

A Severe Sickness Leaves The Kidneys Weak.

After recovering from a severe sickness some time ago, I was again laid up and suffering from kidney trouble. I would have pains in my back and hips and my kidneys were not doing all the time. I started on Scott's Emulsion upon the recommendation of a friend and found what I needed. My blood was purified and after taking a few bottles I was surprised at the results. I had on my kidneys. They were cured and I have much more energy for that year great than I had for me.

The Supreme Need of The Age.

Hitherto the Old North State has pre-eminently stood for making of men, men of courage and convictions, men who could justify their standpoint as one which had not to do exclusively with self, but had largely to do with the community. From our her borders in every commonwealth of the republic these men, stalwart in body, in mind and conscience, have preached the gospel of the republic—freedom of thought, freedom of speech and freedom of action, regardless of personal aggrandizement.

This University has hitherto been justified by her children. It is not impossible to maintain high ideals and at the same time to succeed. If however, there is not instilled into a man by academic training enough of patience, forbearance and courage to discredit personal success when a principle is at stake, then the institution has not sent forth a cultivated man. Each age has its prime need as it has its unleashed passion. The unleashed passion of to-day is for social success at any price. The growing need of to-day is for cultured men who know and dare to maintain the right. May the citadel of principle build here an hundred years ago never surrender to the storming forces of expediency. May men full of the rich blood of high ideals continue to be sent into the world. Whatever else, wherever else the children of the Old North State may get, here let them continue to get wisdom and understanding.

—Vice-President Marshall at the University of North Carolina.

Parcels Post Changes.

Three important changes in the parcel post service make their advent with July 1st. Special parcel post stamps will no longer be required and either the ordinary stamp or the special parcel post stamp may be used for transmitting packages. The fee for insuring parcel post packages has been reduced to five cents for amounts not exceeding five dollars. Then, in addition, a collect on delivery system has been organized. On these packages the sender must pay the postage in full, but may have the receiving office collect a sum not to exceed one hundred dollars from the addressee upon delivery. The postmaster makes the collection and remits by money order. The transaction must take place, however, between two money order offices.

These changes will have the effect of broadening the scope of the service and making it more valuable still to citizens in their intercourse with each other. —Free Press.

Getting Information.

The Pathfinder quotes the following dialogue:
"I'm pleased to meet you. Did I understand that your name is Miss Greengirl?"

"Yes, Greengirl."
"Have you lived here very long?"
"About four years."
"Where do you work?"
"I'm employed in a broker's office."

"Stenographer, I presume?"
"Yes."
"Mother and father living?"
"Yes."
"That's your own complexion, I presume."
"Sir!"
"Do you make your own dresses?"
"I never was so insulted in my life! What do you mean by asking me such a lot of personal questions. And at our first meeting, too."

"I'm sorry if I have offended you, but you see I might pass you on the street some day when I'm out walking with my wife. If I should speak to you those are only a few of the questions she'll ask me about you, and I'd like to be able to answer them."

Webb Law.

Attorney-General McReynolds has declared the Webb law regarding interstate shipments of liquor not a criminal statute, and has sent instructions to all United States attorneys to begin no prosecutions under it. "Its purpose," says the Attorney-General, "is to permit State laws to operate in respect of intoxicating liquors moving in interstate commerce." In this connection it may be noted that the destruction of blockade stills goes on at a lively pace in North Carolina. One day last week seven were destroyed in one section of the state. —State Journal.

What, baseball over in Barcelona? At last bull fighting is doomed. There is hope for old Spain yet.

Salt Makes the Sea Blue.

The blueness of sea water is in constant ratio to its saltiness. In the tropics the tremendous evaporation induced by the blazing sun causes the water to be much saltier than it is in high altitudes. For about thirty degree north and south of the equator the waters are of an exquisite azure. Beyond these latitudes the blue changes to green and in the Arctic and Antarctic oceans the green are almost as vivid as tropical blues.

