THE DAILY DISPATCH.

WILMINGTON, MAY 2, 1867.

Distress and Ruin at the South. The following terrible picture of distress and ruin appears in the Planters' Banner, of Franklin, La., and is fully corroberated by all the papers of that section. Few can realize how terrible is the calamity of the overflow now scourging the inhabitants of the lower Mississippi. By these invading waters multitudes are reduced to want and almost starvation. After five years of hardships, including four years of war, in which they were barely able to live, when they have no money, and no means to pay their way among strangers, many have to leave their homes and lose their last means of support. In their distress, and almost despair, who can be found to help them ?-Their neighbors are ruined, the country is ruined, there is no money, no credit, but little bread, and no hope of checking the mad career of the merciless waters. - SPRING CLOTHING, families now seeking safety by flying from their homes, the waters rolling over their MANUFACTURED EXPRESSLY FOR fields and crops, and entering their very dwellings, we would see distress such as was seldom seen except on a battle-field, or in hospitals, even during the war. From appearances it looks as though the Mississippi coast will have to be abandoned on account of the utter inability of the planters Boys' and Youths' Clothing and the State to keep up the levees. How can the leyees be kept up without multitudes of laborers? Where are those laborers coming from? Terrible necessity is driving the planters away, the negroes are dying off, or yearly leaving for the city, in large numbers, to serve politicians, and to enjoy themselves, and the means necessary to keep up the levees are daily becoming weaker. Who can devise a pian to save the coast plantations from ruin, and its inhabitants from LINEN BOSOM SHIRTS. the calamities which threaten them? We COLLARS of all styles, have yet to see the man who can solve this question.

When the two duelists arrived at the spot they were somewhat astonished on seeing the two other carriages drive up with their passengers, who cooly informed the men that they also had come to fight, so as to make it a complete family quarrel, each at the same time producing an empty purse fort to his guests. It is useless to add that the vey passengers to the Hatel or any part of the bloodthirsty Benedicts made peace on the spot, and returned to Havana, in company with their seconds, to celebrate the affair over a champagne dinner.
