

Do You Get Up With a Lame Back?

Kidney Trouble Makes You Miserable.

Almost everyone knows of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy, because of its remarkable health restoring properties. Swamp-Root fulfills almost every wish in overcoming rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. It corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often through the day, and to get up many times during the night.

Swamp-Root is not recommended for everything but if you have kidney, liver or bladder trouble, it will be found just the remedy you need. It has been thoroughly tested in private practice, and has proved so successful that a special arrangement has been made by which all readers of this paper, who have not already tried it, may have a sample bottle sent free by mail, also a book telling more about Swamp-Root, and how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper and send your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., 1000 1/2 Broadway, Binghamton, N. Y. The regular fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles are sold by all druggists. Don't make any mistake but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

Our Candidate for Lieutenant Governor.

WALTER E. DANIEL.

We wish to present to the State, and especially to the Democratic party, as a candidate on the State ticket, at the election to be held in November, 1912, for the office of Lieutenant Governor, a man whom we esteem, and one whom we consider admirably fitted for any office within the gift of the people of North Carolina.

In order that the people of the State, and especially those who by right of franchise given them, have it in their power to say who shall occupy these high places of trust and honor, we wish to write these facts in regard to this man, his life, his qualifications, and his fitness for the position within their gift. This is no stereotyped campaign matter sent out by an aspiring candidate to be paid for by the line or space, but the honest expression of respect and appreciation which we feel for a man whom we have known from childhood and whose life among us has been an open book.

Walter Eugene Daniel was born in Weldon, N. C., August 14, 1859. Being for years the only living child of parents of ample means he was given every advantage necessary to develop an already bright mind, we see him at an early age a student of Wake Forest College, from which institution he graduated at the age of eighteen years with the degree of Master of Arts and also with the first honor of his class. Upon his return from college he began the study of law in the office of Captain W. H. Day, one of the first lawyers of North Carolina. He afterwards entered the law school of Judge Geo. V. Strong, of Raleigh, and after standing a successful examination before the Supreme Court in June 1880 his license for the practice of law was withheld until he became twenty-one years old in the following August.

In January, 1881, he began the practice of law in Halifax county, with his office in Weldon, and has lived all his life among his own people in his native town and county.

At this time Halifax county was overwhelmingly Republican, but knowing the peculiar endowments of the young attorney, the leaders of the Democratic party in 1882 urged him to become their candidate for the Legislature, and so he entered politics as leader of the "forlorn hope," and although he was defeated he no doubt planted seed in that campaign which helped to redeem Halifax county from the rule of ignorance and corruption with which it was cursed for so many years.

In spite of his defeat he was elected the next year by the Board of Magistrates as solicitor of the Inferior Court and held this office for two terms.

In 1890 he was made attorney for the Board of County Commissioners and held this position until January, 1895.

In the revolution in county and State politics which began just previous to this he was elected Solicitor of the Second Judicial District in 1894, being one of the few Democrats elected, was re-elected in 1898, and again in 1902, resigned the office just before the election in 1906, and at that election was elected to the State Senate from Halifax county. In that body he was Chairman of the Judiciary Committee and took a prominent part in the legislation concerning railroad rate regulation and was afterwards of the attorneys for the State in the litigation with the railroads which followed the reduction of passenger fares and freight rates.

At the special session of 1908 he favored the compromise that had been agreed upon between Governor Glenn and the railroad companies and took part in the solution of this question.

So much for the political career of our candidate from which we see that he is no novice in the political arena, but a man well armed and equipped, able to guide and direct, and as Lieutenant Governor and President of the senate he could decide all questions with cool judgment and wise deliberation, no matter how difficult the problem to be considered.

As a man and citizen his life has been exemplary in the highest degree. From young manhood, a member of the Baptist Church, he has become a leader in its councils and a liberal supporter of its every enterprise, and, charitable and kind, he has always been ready to help every worthy cause, while a large hearted hospitality is dispensed with a lavish hand to all who enter his home.

Since the revolution in politics heretofore referred to Halifax county has recovered her anti-bellum prestige in many respects and is now one of the largest, wealthiest, most progressive and most strongly Democratic counties in the State, and while she has sons like Mr. Daniel worthy to become successors to the illustrious statesmen of the past, she has had no representative on the State ticket since the war.