The extraordinary blueness of the Mediterranean has two causes. Few large rivers of fresh water run into this sea, and, moreover, the Mediterranean is virtually landlocked and exposed to a powerful sun, so that evaporation is rapid. By actual test the waters of the Mediterranean are heavier and saltier than those of the Atlantic ocean. But blue and green are not the only colors observed in the sea. In January, 1909, a river of yellow water three miles wide was observed running parallel with the blue Gulf stream. It stretched from Cape Florida to Cape Hatteras, and its color was undoubtedly due to some tremendous submarine upheaval, probably volcanic.

Again, nine years ago, the sea turned almost black off a large part of the California coast. The whole of Santa Cruz bay assumed this extraordinary inky hue, and fishing came abruptly to an end. The darkness seemed to have been caused by millions of the tiny animalcules, known as whale food. The dull reddish tint that has given the Red sea its name has a similar cause. The water becomes full of microscopic algae—tiny weeds. The yellow sea of China is usually supposed to owe its color to the flood of muddy water that its greater river pours into it. But there again living organisms are responsible for the peculiar tint. Occasionally, for some cause yet undiscovered, great areas of the ocean turn milky white. In March, 1904, a Japanese merchant vessel, steaming at night between Hong Kong and Yokohama, ran into a snow white sea. It was not an opaque phosphorescent surface, but of an expanse of pure snow white that dazzled the eyes. The phenomenon lasted for six hours. —The Marine Journal.

Sheep Go Four Months Without Water.

Washington, July 8.—Sheep on the Nebo national forest, Utah, go four and a half months without water except for such moisture as they get from the dew and the juices of forage plants. Grazing sheep on a range entirely destitute of water is a recent innovation due to the increasing demand for forage and the efforts of the forest officers to find a place on the forest ranges for all the stock that can safely be admitted. The area on the Nebo which has now proved unsuitable by sheep is high and rocky, a portion of it being above timber line, and it has neither springs nor streams of sufficient size or accessibility to be used for stock watering purposes. The grazing season lasts from June 15 to October 31, and during this period of four and a half months the animals do not get a drink.

Under such conditions, however, the sheep have done extremely well, and last year's lambs from this range had an average weight at the close of the season of 68 pounds on the Chicago market, which was rather above the normal weight from that vicinity.

In one area on the Targhee forest in Idaho sheep get water only twice during the four months summer grazing season. There is no water on the range, but the sheep are driven to a nearby stream lower down the mountain side. Lambs from this range weighed 65 pounds on the Chicago market.

English and Irish "Bulls."

On the bank of a small river in Ireland is a stone bearing the following inscription:
"When this stone is out of sight it is not safe to ford the river."
But this is surpassed by the famous post erected some years ago by the surveyors of an English road. It reads:
"This is the bridge path to Faversham; if you can't read this you had better keep to the main road."

The Best Medicine in the World.

General Carr Delighted With the Great Reunion.

Gettysburg, Pa., July 2.—General Julian S. Carr, commanding the North Carolina veterans, said last night:
"Few men can comprehend or take in what it means to care for 50,000 feeble men. Many of them need almost as much attention as a child, and yet I see from mingling with these men as I do that every want, every care that is possible has been provided for. I have been to every reunion for the past thirty years, but the gathering here this week is the finest, the most royal and most liberal of them all. The world has never seen anything to equal this great reunion. Every veteran here will go home with a nobler, kinder and better feeling toward the men who opposed each other at Culp's Hill, Little Round Top, Willoughby and Devil's Den."

One Look Enough.

When Louis Brill, an elevator operator of 131 East Twelfth street, was arraigned in special sessions on a charge of stealing three days ago a bundle of dry goods valued at $16.17 from aHudson County express truck driven by Samuel Levine he was asked by the clerk of the court if he had any explanation to make.

"I met a man on the street," said Brill, "and he gave me a quarter to hold the bundle for him."
"Take a good look at the judges," suggested the clerk. "Do they appear likely to believe a story like that?"

The prisoner glanced in the direction of Justices Collins, Hermann, and McInery. "I plead guilty," he said.

He was remanded for a week for investigation. —The New York Sun.
