GOVERNOR'S MESSAGE.

GENTLEMEN OF THE SENATE AND OF THE HOUSE OF COMMONS:

I regret that a severe and painful illness, from which I am still suffering, has prevented me from preparing for your consideration, a more full and detailed statement of the condition of public affairs...

Let us, then, omit nothing which may be deemed necessary, or even expedient, to attain the great end we have in view, to wit, the complete restoration of the state in all its constitutional relations to the common government.

Under the provisions of an ordinance passed by the convention at its late session, I have appointed the Hon. B. F. Moore, the Hon. Richard S. Donnell, and William S. Mason, Esq., commissioners to prepare and report to the legislature...

FROM WASHINGTON. The Forthcoming Message.

WASHINGTON, Monday, Nov. 27, 1865. THE OPENING CONGRESS—COURSE OF THE CLERK, MR. M'PHERSON. On inquiry it is ascertained that but comparatively few of the credentials of members elect of either from the late insurrectionary or other states, therefore, the clerk of the house has not prepared a list of members, and will not probably do so before Saturday.

THE MESSAGE—OUR RELATIONS WITH MEXICO. No part of the forthcoming message has received so much critical care and cabinet revision as that portion referring to our relations with Mexico. The President has evinced a wise statesmanship, without infringing our national dignity or popular traditions.

PARDONS. Notwithstanding the order of the president directing that no more pardon warrants be issued that attorney general, among those who called this morning were R. M. T. Hunter and the rebel Generals Terrill, of Texas, and Brown of Tennessee. Included in the lists of applications for pardon which have been filed away for future consideration, are the petitions of 122 ex-officers of the United States army, 129 rebel general officers, and eighty-eight members of the Confederate leaders, including George Davis, attorney general; Trenholm, secretary of the treasury; the secretary of war; Mallory, secretary of the navy; and Reagan, Postmaster general of the confederates; A. H. Stephens, their vice president; Governors Smith and Letcher, of Virginia; Lowe, of Maryland; McGrath, of South Carolina; Moore, of Alabama; and Clark, of Mississippi.

COMMODORE CRAVEN. The defense of Commodore Craven will be submitted to-morrow. The result of the visit of the court to the Stonewall is interpreted as justifying the Commodore's action in declining to engage her.

AT THE WHITE HOUSE. Quite a number of distinguished visitors were at the white house to-day. Senators Dixon, NeSmith and Hahn, Gens. Garfield and Farnsworth, and other congressmen, David Woodford, one of the uncompromising union men of Alabama, with

FROM WASHINGTON. A Unusual Heavy Delegation of Southerners Seeking Reconstruction.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27. A very unusual heavy delegation of southerners seeking reconstruction, arrived here to-day. General Hahn admits the improbability of any southern members getting into congress. Tennessee seems to form an exception, however, and her delegation, it is believed, will be admitted by common consent.

FROM LOUISIANA. There is in our city a rumor to which we confess that we attach some importance, though it does not come to us from any source authorized to give information. PLANS FOR SOUTHERN DEVELOPMENT. The want of capital in the south, which is now so sensibly felt by the planters, with their bare yet fertile lands, and also the enterprising business men of that section, has suggested many plans for advancing the south, by prosperity by again bringing forth the capabilities and resources of the country, and building up its trade.

PRESTON KING. But two weeks have elapsed since the supposed suicide of Preston King, and the sad affair seems to have nearly faded from the minds of men. Could the veil be lifted, and an insight be given into the hearts of many, it is to be feared that to hundreds who have hoped to profit by his death, the belief, however, among those who think at all on the subject, is gaining ground that Mr. King has not committed suicide, but has wandered off into some retreat of which this city is full, where he will yet be found.
