

IS CANBY'S JUDGE A PARTISAN?

Wilmington Journal, July 24, 1874.
 In the first case the facts are about as follows: A party of young white men, and Conservatives, Everett Council, Robert Harts, Monroe Bais, Albert Bais and J. P. Council by name, were indicted for an assault and battery on John A. Edwards. Edwards received a blow on the shoulder and arm from a pair of hames in the hands of one of the defendants, but was scarcely detained from his business for a day, and was in the court house perfectly well when the case was taken up at the last term of Bladen court. From some cause the defendants asked and obtained a continuance of the case, and thereupon a question arose as to the amount of their bail bond.
 Mr. Sutton, the present Radical candidate for Solicitor, was employed to assist in the prosecution. The prosecutor, the man who had been struck in the fight, was then and there present in court, and, as was apparent from his appearance, and, as was well known, had fully and entirely recovered from any ill effects from injuries inflicted upon him in the fight. In spite of all this, however, Judge Russell required each one of the young men to give a justified bond for his appearance at the next term of the court in the sum of $2,000, refusing to allow Mr. Cantwell, the solicitor, to interfere in the matter, and allowing Mr. Sutton to manage the case, giving as a reason therefor, that "the rule" was to permit the counsel employed to assist the State to manage such matters.
 The facts of the other case, which also occurred at the last term of Bladen Court, are about as follows:
 A negro named Sutton had killed the wife of another negro. The husband of the dead woman had employed Messrs. Lyon & Lyon to assist in the prosecution and the solicitor was duly informed of that fact. A bill of indictment, for murder, against Sutton had been sent to the grand jury, and a true bill was speedily found and returned to the court. The defendants' counsel proposed to try at term. To this Messrs. Lyon & Lyon assented, but heard nothing more of the case until late in the week, when the negro's counsel offered a bond in the sum of five hundred dollars for his appearance at the next term of the court. Messrs. Lyon & Lyon expressed their astonishment and informed the Judge of their connection with the case, and expressed a very decided opinion that the evidence showed the case to be one of cold-blooded, diabolical murder. Judge Russell replied that the solicitor had informed him he would put the prisoner on trial for manslaughter only, and had consented to take $500 bail. Messrs. Lyon & Lyon repeated their statement that they had examined the testimony, and that it showed the case to be one of willful, diabolical murder, and insisted that the Court ought to have the evidence and then decide the matter. Judge Russell refused to hear the evidence and replied that he would not interfere with the Solicitor's discretion. The result of all was that the negro was bound over to appear at the next term of the court, in the sum of five hundred dollars.

CANADA'S CHANGE OF POLICY.

Views of the London Times on the Interest of our Northern Neighbors in Maintaining Free Trade with the United States.
 Toronto, Ont., Oct. 29, 1878.—A special to the Times says: "The London Times, in an editorial on the change of the Canadian Ministry, after referring to the circumstances of the victory, asks, 'What is to be done now?' It says: 'At least there must be a make-believe to do something to carry out the nonsense talked on the hustings. If anything is done to mend, make or shape a commercial treaty with the United States for admitting the products of the Union on exceptionally favorable terms, this will be by reciprocity, though by way of forcing the hand of the Washington Government, higher duties may be tried first. A differential tariff would be contemplated, under which commodities from Pennsylvania would enter Canada at lower duties than the same commodities from Germany, France, or even Britain. Such a treaty could not be negotiated, still less ratified, without the consent of the Crown. This raises the very delicate question, How far the limits of self-government in Canada extend? Do the treaties we have made with other nations allow us to authorize unequal duties in our own colonies? No doubt, as far as our hands are free, we shall concede to Canada the utmost liberty to fall into error. Still we shall not acquiesce in this result without expostulation and remonstrance. We have never concealed the truth that free trade between the United States and Canada would be fraught with immense advantage to both countries; but to try to develop an interchange of commerce by first blocking out the productions of the United States on the strength of the arguments and common places of protection is suicidal. If the difference between the Mackenzie and Macdonald governments is that one did its best to liberate trade between the States and the Dominion by mutual agreement, and that the other is about to try a hostile tariff, we must pronounce Mr. Mackenzie altogether right and his opponents altogether wrong. The true policy of the Dominion is to be more advanced, and to adopt free trade legislation themselves without waiting for their neighbors to lead in the elements of sound commercial policy. If they must have a leader, let them take that from Switzerland, which, amid countries subjected to restrictive tariffs, has itself next to no tariff and is a standing example of commercial and industrial prosperity."

