THE DAILY DISPATCH. WILMINGTON, AUGUST 8, 1890.

The Southern people have a wealth which thieves cannot steal, and which no vicissitudes can ruin. It is that wealth of honor, which, though they are poverty stricken so far as their pecuniary affairs are concerned, provokes the envy of their more powerful neighbors of the North.

Yet, despite all this, which would have depressed the most sanguine, if not made of sterner stuff than the material usually used in the manufacture of men, with an energy which surprised themselves, and literally struck their enemies mute with astonishment, they commenced the hard task before them, unappalled by the difficulties they were obliged to encounter, and undismayed by the array of obstacles that were met at every step.

The self-reliance which has been evinced at the South is indeed a possession which, as an item of wealth, puts to the blush all the stocks and bonds that are hoarded in the vaults of Northern capitalists.

The adjournment of Congress has afforded the President an opportunity to throw the whole weight of his immense influence and patronage against the Radical party, and in favor of the Conservative men, who are seeking a perpetuation of Constitutional principles.

He should avail himself of this opportunity promptly, and inaugurate a system of proscription from office of all who are bent on the destruction of the only ties of Union which can hold together in peace the different elements and the embittered sections of the country.

It becomes, in view of this, a question of some importance, now, whether the Southern people have been deceiving themselves concerning President Johnson's position. If he favors the admission of Southern representatives to seats in the Federal Congress, with the vast patronage of his office, in the present demoralized condition of the Northern people, he can control the elections, and have his own supporters in the places of the Radicals who have spent the last session in abusing him.

So far as we are concerned we have no confidence in any of the Republican party. Radicals and all seem to us much alike in their hatred of us, and their lack of generosity and chivalry.

Of the men who engaged in the war of destruction, which was waged by the Federal government against the seceding States, leaving "BEN. BUTLER, the Beast" out of the question, Gen. WM. T. SHERMAN has evoked more hatred for himself on the part of the masses of this section, than all others.

With the sword and torch he made his passage from Atlanta to Raleigh, and left behind him converted from a smiling and happy landscape, such a track of desolation and ruin as some Attila would have been delighted to view.

There is one question which has suggested itself to us concerning this man, about which we have never been entirely satisfied. It is a well known fact that the silver plate, jewelry, &c., which his troops "captured" on their notorious march, would have served to set up an hundred petty scoundrels like Butler.

It is said that he thinks of being a candidate for President at the next election. He would doubtless make a good run in the Southern States.

When the season of dullness which has just begun to manifest signs of breaking up first approached during the days of May, it was an universal opinion that financial ruin would hurt those who were climbing the ladder of fortune from the rounds on which they stood before the dog days should be upon us.

The fear of such a calamity which was so general at that time, has exercised a wholesome influence on business, and men who then breathed short and quick, with their hearts in their mouths in apprehension of the crash which was expected, have found that the precautions they took to avoid financial distress, have been so far effective as at least to put the monster off till some more convenient season.

It gives us pleasure to announce, on good authority, that arrangements have recently been entered into between the Wilmington and Manchester Railroad, the South Carolina Railroad and the Georgia Railroad, by which through passenger trains will be run daily between Wilmington, N. C., and Atlanta, Ga.

Improved Railway Facilities. It gives us pleasure to announce, on good authority, that arrangements have recently been entered into between the Wilmington and Manchester Railroad, the South Carolina Railroad and the Georgia Railroad, by which through passenger trains will be run daily between Wilmington, N. C., and Atlanta, Ga.

The passenger need not change his place from Atlanta to Wilmington, N. C., and has no trouble about baggage or transfers, besides having a most comfortable bed in the sleeping car. Passengers going North and taking this route, and also going up the Chesapeake Bay, do not lose a single night's rest from Atlanta to New York, and even to Boston.

The Bransville Journal says Gen. Grant "whipped Lee." When we recollect that he once smothered him to death with a quarter of a million of Irish and Dutch, we never heard of Gen. Lee being whipped by anybody.

Santa Anna's estates in Mexico have been confiscated by the Imperial Government.

(Correspondence of the Baltimore Sun.) WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.

The Radical press lay much stress upon General Sheridan's last dispatches to Gen. Grant, as settling the proposition that all the blame for the inauguration of the late riots at New Orleans rests upon Mayor Monroe and certain ex-rebels. I have been permitted to read the last dispatches from General Sheridan, and I am enabled to say that they do not establish any such proposition.

THE CHILIAN WAR.—If the last news from Havana can be believed, the Chilean war is soon to be revived. A fleet is to sail at once from Cuba to reinforce such vessels of Admiral Nunez's Squadron, at Rio de Janeiro and Montevideo, as may be fit to resume duty.

REPORTED MURDER OF A CLERGYMAN.—The following is a dispatch, dated the first instant, from St. Louis to the Cincinnati Commercial:

GOVERNOR BROWN, OF GA., ON THE PHILADELPHIA CONVENTION.—Governor Brown, of Georgia, in a letter to a friend in relation to the Philadelphia Convention, says: "I am satisfied that it would be better for all who have occupied the position I did to remain at home for the present, and send others who have been regarded more conservative and better Union men."

SCANDAL ABOUT BENEDEK.—A correspondent of the London Star says: "A curious fact was repeated to me yesterday, namely, that the needle guns were not the sole cause of the success of the Prussians at the battle of Sadowa. General Benedek, as you are perhaps aware, is an immense landed proprietor, he estates lie chiefly in Bohemia. It appears that to avoid passing over the property, and thereby injuring his crops, vineyards, &c., he made the Austrian army march a round of six miles. His troops arrived on the field perfectly exhausted. If this be true—and I heard it from a person who frequents the salon of Madame de Metternich—I quite understand the General's disgrace."

GEN. BEAUREGARD.—The London correspondent of the New York News says: "It is said that Gen. Beauregard has accepted the command of the Roumanian army, and that he has received in advance a large sum of money. It is also said that Napoleon offered Gen. Beauregard a command in the French army, and that he has always been very good in Europe."

GEORGIA COTTON CROP.—A gentleman writing to the Nashville American from Hogsansville, Ga., on business, says "the prospect for the cotton crop is gloomy, in fact I have conversed with gentlemen from four or five counties, and they all concur in the opinion that there will not be more than from a fourth to a third of a crop produced in this section."

A correspondent of the Richmond Examiner, mentions that Robert E. Lee is among the visitors at the Rockbridge Alum Springs. He states that when General Lee arrived, riding the well-known "gallant gray" which he bestrode during the war, the whole assemblage at the springs, men, women and children, crowded around him to extend a welcome.

INDICTMENT OF FENIAN LEADERS.—Accounts from St. Albans, Vt., state that the grand jury at Windsor had found indictments against General Sweeney, General Spear and Col. Mahan. Against General Spear there are two indictments. Justice Nelson presided in the Circuit Court, and Chief Justice Chase was present for a short time during one day's session.

THE BRANSVILLE JOURNAL SAYS Gen. Grant "whipped Lee." When we recollect that he once smothered him to death with a quarter of a million of Irish and Dutch, we never heard of Gen. Lee being whipped by anybody.
