Collaboration and the same

Too Late The Washington correspodent of the Charleston Courier is authority for the statement that a compromise on the reconstruction-question hae been suggested in the Cabinet, by which all parties are to agree to negro suffrage upon certain prescribed tests of qualification by education and propety, To this it is only neccessary to state that qualified impartial svffrage was what was desired by the majority of the Republicans in Congress as well as among the people. The universal suffrage, admitting all blacks without discrimination, was forced upon Congress by the Democratic minority, coming to the aid of the obstinates and impracticables whom Mr. Stevens leads. It is now too late to talk of withdrawing the suffrage from those upon whom it has been conferred and who have exercised it. The Democrats forced the Republican party to take universal suffrage when it prefered im partial, educational suffrage, and now the Republican party has no alternative but to force the Democracy to stick to the bargain they insisted on making.

The sensible practical plan to follow now, is, accepting the fact that the blacks have the suffrage, for all to work with energy to educate them till universal suffrage itself becomes educated suffrage. This will be a more simple work than is apparent at first sight, for the blacks themselves are working with more energy and perseverance than any other race ever before exhibited to complete their own education, and have already given the work subh a start that it is almost carrying itself on .- Brooklyn Daily Union.

Under this head the Brooklyn Daily Union speaks the sentiments of all loyal men North and South. We must have a reconstruction on the principels of universal liberty and equality of rights:

JUSTICE.—Colored men have been charged with preventing, by violence, white men from voting. Justice requires that facts upon the other side should be known. Colored citihave been greatly outraged. See the following extract from the Washington Chronicle: The rebel element at Lynchburg, Virginia, is probably more offensive than in any other part of that State. The colored men are persecuted without mercy, and although there is a considerable party of white Unionists in that vicinity, they fear to express or to vote their sentiments. Before the last election, forty men were sent from Lynchburg to Ma nasses to work on the railroads, with the distinct understanding that they should be sent back in time to cast their ballots; but when they reached their destination, they were coolly told that they would not be allowed to return. When they attempted to write to their friends through the post office their letters were refused or withheld; and when they sought the telegraph line their despatches were rejected. Finally, when they applied for transportation by rail, according to promise, their request was rudely declined. Nothing was left the poor fellows but to walk, and the most of them travelled of spring, Doctor?" was the question. Of on foot one hundred and eighty miles to course, the Doctor couldn't tell. It is a remarkable fact that the total amount of Mr. Lincoln's indebtedness, at the time of his death, as per schedule filed in the County Clerk's office, was only $38 31.

Lincoln has received from the estate $4,085 51, Robert Lincoln $7, 269, 15, and Thomas Lincoln $1,586 54.

As if it were not enough to be living in daily fear of steam boiler explosions, terrible tornadoes, destructive fires and other uncomfortable events of that nature, we are told of a theory of Professor Loomis that the world may "come to an end" in a very summary way. Suppose, for instance, that the hypo-GONE TO LIBERIA. To day Rev. Ralph R. thetical central fire of the earth should open planet asunder, and the fragments would would be nothing to it. It is disagreeable to think about it. To be sure the inhabitants of Jupiter may stand in need of a few lessons in the art of getting on, and the Yankee who should cling to a fragment and make a rapid balloon descent upon the surface of that planet would shortly learn the language and teach the dwellers thereupon how to make clocks, and bootjacks and such things, but the pleasures of the journey would be lost in the unusual rapidity of the motion. The Frenchman percould but rejoice at the opportunity of learnplight in which he should find himself and the impossibility of obtaining a formal introiar acquaintance. On the whole we think all parties are better off as they are, and even the Mungo Parks of the earth do not care to make exploration in the regions of the stars.

THE THEORY OF DRAINAGE IN A NUT SHELL.—The draining away of superabundant water, especially on stiff soils, has always been the chief difficulty in English agriculture. Hitherto the means employed for getting rid of it were imperfect. Now, however, the problem is completely solved .-"Take this flower pot," said the President of a meeting in France lately: "what is the meaning of this small hole at the bottom? To renew the water. And why fo renew the water? Because it gives life or death, life, when it is only made to pass through the bed of earth, for it leaves with the soil its productive principle, and renders solvable the nutritive properties destined to nourish the plant; death, on the other hand, when it re mains in the pot, for it soon becomes putrid, and rots the roots, and also prevents new water from penetrating.

The Washington correspondent of the Charleston Courier, who is a more than usually well informed and careful writer, says that it is a grave question whether the South has practically gained anything by the late elections in the northern States. But he finds some ground for hope in certain supposed indications of a disposition to compromise between the republicans and the administration party. As he professes to find these indications on the administration side, it is possible that he has grounds for what he says. The statement of this writer is as fol-

"It is suggested in the cabinet that the federal government may propose to the ten Southern States that, by a constitutional or other agreement, the blacks of the Southern States should be admitted to the suffrage as soon as properly fitted for it by education and industry and property. Those freedmen who are now freedholders, or tax-payers, or who can read and write, are to be immediately recognized as voters. The States are tobe required to constitute, at once, systems for the education of the blacks in common schools, so that the voting class will be gradually increased in proportion to the increase of the numbers, industry and intelligence of the blacks,"

Some believe, this writer continues, that Congress will be willing finally to modify the reconstruction acts to this extent. There is no doubt that if Mr. Johnson had proposed such a scheme two years ago, he might have carried the country with him. It is guite another thing now, however.

The statement of this correspondent we give for what it is worth, vouching only for his general good sense and veracity.- Bot.
