SCIENTISTS ELIMINATE ENGINE KNOCKS WITH CHEMICALS

(By Associated Press)
Pittsburgh, Pa., Sept. 6.—Sea-weed kelp, automobile engines, and just plain milk were the widely different subjects discussed at the opening day of the American Chemical Society convention now being held here.

On the platform before the delegates, where usually symphony orchestras perform, a motor engine afflicted with "knocking" played the chief overture of the day, while chemists listened, as intently as opera lovers do to "Carmen," to the effect of the introduction of a chemical compound, invented by Thomas Midgley, Jr., and T. A. Boyd, of Dayton, on the "knocking" disorders.

"Chemicals whose action is similar to those known as 'catalysts,' even if present only in the most minute quantities," said Mr. Boyd, "can eliminate to a great degree the knocking which is most injurious to engines." The gasoline symphony played on cylinders was to prove his contention.

Sea-weed-kelp, which contains iodine and other elements common in sea-water and believed to be beneficial in preventing goitre, was explained to be a necessary part of the diet of those who live so far inland as to be deprived of sea food in quantities.

J. W. Turrentine, whose activities resulted in the establishment of the kelp industry on the Pacific coast, introduced the sea-weed kelp in its new role to the chemists. "The new form," he said, "admits of cheap preparation and preservation, and is easily available for the afflicted people of all countries."

Housewives' uncertainty as to the youth or age of the contents of the bottle found with the newspaper on the porch each morning is the reason for the prominent part of milk in today's meeting. "Methylene blue," a dye, is cleverer and more sure than the nose in detecting the age of milk," said Minnie F. Bressler, who demonstrated the action of the dye in discoloring old milk and remaining perfectly clear in new. Seven other dyes may be used with equal success, the scientists say.

"Flying Parson" Killed Yesterday In Airplane Crash

MAMMOTH BRIDGE FORMAL- LY OPENED TO THE PUBLIC

MANY NOTABLES FROM ALL PARTS OF THE STATE PRESENT AT OPENING OF WILLIAMSTON BRIDGE YESTERDAY.

One of the greatest engineering achievements in the history of public road building in this State, and no doubt in any other state was, formally completed yesterday when the Williamston bridge across Roanoke River was opened to the public in the presence of Governor Cameron Morrison, Hon. Josephus Daniel, Chairman Page and members of the State Highway Commission, Colonel Benehan Cameron, and others.

The project is about four miles in length, all told, with two distinct bridges; one, a draw-bridge, across the river and the other across a stream and low grounds on the Bertie County side. All along the sides of the fifteen foot embankment piles are driven along which is placed a railing for safety, all of which is whitewashed, and with the reinforced concrete bridges and railings, makes a beautiful sight to behold.

The completion of this project will mean much to the territory on either side of the river and will bring "the lost counties" to the North of the River in touch with their fellow statesmen to the South.

London, Sept. 5.—Great Britain's portion of the Boxer indemnity, amounting the Daily Mail understands, to £11,000,000 and due next December, will be used to found a college either in Great Britain or in China under British administration for Chinese students. LIEUTENANT BELVIN W. MAYNARD, A NORTH CAROLINIAN, KNOWN THROUGHOUT THE COUNTRY AS THE "FLYING PARSON," AND WHO WON THE FAMOUS CROSS COUNTRY RACE TO CALIFORNIA, LOST HIS LIFE IN AN AIRPLANE CRASH YESTERDAY.

(By Associated Press)
Rutland, Vt., Sept. 7.—For a crowd of 30,000 people assembled at the Rutland Fair Grounds this afternoon, a "Flying Circus" staged with aeroplanes and balloons was turned into a tragedy, four participants meeting death. Lieutenant Belvin W. Maynard, known throughout the country as the "Flying Parson" and three others lost their lives.

Lieutenant Maynard, who is a North Carolinian, was a student at Wake Forest College, N. C., at the outbreak of the recent war and entered the aviation section, serving in France.

After the war he kept up his flying, as well as his work as a parson. Two weeks ago he soared up over the Hudson River with L. Wilson Bertrand, another noted flier, and Miss Helea Virginia Lent, and while in the air made them man and wife, star east, headed by Mary Carr.

Rutland, Vt., Sept. 8.—The body of Lieutenant Belvin W. Maynard, the "Flying Parson," who was killed with two companions in a plane accident yesterday, is today homeward bound for Kerr, North Carolina.

NORWAY'S KING IS NOT ALLIED WITH SOCIALISTS

(By Associated Press)
Christiania, Sept. 7.—The newspaper Tidens Tegn, in an editorial article on the political situation published August 4, explains the alliance between the Norwegian cabinet and the Socialist party as follows:

"The Cabinet, whose party had been reduced to 37 of the 150 members of the Storting, or parliament, asked for and received the support of the Socialists and the young Communist party, whose parliamentary entrance was marked by the failure of the general strike. This party, therefore, was in need of an arbitration law so as not to overtax its promises to the laborers, and it was on this platform that the Communists and the special cabinet party came together. They cooperated satisfactorily from the beginning on questions of finance and taxation. The strongest connecting link was the prohibition policy."

Recent correspondence on Norway's internal political situation made it appear that King Haakon had allied himself with the Communists. This is not correct. This can be said only of his cabinet, struggling to get a majority in the Storting. The King himself takes absolutely no part in the forming of party alliances. He is chief executive through any cabinet formed and supported by the majority of the Storting. This body is responsible for the kind of cabinet the King gets, even if its course results in a cabinet dependent for its existence upon support by a communistic faction.

King Haakon always has lived up to the constitution, and he never has tried to influence the formation of a cabinet, or to direct its policy in any way. He is not to be held responsible for any act of the government; this responsibility rests entirely upon the cabinet.

Boys Need No Longer Run Away To Sea

(By Associated Press)
Stockholm, Sept. 8.—A new help to Swedish lads considering their life occupation, and probably a unique thing in the world, is the system recently inaugurated whereby young men are allowed to try out service in the Swedish Royal Navy voluntarily and without being under oath, in order to find out whether they are called to the life of a naval officer or not.

College men 16 or 17 years of age who think they may want to enter the navy after graduation go aboard battleships and smaller naval craft so cadets under instruction. Every mess with the crew and work under their meals and may pick up their bags and go ashore for good whenever they please. They not only get a practical knowledge of the duties of ordinary seamen, but they also post the watch, serve as coxswains of the ship's boats, and in general test out their abilities to command.

The battleship Queen Victoria and the station ship Svea, and a number of smaller vessels are providing this unusual opportunity for young men, who, may in the end discover that they are better fitted to become statesmen than naval officers. Thus this vocational innovation is beneficial to the navy as well as to the youth, who is given a chance to avoid making a mistake.

CHILE GOES ON RECORD AS OPPOSED TO ARMAMENTS

(By Associated Press)
Santiago, Chile, Sept. 8.—The government of Chile has taken definite steps to bring about the inclusion of the question of the limitation of naval and land armaments throughout South America in the program of the Pan American conference to be held in this city next March. Formal announcement has been made to the committee on disarmament of the League of Nations, at Paris, by Manuel Rivas Vicuña, the Chilean delegate, to the effect that Chile was proceeding to this end.

The Chilean Foreign office, in this connection, calls attention again to the agreement with Argentina made 20 years ago in which the limitation of armaments was a feature. This convention set forth, among other things, that in order to set at rest any cause of inquietude or suspicion, both Argentina and Chile would desist from purchasing new warships and would not accept warships already ordered; that both would reduce existing naval forces and not increase them for a period of five years without 18 months notice to the other party to the convention, and that neither party would send a warship to any power having a pending question with the other party.