EARLY AND MIDNIGHT REPORTS.

FROM WASHINGTON.

Department and Other News.
 WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—The light ship off Frying Pan shoals, which broke her moorings during the storm last week, has been moored again at her proper station.
 The State Department has been advised of the fact that an international exhibition will be held in Melbourne, commencing October, 1880. Parliament has voted $300,000 for the erection of the necessary buildings.
 WASHINGTON, October 31.—The German American National Bank of this city has failed. It is thought the depositors will be paid in full.
 Owing to the suspension of the German American National Bank in this city, the German American Savings Bank has also suspended. Both these banks were owned and patronized principally by Germans. The suspension caused much surprise. The President of the German National American Bank is John Hitz, the Swiss Consul General in this city. The shrinkage in the real estate value in which both banks are largely interested, caused the failure.
 The following is written in the President's thanksgiving proclamation:
 "The general prevalence of blessings of wealth throughout this wide land has been made more conspicuous by the sufferings and sorrows which the dark shadow of pestilence has cast upon a portion of our people. In this heavy affliction even the Divine Ruler has tempered to the suffering communities in the universal sympathy and succor which have flowed to their relief, and the whole nation may rejoice in the unity of spirit in our people by which they cheerfully share one another's burdens."

Horrible Tragedy in Tennessee.
 NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—A special dispatch from Nashville, Tenn., says a horrible tragedy occurred within three miles of the Hermitage last evening. John Cloyd, colored, had that morning quarreled with and fatally shot Cornfield McWhirter in an altercation concerning the picking of some cotton. Frank Wapool was dispatched to arrest Cloyd and summon Dr. Rayner, James McWhirter and John Osborne to accompany him and assist in the arrest. They went to the house of John Williamson, colored, and found him armed with two pistols and a gun. They saw two men run from the house as they entered. Taking Williamson into custody they started down the turnpike with him, believing they would overtake Cloyd at Green Hill, a village not far distant. When in front of Dr. John Gleaves' residence, James McWhirter went into it to leave a gun he had borrowed, thinking the danger had passed. McWhirter, having disposed of his gun, started, accompanied by Dr. Gleaves, to meet the posse, but as they reached the door brisk firing with pistols commenced on the turnpike. When they reached the scene of action Wapool and John Cloyd lay dead on the road, and Dr. Rayner was found to be shot through the arm and thigh, and dangerously if not fatally wounded. Two men who were supposed to be of the attacking party ran off.

CHINESE PIRATES.

SAN FRANCISCO, October 31.—The steamer Gaelic brings the following advices:
 HONG KONG, October 1.—On the night of September 29, an extraordinary attack was made by Chinese pirates on a house in Wing Lok street in Hong Kong, occupied by a Chinese merchant, and supposed to contain large quantities of the treasure. The assailants landed at midnight, and organized an assault with great care, posting sentinels and keeping guard over the entire neighborhood. A fight was maintained for several hours between the pirates and the police. The former was at last dispersed, and fled in boats. One of the pirates was killed, and several were wounded on both sides. The plunder secured by thieves was small. Great excitement prevails in Hong Kong, and precautionary measures are demanded.

THE EASTERN SITUATION.

Gladstone Makes a Speech Declining to Give Confidence to the Government
 —The Austrian Parliament.
 LONDON, Oct. 31.—Gladstone, in a speech delivered to-day at Rhyd, declined to give the government the confidence they asked on the Afghanistan question, and complained of their withholding authoritative information. Reviewing the information which was obtainable he showed that the relations with Afghanistan were satisfactory during his administration, and he justified the displeasure of the Ameer at the British occupation of Quetta. He pointed out that the weak powers which a professedly chivalrous government threatened to punish for receiving a Russian embassy was less culpable than the sender of the embassy. The sending of the embassy was apparently a breach of Russian engagements to England, but he feared Russia would cite as a justification the unfriendly conduct of the British government. Gladstone declared that to saddle India with the expenses of a defense against imaginary dangers would be an injustice as monstrous as any recorded in the history of the world.
 A Constantinople dispatch to the Times says the rumor that the Porte had sent a note to the Powers complaining of the formation of armed bands in Bulgaria, is at least premature. Such representations were made to Prince Labanoff, Russian Ambassador to Constantinople, but he denied positively the correctness of the assertion upon which the representations were founded, and the Porte has telegraphed to the Governor of Salonica to verify the previous information.
 The Times editorially commenting on the foregoing denial, of Prince Labanoff, says: We can understand it as referring only to the complexity of Russia in the movement, and the fact of the movements beyond all doubt. Nor would it be easy in the present position of affairs to exaggerate its importance. However it may have originated, its existence is a fact which England and Europe must take into account.
 VIENNA, October 31.—The Reichsrath, to-day, elected the members of the Austrian delegation. The Government has declared that it has no intention of protru-ging the Reichsrath.

