WARRING AGAIN ON "TIGERS"

Many of the Gentry Nabbed in Capital City

So Old Booze Hard to Get There Today, It is Said—State Democratic Hand-book Will Soon Be Out—The Statute of Beloved Vance.

Dispatch News Bureau, Raleigh, N. C., Sept. 11, 1912. Chairman Webb and Secretary Brock are reading the last proofs of the Democratic hand-book, which will soon come from the printers. The first copies are expected by the end of the week.

Ten of Raleigh's many blind tigers were given a scare yesterday afternoon and today it is said that liquor is hard to get. The ten fellows were arrested for selling liquor. This city had another crusade several months ago, but only about half this number was jailed.

The police last night and today caught fourteen more liquor sellers, running the number up to twenty four.

News was received this afternoon that the office of the North Carolina Rating Bureau's branch of the South-eastern Tariff Association would be established here October 1st. The office employ ten men. Charlotte and Greensboro asked for the office.

Test-Farm Committee. The test-farm committee of the Board of Agriculture left today for eastern North Carolina to examine the black or drained lands for a site for a proposed test-farm. The committee will visit sections near Washington, Bellhaven, Mackey's Ferry and other points. Commissioner Graham and Dr. Kilgore will accompany the committee.

While the committee is together, it is expected that the location of a tobacco test-farm will be decided on. Sites near Kernersville, Oxford, Reidsville and Durham are under consideration. The members of the committee are: R. W. Scott, A. T. McCallum, I. H. Kearney and William Bledsoe.

The Status of Vance. Mr. Ulrich Stonewall Jackson Dunbar, a sculptor of Washington, who has a statute of Vance in Raleigh for examination by the Council of State and all persons interested, will remain in the city until next week. Mr. Dunbar is particularly anxious that all persons who knew Governor Vance pay a visit to the Senate Chamber and all persons interested, will remain in the city until next week. There were eleven children in our family and each was given three names. And you can imagine the time we had remembering our names.

Mr. Dunbar said it had always been his ambition to make a good statue of Stonewall Jackson. Governor Kitchin last evening granted four conditional pardons. Halle Bowlin, convicted in Durham county in 1910 for larceny and sentenced to five years on the roads, was given liberty on the recommendation of the Judge, Solicitor and many other prominent citizens. Rosa Boyer, convicted in Forsyth county last July of selling liquor and sentenced to 40 days in jail, was pardoned because the county physician thought further confinement would cause the death and on the recommendation of the sheriff, other officers and three members of the county commissioners. Tom Heeter, convicted in Granville county in July, 1911, of an assault with intent to commit rape and sentenced to five years on the roads, draws freedom because of ill-health, the county physician certifying that further confinement would endanger his life; both the Judge and Solicitor and many county officers and others recommend the pardon. E. F. Wrenn, convicted July 5th, in the Recorder's court of High Point of assault with a deadly weapon and sentenced to nine months on the roads, is given his liberty because he and his wife, on whom the assault was committed, have become reconciled, the Recorder saying at the time of the sentence that he would recommend clemency if the pair thought they could live peacefully. The wife earnestly petitions for the pardon.

The State Department of Agriculture and Bureau of Soils, United States Department of Agriculture, are co-operating in the making of a soil map of Wake county, work having already begun. Mr. L. L. Brinkley is the representative of the State Department. Mr. Brinkley and his assistants have progressed from Clayton to Garner, where the surveyors are busy this week.

The map will be thorough in every respect. It will contain the various churches, railroads, streams, townships, school houses, the same as other maps, and in addition will show the different kinds of soil and where located. The work will require at least a year and will be invaluable to farmers.

Twenty soil maps have already been made by the State and National Departments of Agriculture, these maps including the counties of Pender, Robeson, Scotland, New Hanover, Mecklenburg, Gaston, Iredell, Transylvania, Henderson and others. Soil maps are now being made of Ashe, Alleghany and Randolph counties, the maps of Johnston and Pender counties having just been completed.

Interesting Point. Whether a bank in handling a draft for money and a bill of lading for whiskey is guilty of violating the prohibition law, came up before the Supreme Court from Craven county in the case of State against Fisher and Banking Company, the jury having returned a verdict to the effect that if the delivery of the draft and bill of lading to Carl Spencer, a minor, was a violation of the law, then John H. Fisher of Richmond and the Mutual Aid and Banking Company of New Bern were guilty of selling liquor. The court held that the facts as found by the jury do not constitute a violation of the prohibition law and the State appealed. The case was argued in the Supreme Court yesterday for the State by Mr. Thos. H. Calvert, assistant Attorney General.

MAY NOT HAVE TO BUTT-IN

Intervention in Mexico Getting Remote

Thought Warfare Will Shift From the Border to the Mountains, Coming as Result of Mexican Troops Being Allowed to Cross an American Soil—Rebels Capture One Town and Demand Surrender of Another One.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 11.—Intervention in Mexico seems a step further off today. The Rebel raiding along the border is expected to be ended by the Mexican Federals, who are to be permitted to cross Texas and New Mexico, to attack the insurgents along the frontiers of Chihuahua and Sonora. While one force of Federals moves down from the Northern boundary, another force is being worked up on the Southern Pacific line in Mexico. The plan is to catch the Rebels between the two forces. The revolution's representatives here assert that this move only will transfer the seat of war from the border to the mountains. Madero's movement of troops to the North is in response to this Government's demand that Americans be protected. The movement now under way is expected to quiet the situation temporarily at least. United States troops ordered to the border will move forward and others at Western post are ready.

KNOCKS THEIR PROPS OUT

Victor Allen Tells a Remarkable Story

Accused Takes Stand in His Own Defense and Surprises the Commonwealth's Attorneys by His Recital—Evidence Will Be Concluded Tomorrow.

Wytheville, Va., Sept. 11.—Victor Allen, last of the Hillsville outlaws, on trial for his life, mounted the witness stand in his own behalf today, and told a remarkable story, one which his lawyers say they will rely upon to secure his acquittal of the murder charge. Most surprised at Victor's stirring recital were the Commonwealth's attorneys, who believed they had built a strong net work of evidence, tending to show Victor's part in the alleged conspiracy to slaughter the Hillsville court officers. Victor told a straightforward, frank story, and withstood a scathing cross-examination at the prosecution's hands. Victor, admitted he was armed in the Hillsville court room on the day of the tragedy, but said that as one of the Government's rural mail carriers, he was allowed to carry the weapon. The Commonwealth's attorneys had relied upon Victor's possession of the pistol as one of the most important links in the evidence, showing he was in the conspiracy. Victor accounted for his presence in the court room, the day of tragedy by saying that that day he received a phone message directing him to accompany Wesley Edwards, a witness in Floyd's trial, who was sick. But for this message, Victor said, he had intended making a trip to Mount Airy, North Carolina, to get a doctor for Edwards. Victor's story of the action of the Allen clanmen in the Court House, substantially corroborated the story told by the Allens in the former trials. The evidence will be concluded tomorrow, and a verdict is expected Friday.
