WILMINGTON, N. C., NOVEMBER 26, 1867

The mystic chords of memory, stretching from every battle field and patriot grave to every living heart and hearthstone all over this broad land, will yet swell the Chorus of the Union, when again touched, as surely they will be, by the angels of our nature."—LINCOLN.

LIKE the first battle at Bull Run the late elections will prove a blessing to the Country. Had the Union forces been successful at first, the spell of the Rebel leaders would succeed, to struggle with poverty and trihave been broken and there would have been another compromise; the incubus of slavery would have remained to tarnish our fair fame and the clash of arms postponed. So too in the political contests of 1867; had the loyal element swept everything before it at the ballot box as was done in 1864 General Apathy would lead us to fearful disaster Forewarned is to be forearmed. Now that the smoke of the late contest has cleared away we can clearly see the causes of our defeat. It is not to be found in any reaction in the minds of the people as to Reconstruction. The loyal people stand to-day where they did in 1864 and where they will continue to stand in 1868. Malignant Copperhead editors throughout the Country have fried to deceive the people on this subject. No New York Democrat, for instance can be found to-day who would attribute the result in that State to any material issueno such question was before the people.

Let us look at the facts. The Republican loss as compared with the vote cast in 1856 is about 16,000. The Democracy have gained over their vote in the same year some 50,000. Now this change is easily to be accounted for. The Republican party has drawn into its ranks the men of moral ideas, of progress, throughout the length and breadth of the land, hence we find a large temperance element in New Yorkcomposed of men who believe in legal suasion to regulate the State of intoxicating liqnor and to compel a strict observance of the Sabbath. There are about 60,000 Germans in that State who consider their rights invaded by the last laws passed affecting these matters. A large majority of these Germans, as is well known, are Republicans from principle and in all National issues will be found true to their principles. In the late election a large majority of this class who voted at all voted the Democratic ticket to nullify the Sunday and Temperance laws. In this way alone the result can be accounted for. Persons familiar with New York politics anticipated a much larger Democratic majority; for it is well known that as long ago as April last there were over 30,000 former residents of the South who had registered in that city. Comparatively only a small portion of this class voted at the late election because there was no national issue presented. That vote will tell in 1868, and it is to counteract this vote that Republicans will go to work again with a will. So much for New York State. The elections elsewhere, always excepting New Jersey, where there appear to be Democratic gains are to be accounted for in the same way. Local issues and General Apathy did the work.

Not to be Believed.

The statements of Conservative papers concerning the character and abilities of Delegates to the Reconstruction Conventions. Some of the statements concerning them are, to our personal knowledge, unqualifiedly false-falsehoods manufactured from whole cloth. Attrocious utterances are ascribed to them, when it is known that they were not present at the time or place when and where it is alleged those utterances were made. -Their motives are maligned, their opinions misrepresented and blackguarded, all for a purpose, viv: to affect Northern senti-

People of the North! believe none of these things. They are men of toil to be seen, as well as They are always "wide awake and duly somen of wealth. But toil is honorable in your ber. sight. This is the old slave-holding policy, which helds poverty to be a crime, and Gooch, Esq., was grossly insulted by some manuel labor a disgrace. The Conservative rebels because he voted the Republican tickparty of the South intend to hold to their programme. We know that you will spurn fellowship with such a party.

ored men, who earn the bread you eat! The Conservative party holds that poverty is a crime and labor a disgrace. They look to you to pay their taxes. They burden you with exorbitant rents-they proscribe you in their laws-they spurn you as "mud sills."

Give such men power, and you have the reign of slavery. Let the whole country un derstand this! Northern men understand this! Members of Congress understand this!

The laboring people of this country must lay the foundations of prosperity in economy. Economy always has been, and always will be the condition of pecuniary success, J. J. Aster, Stephen Gerard and all artificers of great fortunes practiced a rigid, but sensible economy. There need be nothing sordid or base in so doing; on the contrary it is wise, manly, noble. To struggle with disadvantage and umph, is to become a hero. There are rewards for such a conqueror.