In urging Mr. Daniel's name for the position of Lieutenant-Governor we feel that it would be only just to him, to the Democratic party of the county of Willie Jones, of Governor

Hutchings G. Burton, of Governor Branch, of Justice J. J. Daniel, of Andrew Joyner, and of our many other eminent statesmen that this long deferred honor should be ours. For these and many other reasons we respectfully urge our claims upon the Democratic primaries and we honestly feel that should the mantle of these men of the past fall upon our friend and fellow townsman he would wear the dignity as worthily as any who have preceded him in that office.—Roanoke News.

The Robeson Plan.

The farmers of Robeson county held a meeting Saturday, at which they agreed not to plant more than 60 per cent of their land in cotton. A feature of the meeting was a speech by Mr. A. W. McLean. As reported in The Robesonian, he declared that "if a man could control the time merchants of the South he could control the cotton acreage." The landlord may tell his tenant that he wants him to plant so and so and everybody else may preach reduction of cotton acreage, but if the merchant to whom he looks for supplies tells him he must plant so much cotton or he gets nothing from him—there you are; in the cotton goes, just as much as the merchant says. The lien law is responsible, too, for labor conditions, said Mr. McLean, and everybody knows he was right again. A negro with a house full of children and no land can get more credit than a man who owns a thousand acres of land, and as long as this condition stands you can't do anything with them. The matter having been put to the merchants, they agreed to organize the Cotton States Merchants and Business Men's Association, to be composed of all the merchants of Robeson county. This association will not sell credit supplies to farmers who will not agree to plant 40 per cent of their land in crops other than cotton. If two things happen Robeson will have a smaller cotton crop next year. These two things are: If the farmers will stick to their 60 per cent and the merchants to their 40 per cent. The plan may succeed in part, but we fear it will fail as a whole.—Charlotte Chronicle.

Put Your Money in a Bank.

It is good advice which a Colletan County, S. C., exchange gives in urging farmers to start bank accounts this fall, no matter how small the amount left over after the year's debts are paid. We quote: "If one keeps money in his pocket, it is likely to go and he will never know how it goes; so though you have only ten dollars in your pocket, go to one of our banks and start a bank account. To have money in a bank will give one a feeling of independence nothing else can give. Do not think that because you have only five or ten dollars to start an account the cashier will not want your deposit. Any cashier will gladly welcome you as a depositor if you have but one dollar.

We hope thousands of our readers will follow this excellent counsel. Having a bank account (1) encourages the saving habit, (2) dignifies the farmer by making him more of a "business man," (3) provides a better system of paying out money than specie payments, (4) helps the community in which one lives, and (5) makes it easier for the depositor to borrow in case borrowing instead of depositing sometimes becomes advisable.

Put your money in the bank.—The Progressive Farmer.

DON'T SPEND IT ALL.

Lay Aside Part of Your Earnings Regularly and Watch It Grow.

When you see an advertisement of the savings department of a bank let it be a clarion call to you to start an account, if you have not already started one. No matter how small. Put something away for the "rainy day" that is surely coming. We noticed such an advertisement, which says: "The hardest thing about saving is the start." And that is true, as all who have made the start can testify. The proverbial attitude of youth toward the future is one of sublime confidence and optimism. The years seem long and the opportunities appear unlimited. It is easy to assume there is plenty of time to begin saving later in life. But somehow the years slip by and two many people never make the start. Then comes the time of reckoning when the mature man realizes what a boon it would have been had he begun to save in the rosy, promising days of his youth.

The way to do it is simple, and savings accounts nowadays are open to all. It is a universal opportunity to make money by the elemental process of not spending it. Too many young men commit the fatal mistake of considering the advice to save as old-fashioned and out of date. They want to have their fling, and somehow the saving person assumes some of the attributes of the "tight-wad." It is customary to hear young men say with a sneer that so-and-so "ought to have money because he never spends a cent." And this sort of false reasoning puts the wrong light upon the whole scheme of saving. A man can save without being stingy or mean.

Look at it in a sensible light. The savings account is a strict business proposition and the sooner the young man learns this the better it will be for him. It is a form of insurance that he cannot afford to be without, and it is a form of investment that pays well in interest. The savings account is a barometer of self-respect. As the account grows there is a reflection of it in the bearing and character of its owner. A bank account, honestly acquired, has more than a money value, for it gives a man stability and confidence in the battle of life. The bank account asks no favors; it demands no sacrifices, and, in time of trouble, it is ever at hand—a friend in time of need that can be depended upon.

