SEA-FOWL GUANO.

DR. HAYES' OPINION OF THE B. D. SEA FOWL GUANO. NALYSES OF THIS GUANO, MADE IN GROCERS AND COMMISSION MER-A the way of learning he proportions of the active substances present, and their in de o changing in composition, show this Guano to be admirably adapted to the great staples of agricultural production.

The organic part consists of the excrement of towls, organic at d soluble salts of ammonia. animal marter in a state of decay, with oily and fibrous substances, and humus These afford about 4 p r cent of ammonia. The soluble part contains phosphates of various bases, equal to about intern pre cent of b me phosph to of lime; while the whole phosphates present amount to 44 per cent, counted as bone phosphate of time. Sulphates, chlorides, and crenates of alkaline bases, make up the remaining parts of this Guano, the whole being in a condition to dissolve in the soil, and become assimilated by the crop .-This Guano has also a fermentative power, and will not only induce this action, but it will excite the humates in the soil to render up any ammonia they contain. It will be seen that phosphoric acid, equal to commission per rest of more proposes of tiale, do solves fee y is water, and that the torty four per cent, of bone prospente is all soluble, moisture and time being a loved. With these phospintes there will be about twelve per cent. of organic compourds, affording four per cent of pure ammonia, apart from that obtained from huma compounds These are proportion which expe riches has demanstrated as forming a we'll-half gigged Ging to geographical talks in corton cultiva-
