WILMINGTON, N. C., MAY 15, 1870.

The Convention. The State Convention has passed off quietly and accomplished its mission by adopting the following Platform and Resolutions prepared by Hon. Joseph C. Abbott: 1. Resolved, That the Republican party in North Carolina hereby re-affirms the platform and principles heretofore announced by its Conventions, and pledges its adher-ence to and co-operation with the Union Republican party of the nation, in the maintenance and practical application of those great principles of equality, right and justice, which have saved the Union, preserved liberty and crowned the American Repub-lic with the admiration and blessings of the world.

2. Resolved, That we heartily approve and endorse the firm and practical administration of public affairs by President Grant and Governor Holden, and we tender to them the sincere and cordial thanks of the law-abiding and liberty loving people of North Carolina, for their devoted services to the country, their steady support of Re-publican liberty and their diligent exertions in accuring to every citizen the equal rights privileges and immunities of a common citizenship in this Republic of Freemen.

3. Resolved, That we unite our congratulations with those of every section of the Union, on the restoration of the recently insurgent States to representation in Congress | left entirely dependent on relatives -- a willand to equal rights, benefits, advantages ing but inadequate source of supply. 11. Resolved, That it is the purpose of the Republican party to foster and encourage manufactures, the mechanic arts, agriculture and other productive industries, and the rights and interests of laborers, by pro-per legislation; that it disavows proscription of any man on account of nativity, but on the contrary, cordially invites to North Carolina, immigration of labor and capital from all sections of this and European countries, and extends a pledge that they shall be received and protected in all their social, political and religious opinions.

12. Resolved, That we join in the general

ongratulation upon the adoption of the 13th, 14th and 15th amendments to the Constitution of the United States, and heartily pledge our co-operation and active sup-port to the enlightened progress of the nation towards a more perfect realization of Republican liberty, a higher position in national wealth and power, a just claim to respect and honor among the nations, and a more commanding influence in promoting the general welfare and elevation of man-

The report was unanimously adopted.

THE church of Jerusalem, the church of Christianity, was formed upon the simplest and most natural plan. Its affairs were discussed and determined in a general assembly of all the faithful. It knew no earthly master, acknowledged no temporal head. The apostles themselves, full of humility and love, yielded to each other's opinions, and consented to be bound by the decisions of their own body or of the united church. Peter, whose vigorous faith formed for a time the chief support of his companions, was sometimes governed by the Hebraic impulses of the austere James, and was afterwards softened by the generous remonstrances of Paul. James himself, the brother of the Lord, at the apostolic conn cil urged compromise and peace. The apostles laid no claim to infallibility; they trembled lest they themselves might become castaways. The church was a true republic, in which, in his unaffected humility, no man sought authority over another, and where all were equal in a common faith, an overpowering love. Its ritual was the natural impulse of a believing heart. The Christians met in private rooms or on the intervals in prayer and praise. The sermonof the presbyter and the apostle was usually unpremeditated, and pointed to the sacing priests, disturbed the season of divine communion. The commemoration of the last sad supper was performed by carrying the bread and wine from house to house and when the inspired missionaries set out, tull of joy and faith, to bear their good tidings to splendid Antioch or gilded Ephesus, their dress was as plain as their Master's, their poverty as conspicuous as his. From Jerusalem, which had till now heaped only anathemas upon the gentiles, the early church descended, the teacher of selfdenial, benevolence, and hope to man,-Harper's Magazine

THE following is an extract from a letter received from Mrs. S. W. A. Goodwin, of Dixon, Illinois, regarding the children of her brother, Captain Williams, of the Oneida. The letter was written in answer to inquiries concerning the condition of the boys and their relatives, and will be interesting to those who have contributed to the to about $2,700:

THE revenue returns for 1869 show that the catch of pearls and shell for the past SADDLES, year on the Gulf coast of the territory granted to the "Lower California Company" amounted to the large sum of $78,000. This, of course, is the valuation of the pearls. given by the divers and speculators, and is consequently very much below the actual value of the catch. A pearl is sold frequently for $20, which, resold at Panama, at £200, brings $1,000 in Paris, and in many cases much greater profits have been made on very fine gems.

Not one-half the catch is ever reported to the Government, and the yield of the Gulf for 1869 may be safely estimated at $300,000 in gold.

A young lady residing at Charlestown, Mass., suffering from an inflamed neck recently, called in a physician, who pronounced all her sufferings to be caused by insects called borers, which inhabited the braid, made of Hindoo bark, that she had been wearing, and which on examination was found to be well stocked with the insect referred to, who, operating upon the neck of the wearer, caused the irritation and suffering. Fearing that some of the insects had taken up their abode in the hair of the unfortunate possessor of the braid, the physician ordered it to be cut close.

How Chinamen Testify. The Montana Herald, speaking of a civil case recently tried at Helena, in that Territory, says:

The witnesses on both sides were Chinamen, and did some "tall swearing." In fact the evidence was so conflicting that it was utterly impossible to reconcile it, notwith-Christians met in private rooms or on the standing the sanctity of the oaths adminis-flat tops of houses, and joined at regular tered, and the binding nature of the roos-

No painted robes, no necessary to adopt it. The custom seems to be time-honored, having been handed down from "generation to generation" until the present time.

> Brigham Young's Harem. The rooms of the women are very much alike. They are plain but comfortable. The women live in them precisely as people do at a hotel. Each lady has her own key, and when she goes out she locks her door. There is little visiting back and forth, and the ladies behave very much as guests do at a first-class hotel. Every morning and evening, at the ringing of the bell, the inmates of the harem meet in the great parlor, to attend prayers. The prophet used to eat at the harem with his wives, but he seldom does so now. In the morning, on rising, each woman puts her room in order, and if she has children dresses them for breakfast. After prayers they all go to breakfast, the ladies with children sitting at little family tables, and those without children at the common table. The same tood is given to all, and the bill of fare is by no means a common one.

Brigham, from time to time, designates some of his wives to take charge of the cooking, and they remain on duty until relieved. fund Mr. Forbes is raising, now amounting During the day the women walk out, sew, sing, play the piano in the parlor, or walk with the children. Most of them spin, make cloth and color it. They are very proud of their cloth and embroidery. In the evening all hands go to the theatre, where every one of Brigham's wives has a reserved seat. is said that Young liberally supplies his wives with money, and on fine days they drive out and go shopping. He employs a music teacher, French teacher, and dancing master for the use of his household. Brigham's women are well dressed, but still they have to work hard, and he keeps up a wholesome discipline over them.-Letter to Cincinnati Gaz.