It should be taught the children early in life. Parents of young men should insist upon the savings account as an early step toward good citizenship and financial independence. Not only should parents see that their children who are earning make the start, but they should demand an accounting once in every little while in order to keep the account growing. This would help the young man and the young woman over the first hard start. Saving is a habit, and one of the most useful habits that can be aquired early in life. Once firmly established, the habit will lead on ultimately to affluence. Everybody must save if he would thrive, and those who begin early have better assurance of a competency. Any young man who may doubt this assertion should just ask the first mature and successful business man he meets. Young man, start the New Year right by opening up a savings account with some one of the excellent banks near you.—Greensboro Daily News.

Wrong Ideals of Home-Making.

I know a farmer whose wealth is estimated at forty or fifty thousand dollars, who buys blooded stock, drives a fine turnout and whose farm presents a prosperous appearance. I had occasion to call upon the sick wife confined to her room. No experience has ever been more shocking than the sight of that bed room. The room was a scene of filth and discomfort, flies swarmed, a sweltering sun beat upon the windows protected only by a set of ragged, useless shades; there was insufficient bed linen for even a pretence of neatness or comfort for the sick one; badly cooked food added to the discomfort and disorder which reigned supreme.—Miss Stevens in The Progressive Farmer.

How to Punctuate.

A simple rule of punctuation, which we have observed to be widely prevalent, is to put some sort of a mark about every so often. The Kansas City Journal learns of a young apprentice printer whose system, although somewhat elaborate and exacting, is nevertheless, we have no doubt, found to work admirably. Said this apprentice: "I set as long as I can hold my breath and then put a comma, when I gape I insert a semi-colon, and when I want a chew of tobacco I make a paragraph."—North Carolina Review.

Protect Eggs Against Cholera.

Hog cholera is the greatest obstacle to successful hog raising. Loss of feed may cause more losses in the South than cholera, but an abundance of feed can be produced cheaply by any one who wants it, while even the most intelligent management will not always protect against cholera. If cholera is in your neighbor's herd do not wait until it breaks out in yours before having your hogs treated with the anti-cholera serum. Or if it breaks out in your own herd take the well ones to new quarters where no hogs have been kept recently and treat with serum as soon as possible. Few of our States have provided the necessary means for the manufacture of sufficient serum to supply the demands—a short-sighted policy of false economy, but your local veterinarian may be able to secure the serum from some commercial house which makes it.—The Progressive Farmer.

BALD HEADS NOT WANTED.

Baldness is too Generally Considered a Sign of Advanced Age.

A bald-headed person does not have an equal chance with one blessed with a healthy head of hair, because baldness is too generally accepted as an indication of age. Many large corporations have established an age limit, and refuse to take men over 35 years of age as new employees.

Probably 65 per cent of bald-headed people may regain a good head of healthy hair if they will follow our advice and accept our offer. We have a remedy that we positively guarantee to grow hair on any head, unless the roots of the hair are entirely dead, their follicles closed, and the scalp has become glazed and shiny. We want people to try this remedy at our risk, with the distinct understanding that unless it does exactly what we claim it will, and gives satisfaction in every respect, we shall make no charge for the remedy used during the trial.

BEAUTY TRUTHS.

Pimples, Sallowness, Blisters and Dull Eyes Caused by Stomach.

Beauty is only skin deep, but that's deep enough to satisfy most women, also men.

In order to keep the skin in a clear, clean, healthy condition, the stomach must supply the blood plenty of nutrition. As long as the stomach is out of order and the blood lacks proper nourishment, the skin will be affected.

If you want a perfect skin that you will be proud of, take a week's treatment of MI-O-NA stomach tablets.

Get a fifty cent box today, and if you are not satisfied after a week's treatment, you can have your money back.

For any stomach ailment MI-O-NA is guaranteed. It gives almost instant relief and permanently cures.

Nature's Law.

The law of nature is that a certain quantity of work is necessary to produce a certain quantity of good of any kind whatever. If you want good hair, you must tell for it; if you want a good complexion, you must tell for it;—Pushkin.

Ends Winter's Troubles.

To many, winter is a season of trouble. The frost-bitten face and fingers, chapped hands and lips, chilblains, cold sores, red and rough skin, prove this.
