OLD NEW ENGLAND WAYS.

Curfew Still Rings, and District Schools Still Flourish.

Everywhere, even in the midst of the most flourishing and progressive cities and towns, there are examples of the work and evidences of the lives of the fathers—old houses, rows of stately elm trees, old business buildings with their queer gable ends to the street—while over and anon there are still to be encountered men who adhere to the dress and fashion of life current two or three generations ago. There are everywhere reminders of the glory that was. There are many households that are conducted almost as in the colonial times. Supper is yet the evening meal throughout rural New England and in a goodly proportion of the city homes as well, and it is not only supper in name, but the same foods are served in the same manner.

What are called primitive customs survive. The curfew rings from many church steeples, though tenuity is practiced with respect to the ordering of lights out at the same time. The district school exists everywhere in the more remote and smaller sections. The town academy has not wholly surrendered to the modern high school. A majority of the farms are still worked as great-grandfathers worked his, though this is cited solely as a pictorial element of charm, not as an industrial fact to gaud.

The New England style of architecture gives way to more modern conceptions with stubborn slowness. Most of the country churches are redolent with suggestion of the steeple and the echoes from the pulpits often serve to strengthen the illusion. The old fashioned gentleman and lady are present at every church service and at every village function. We cling to the memories and the habits of the past, and by so doing we exasperate the more progressive among our younger people.—Boston Chamber of Commerce Publication.

A RISE IN MUTTON.

Only the Leg Went Up, and Then There Came a Drop.

In the "good old days" at the Haymarket theater there was being played a musical farce in which was required a real "boiled leg of mutton every night. This, according to the law of "property," or, rather, the "property man's" law, went after the performance almost untouched to the official named. But the "frymen" perched up aloft did not like this, for they, too, had wives and families, to whom a boiled leg of mutton would have been a thing to be remembered.

So they hit upon a plan, and one night William Farren, who had the carving of the joint, was asked to fix a hook that would be let down from the flies into the mutton and "leave the rest to them." Farren, always ready for a practical joke, consented and as the scene was coming to a termination fastened the hook into the leg of mutton. As scene-shifters were preparing to "close in" and the property man stood in the wings ready to seize on his perquisite the leg of mutton was seen slowly to ascend.

The audience laughed. Henry Compton, who was watching the maneuver, laughed, too, and the employees all gave vent to their feelings in ill suppressed merriment, all except the property man, who remained miserably serious and gazed at the fast departing supper with a woebegone countenance. Suddenly as the scene was almost closed in the hook, which Farren had unfortunately fastened only in the fat, gave way, and down came the coveted mutton with a terrific splash upon the dish.

The audience now roared, the employees roared, both Farren and Compton roared, and as the "fats" hid the unrehearsed tableau from view the now delighted property man rushed upon the stage and secured his ill treated supper.—London Family Herald.

Byron's Three Great Men of Europe. Lord Byron said that Europe saw three great men in the early part of the nineteenth century. But no one now, in the early part of the twentieth century, could guess at the names of more than one of the three. It may be that Lord Byron was joking, but it is quite possible that he was serious when he named the curious trio.

Third in his little list he placed himself, the second person was Napoleon Bonaparte, and the first and foremost was George Bryan Brummel, Beau Brummel, "king of the beaux" and "Le Roi de Calais."—From Jerrold's "Beaux and Dandies."

Making it Worse. Willie had just received a severe spanking. "Now, sir," said his father, "you go straight over into the corner there and sit down." A semithoughtful thought struck Willie. He stopped howling, and a sheepish grin overspread his face. "Gee, pa," he remarked, "isn't that sorter jubb'in' it in?"—Exchange.

St. Valentine's. The 14th of February is a day sacred to St. Valentine. It was a very old notion, alluded to by Shakespeare, that on this day birds begin to couple. Hence, perhaps, arose the custom of sending on this day letters containing professions of love and affection.—Noah Webster.

He's Still Doing. "What does your father do for a living, my son?" asked the kind old lady. "Time just now," replied the youngster, "but he used to do everybody."—New York Times.

The Loveless Match. "So you're going to take him for better or worse?" "No—I'm going to take him for more or less."—Exchange.

THEATRE

If the weather only smiles, today is going to be the greatest and the merriest in the history of the Bijou, and that is saying much.

Today is Band Benefit Day at the popular theatre and the Bijou is going to be crowded with people. The occasion is going to be an especially festive one, as the Bijou has made lavish preparations for the event, selecting a superb program of films, regardless of cost, and the Cape Fear Independent Band, of this city, which will enjoy the benefit, is going to render a special program tonight. The latter will help to make the evening more gala, and will add greatly to the joy of the occasion.

The bill for tonight is going to be an extra big one. The musical numbers, aside from the superb band renditions, will be of delightful nature, headed by Mr. Frank Banks, and the films are to be of splendid type. "The Wonderful Eyes" is on the bill, and is a snappy film dealing with the ludicrous situation of a stranded theatrical company, while "Stubbs' New Servants" is a howl for laughs. It is one of the brightest and snappiest comedy films in years.

"Saving the Standard" is also included in today's bill. It is a war film of fire and patriotism, and it is bright, too, with the glitter of handsome uniforms. The scenes are laid during the Netherlands War of Independence, and it is stirring in action.

