False! False!! False!!!

There never was in the history of any political party, a position assumed, so him as to the means. The President's talse, so treacherous, and so stultifying, as that now occupied by the Democratic party. Having been ignominiously defeated for the past twelve years in an open issue of principals, they now seck to gain what they have lost by the sword and ballot, by a strategic prostitution of every principle of honor and decency known among men. The Dem ocratic party now comes before the peo ple, clothed with the pure white garb That armed bands of unprincipled of the steep; professing a suitden and the great liberal, progressive, and sucwe have adopted your platform of principles, we have nominated for President, Horace Greeley, one of the founders of the Republican party, and an original Abelitionist, and a protectionist, and now we ask the people to place our new Republican party in power, that we may continue on a higher and more sublime scale, the government saved to these United States by the old Republican party. But this won't do, the wool on your

It is the same mutilated, deformed, secession, disloyal Democratic party, that survived their own wicked rebellion; thus and nothing more. It If you wish GHANT to heat You, don't is like the assasins, transmogrified into a hog, and greeting as he crawl, along-unsuspected-to accomplish his deadly work. They have now clothed their pestiturous carcass in the flaccy robe of Chapp qui, and are making desperate efforts to council the people that their multitude of sins are all covered. But the people have penctrated the white locks of the Chappaqua Fame, and find "White House" and "Democracy" written in every space. The Democratic party want power and office, and especially do they want it in the South, and they claim that the election of Mr. Greeley would basten the departure of every Northern man from the Southern States, and that native white Republicans in the South would be compelled to keep quiet, or seek homes in other lands, and thus ace m plished all is secured.

The Political Prospect.

Notwithstanding the constant brag and bluster of the Greeley papers, information from all sections of the country indicates the almost certain triumph of the Republican party in the approaching Presidential election. As, in the progress of the campaign, it becomes every day more clearly manifest that the coming contest is to be but a repetition of the old battle for principles between the two great parties of the country, there is every probability that victory will again perch upon the standard of the party of freedom and progress The result in North Carolina, where we have gained one member of Congress, largely reduced the Democratic strength of the popular vote, shows clearly the people of the old North State could not be deceived or misled by the tricks and wiles of Pemccratic politicians. So will it be everywhere. As the fight goes on, the honest mastes, who understand and appreciate the difference between genuine Republicansm end sham Democracy, however the latter may disguise itself by assuming the garb of the former, will show by their votes how futile are all the efforts of cuoning political tricksters to deceive and mislead them.