From nearly every quarter of the South we hear cries of distress. Fears of appalling suffering during the coming winter extensively prevail. Let shows and circusses and operas and theatres pass unpatronized. These exhibitions may be pleasart to behold, but they will not feed, clothe or warm you and your family. On the contrary the money you expend on them will increase your poverty and possibly pave the way for suffering. Show your children that they must not expend money thus. Thus you will join precept to example.

Frauds-Attention.

We call especial attention the following from the Standard The Conservatives have charged the Republicans with fraud. People who live in glass houses should not throw

This whole matter shall be thoroughly ventilated:

FRAUD IN THE ELECTION .- The Sentinel charges that Republicans "practiced fraud" in the late elections, but it furnishes no proof to substantiate its charges. We might fill columns of our paper with instances of fraud on the part of the Rebels in the late election. We have room to-day but for two of these instances. At a precinct in Orange (Cedar Grove,) the pollholders told the colored people they could not yote unless they paid their taxes. This case will be investigated by Colonel Bomford. In this City tickets were printed at the Sentinel office, and circulated by white persons, containing the names of Williams, Harris, Andrews, and Fowle. Several of these ticket were palmed off on colored men who could not read, the object being to ring in votes for Gen. Fowle. We omit for the present the names of the white gentlemen who did this, but the Sentinel knows all about it, and was a party to it. The Sentinel has found by experience, what we told it in our last issue, that the hardest persons in the world to deceive are the colored people. difficulty that he returned to the house, and

OUR NEW YORK LETTER NEW YORK, Nov. 28rd, 1867.

Messre. E. A. Paul & Co. Wilmington : The close of another week since ours of the 16th inst., leaves us with a dull and unsettled market to report. The past week has been one of much distrust and uncertainty in commercial sircles, all looking to the action of Congress in re-arranging the Finance, Tariff and Internal Revenue laws of the country. Consequently, till something is known definitely respecting these great internal questions, effecting, as they do, every branch of commerce, we may look for but litte trade in the great staples of the country, and these at very low prices. During the past week, the failure of one or more extensive merchants in our city, has created no little distrust, particularly among capitalists, and extreme caution is used by them in making loans. Money, therefore, commands the highest rates for the very best of paper. The National Banks do not answer the pu rpose, in meeting the wants of commerce. Regular commercial paper, which should find a place on their discount line, by which the community at 1 arge is benefitted, and which is absolutely necessary in carrying forward the commerce of the country, is thrown aside, and the capital of those Banks is used in furnishing money to operators in Government H. K. Thurber & Co., 173 and 175 Chambers St. Stocks. The commerce of our country cannot be for all cash and no credit. We must have both, to produce a healthy state of trade, and unless we have banks that will furnish facilities in the way of discounts to our merchants, we may look for a continuation of great fluctuations and uncertainties in the trade of the country. It is to be hoped that Congress will do something to change the character of the Banks they have created, so that the legitimate commerce of the country shall stand first and not last, as is the case at this time. We cannot present a hopeful demand for the leading staples of the country at this time, they being seriously effected in price and demand, owing to the scarcity of money, and the want of a disposition to go beyond the immediate wants of consumers. Last Hours of Dr. Wayland. For some months previous to his death, Dr. Wayland was conscious of a growing sense of weakness, and it was with increasing effort that he performed the slightest labor. We quote from the memoir the account of his last days: "Monday was a bright September day; and in the course of the forenoon, while he was alone, he arose, dressed himself and went into his garden. Did he know that it was for the last time? and did he desire to bid farewell to the cherished objects of his care, or was he rather testing his remaining strength? It was not without considerable regained his room.

"On Tuesday morning, when his breakfast was brought to him, Mrs. Wayland observed that he used only his left hand. She said, 'Shall I not feed you?' and he consented. Alarmed at this acknowledgement of weakness, she called Dr. Miller in consultation; but he did not recommend any remedies in addition to those already prescribed. At about 10 o'clock, Mrs. Wayland left the room to write a telegram. Returning she found her husband lying across the bed, motionless, helpless. Apparently he had at-tempted to rise, possibly hoping to repeat the experiment of the previous day; or, perhaps, wishing to see of how much effort he was capable. The fatal blow had faten He was placed in a more natural position, and lay unconscious, except when aroused, his eyes closed, his right side paralyzed.
