natural hand is always changing color and appearance. It has a different tint in the morning from that in the afternoon. It looks different under a sunny sky from what it does under a cloudy one. It is totally unlike when hanging at the side what it is when raised to the face. It is always varying and the two hands—if one is of wax or rubber, or wood—won't look any more alike than black and white. Hence the glove."

FREE IF IT FAILS.
Your Money Back if You are not satisfied with the Medicine We Recommend.

We are so positive that our remedy will permanently relieve constipation, no matter how chronic it may be, that we offer to furnish the medicine at our expense should it fail to produce satisfactory results.

It is worse than useless to attempt to cure constipation with cathartic drugs. Laxatives or cathartics do much harm. They cause a reaction, irritate, and weaken the bowels and tend to make constipation more chronic. Besides, their use becomes a habit that is dangerous.

Constipation is caused by a weakness of the nerves and muscles of the large intestine or descending colon. To expect permanent relief you must therefore tone up and strengthen these organs and restore them to healthier activity.

We want you to try Rexall Orderlies on our recommendation. They are exceedingly pleasant to take, being eaten like candy, and are ideal for children, delicate persons, and old folks, as well as for the robust. They act directly on the nerves and muscles of the bowels. They apparently have a neutral action on other associate organs or glands. They do not purge, cause excessive looseness, nor create any inconvenience whatever. They may be taken at any time, day or night. They will positively relieve chronic or habitual constipation, if not of surgical variety, and the myriads of associate or dependant ailments, if taken with regularity for a reasonable length of time. 12 tablets, 10 cents; 36 tablets, 25 cents; 80 tablets, 50 cents. Sold in Scotland Neck only at our store—The Rexall Store. E. T. Whitehead Company.

A Father's Vengeance.
Would have fallen on any one who attacked the son of Peter Bondy, of South Rockwood, Mich., but he was powerless before attacks of kidney trouble. "Doctors could not help him," he wrote, "so at last we gave him Electric Bitters and he improved wonderfully from taking six bottles. It's the best kidney medicine I ever saw." Backache, Tired feeling, Nervousness, Loss of Appetite, warn of kidney trouble that may end in dropsy, diabetes or Bright's disease. Beware! Take Electric Bitters and be safe. Every bottle guaranteed. 50c at E. T. Whitehead Co.

Sentiment and Law. An elderly man and woman in Kansas City stepped out from their cheap boarding house the other Sunday evening and went to one of the city parks for a quiet visit.

They strolled about the park, like two lovers, forgetting for the moment all their troubles in their "Dear Togetherness." In an unguarded and uncautious moment they kissed each other. An eagle-eyed policeman espied, their osculatory caress, and haled them into court therefor. A law provides that there must be no kissing in public in that State. It is not likely that the law was ever intended to prevent a husband from kissing his wife if he was suddenly moved so to do. But there is always some officious policeman and some withered-up judge at hand to read into law all the inhuman inconvenience of which it is capable. So this man and his wife were both sentenced to pay a fine of $100 each or take it out in the workhouse.

Poor fond foolish old people! When will they ever learn that sentiment is not consonant with law? Think of the hideous and insidious menace lurking in the kiss a wife gives a husband. Mayhap some younger couple, chancing to spy upon that sacred ceremony, would dream dreams of a day to come when far down the journey of life they should still feel the morning splendor in their unaging hearts and the old love suddenly leap to its first-born wonder in a kiss! And this sort of thing is certainly not proper in a country where marriage is so widely looked upon as but a temporary indisposition.—Wisconsin State Journal.

No Room for Mud-Slinging.
The Asheboro Courier intimates that the North Carolina Senatorial campaign has already reached the mud-slinging stage in some sections. This is to be regretted. The writer personally knows all four candidates—Simmons, Aycock, Kitchin and Clark—and knows, as all their acquaintances know, that all four are clean in life and speech, free from any habit of dissipation or intemperance, and free, too, from taint of scandal or corruption. Any charge against the moral character of any one of them may be promptly branded as false and vicious, and any such attempt at mud-slinging should react on those who attempt it. We have clean candidates; let us have a clean campaign.—The Progressive Farmer.

There's nothing so good for a sore throat as Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil. Cures it in a few hours. Relieves any pain in any part.

Marks—Speaking of aviators, who is it holds the endurance record? Parks—Elijah, I guess. He certainly holds the record for staying up.—Boston Transcript.

"I do not believe there is any other medicine so good for whooping cough as Chamberlain's Cough Remedy," writes Mrs. Frances Turpin, Junction City, Ore. This remedy is also unsurpassed for colds and croup.

Use Speed in Making Biscuit.
In making biscuit, add the liquid last, using all possible haste after the liquid is added. In mixing, use the hands as little as possible, pressing lightly with the rolling pin, cutting with a biscuit cutter, and hurrying the dough to a hot oven while the gas still remains in the mixture. "Speed" should be the motto in making biscuit.—From Mrs. Stevens' article on Bread-Making, in The Progressive Farmer.