A great educational film is also on today's bill. It is "The Cuttle Fish" and teaches of the life and habits of this interesting inhabitant of the sea. Tomorrow is to be Ladies' Souvenir Day at the Bijou. The first five hundred ladies are to be given copies of the Motion Picture Magazine, which retails at 15 cents the copy and which is a really highly interesting and handsomely gotten up magazine.

At the Grand.

Another beautiful bouquet of good things will be presented by the Grand today to its big host of admirers. The bouquet will be made-up of the choicest of musical numbers and films. The former will be headed, of course, by Mr. Tally, the noted tenor, who has taken the amusement lovers of Wilmington, especially the musical critics, by storm, and whose daily singing at the Grand is a brilliant feature. But today not only will Mr. Tally be heard, but Mrs. Tally, who also possesses a fine voice and who renders her numbers in such charming manner, will sing. They will render a special duet number, having selected the well known and fascinating song triumph, "Some of These Days." This will be a superb treat and, of course, it means that the Grand will be packed today, the jam being especially at night.

However, the Grand is well able to care for a large audience and although "standing room only" audiences are nightly occurrences, no degree of discomfort is ever experienced. The comfort at the Grand, no matter the hot weather, nor the size of the audience, is always perfect. The popular theatre is ever delightfully cool and the free ventilation always makes it a healthful spot.

The orchestra has another big program for today, and will present each number in most attractive manner. The selections for today include both classics and musical comedy airs. The motion picture bill today is headed by Edison's greatest emotional film, "The Price of a Man." It deals especially with circumstantial evidence and presents this live, human nature theme in powerful manner. It shows how a farmhand is falsely accused of murder, an exciting chase and a happy, though unexpected solution.

"The Latent Spark" is one of the most novel films ever presented. It deals with one of those ever interesting characters, the American tramp, and carries this unique character even into the realms of China. The other films are all corkers.

Operation Not Necessary. Friends in the city will be pleased to learn that a telegram was received last night which stated that upon arrival of Dr. J. M. Wells, at Richmond hospital, it was decided that an operation for his attack of appendicitis will not be necessary for the present. It is hoped that Dr. Wells will be sufficiently recovered from the attack which he suffered yesterday to return to the city within a few days.

THE GERM WHICH PRODUCES DANDRUFF

Finally Causes Baldness—Kill the Germ and Save Your Hair.—Newbro's Herpicide Will Do It. Did you ever try to discover a reason for the dying of a valuable plant? You perhaps found that life was destroyed by some insect or parasite working about the roots and sapping away the elements which go to support plant life.

The dandruff germ exercises the same destructive influence upon the life of the hair. It buries its way down the follicle around the hair bulb and thus prevents the hair from getting proper nourishment. The hair dies and drops out.

Newbro's Herpicide prevents this by killing the germ. It also frees the scalp from the accumulations of dirt and sebum. With the removal of these obstacles to a clean, healthy scalp the hair will grow naturally and luxuriantly.

Herpicide is known as the Original Dandruff Germ Destroyer. One dollar size bottles are sold and guaranteed by all druggists.

Applications may be obtained at the better barber shops and hair dressing parlors. Send 10c in postage or silver to The Herpicide Co., Dept. R., Detroit, Mich., for a nice sample of Herpicide and a booklet telling all about the hair R. R. Bellamy, Special Agent.

FASHIONS

New York, July 6.—This charming gypsy-like cap, made in lustrous, pliable straw braid, is an acceptable accessory to the young girl's vacation outfit, for it is not only becoming, but owing to its lack of trimming is useful for rough and ready wear. The brim is bound with a narrow band of velvet and turned back over the face. Straps of velvet, with little rosettes of straw braid finishing each band, are pinned at each side of the hat. The high crown is turned over to fasten down.

Tested and Proven

There is a Heap of Solace in Being Able to Depend Upon a Well-Earned Reputation.

For months Wilmington readers have seen the constant expression of praise for Doan's Pills, and read about the good work they have done in this locality. Not another remedy ever produced such convincing proof of merit. L. H. Partin, 505 Chestnut St., Wilmington, N. C., says: "I am very pleased to confirm the public statement I gave in February, 1910, recommending Doan's Kidney Pills. I have used this remedy occasionally since then and it has always brought the best of results." (Statement given December 25, 1910.)

The endorsement referred to by Mr. Partin was in substance as follows: "My back was weak and lame and I had acute pains across my loins. The secretions from my kidneys were highly colored and filled with sediment and caused me much distress when being voided. When I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised, I obtained a box from Bellamy's Drug Store and began their use, according to directions. They acted just as represented and drove away all the symptoms of my complaint."

Milk and Water Problems Solved GET A PASTOMETER

When milk is boiled all the germs it contains are killed, but in boiling it certain of the albuminoid constituents are coagulated and as a result all the constituents must be digested before they can be absorbed in the system. Hence, there is a distinct loss of utility in the milk as a result of boiling. Boiled Milk lowers the vitality among infants and sick folks. PASTEURIZED MILK DOES NOT GET A PASTEURIZER! Pasteurized Water vs. Boiled Water. When water is boiled all the germs are killed, and so is the water. It is left with a flat, cooked taste and the salts and organisms which nature calls for have been killed. But when water is pasteurized the salts and necessary organisms remain unharmed and the water still retains its natural taste, but the pathogenic organisms (disease producing germs), are rendered harmless. However, unless you use a Pastometer Boiling is the only safe plan. A Pastometer costs only $1.00 and when you consider its convenience and utility you will readily see that it is worth the price. Each Pastometer comes certified. Full directions included.