 VIENNA, October 31.—The Austrian delegation elected, to-day, consists of about 35 supporters and 25 opponents of Andrassy. It is expected that Andrassy will have a still larger majority of the Hungarian delegation.
 ST. PETERSBURG, October 31.—The Golos rejoices over the delay in the English operations against Afghanistan.

HAYES IN BALTIMORE.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 31.—President Hayes arrived here at 6:30 this evening on a visit to the Maryland Institute fair. Upon the arrival of the train the President was taken to the City Hall, where he was welcomed by Mayor Latrobe and other city officials.
 At the fair the hall was densely crowded, and when the President appeared upon the platform he was received with cheers. Jas. H. Bond, president of the Maryland Institute, introduced the President, who spoke as follows:
 "Fellow citizens of Baltimore, it is pretty well understood that I believe in the faithful observance of contracts, and there was a distinct understanding with my friends of the committee that while in Baltimore I should not be called upon to make a speech. Believing in the sacredness of contracts I don't propose to make a speech. I thank you, however, for the kind attention to the two or three sentences I have uttered, and to the committee for their kind and hospitable reception.
 There was a general applause by the audience and the crowd rushed to the stand to shake hands with the President, who subsequently walked to various divisions of the fair, and at 10:10 o'clock returned to Washington."

THE DEAD CARDINAL.

Obsequies of the Archbishop of Dublin.
 Herald Cable.
 DUBLIN, Oct. 29, 1878.—The obsequies of Cardinal Cullen took place to-day in the Cathedral, Marlborough street, and the ceremonies were of a very solemn and imposing character. The solemnities were almost such as are seen Rome itself on a similar occasion. The spacious church was thronged to its utmost capacity and all the approaches were filled by members of religious societies and other devout people anxious to obtain an entrance. It was difficult to gain admission to the church even when possessed of a card of admission so great was the press of the people around the doors.
 It was intended that the interment should take place at ten o'clock to-night in strict privacy at the Church of the Holy Cross, attached to the beautiful and picturesque Archiepiscopal Seminary, Clonifife, which was erected out of the Cardinal's own savings and dedicated two years ago by the late Cardinal Franchi, during his visit to Ireland. The Catholic people, however, were too much afflicted to allow of this, and the whole neighborhood of the Cathedral was crowded. The final ceremonies were very solemn and imposing.
EN ROUTE TO THE CEMETERY.
 The coffin was simply placed on an open hearse drawn by four plainly caparisoned horses, and a long line of carriages followed. The people walked alongside in such numbers through the streets of Dublin that it was found necessary to proceed very slowly, and an immense crowd had assembled outside the gate of the Seminary. It was intended only to admit a few privileged persons, but several hundred people found their way in. The Primate and the other bishops and many priests were in attendance. The anthem "Subvenite sancti Dei," given in the Gregorian chant, announced the arrival of the coffin. It was laid on the bier before the altar and the abolution pronounced by Bishop Moran. The coffin was then borne out by the bishops, because the entrance to the vault is outside the church.
IN THE CHURCH OF THE HOLY CROSS.
 The vault is of plain brick, without ornament, and the Cardinal himself had it made. The coffin was laid at the entrance and the "Benedictus" was chanted, the alternate verses being sung in harmony. The scene was most picturesque, the clergy standing in rows and on an inclined slope as the plaintive music ascended in the night air. The night was clear, the stars were shining and hundreds of candles and torches were flickering among the thousands of spectators.
