BRITISH GIRLS USE "MAKE-UP"

By Associated Press
London, April 29.—The British "land girl" of the war, who is once more a town girl, has returned to the use of "make-up."

Artful make-up, in the opinion of a London business woman who champions the practice, is essential. "There is no room," she told an interviewer, "for the wash-on, tired-looking woman in the business world. Even if she is delicate she must not look delicate. A little rouge, very faintly applied, will give her an appearance of health and brightness which goes a long way with an employer."

"I assure you that hundreds of girls who are never suspected of the fact by outsiders habitually 'make up.' But they do it so perfectly that they deceive the opposite sex, and large numbers of their own sex, too. Obvious make-up is vulgar and would be of great disadvantage."

Messrs. S. A. Dunn and Hugh Johnson left here by car this afternoon for Wake Forest and Raleigh on a business trip.
