

BASE BALL

NATIONAL LEAGUE

Table with columns: Team, Won, Lost, Pct. Lists standings for Philadelphia, Boston, Chicago, Pittsburgh, Brooklyn, Cincinnati, St. Louis.

Results Yesterday.

At Philadelphia 6; Boston 3. Philadelphia 9; Boston 10. At Pittsburgh 6; Chicago 1. At Brooklyn 2; New York 4.

St. Louis... 010 001 000-2 9 1. Chicago... 011 000 001-3 5 0. Leveque and Agnew; Benz and Schalk; time 2:10; umpires Hildebrand and Sheridan. New York... 112 000 000-4 8 2. Brooklyn... 002 000 000-2 4 1. Tesreau and Myers; Allen, Brown and Fischer. Time 1:52. Umpires, Rigler and Byron. Boston... 000 030 000-3 6 3. Philadelphia... 201 210 000-6 5 2. Dickson, Perdue and Rariden; Rixey and Dooin. Time 1:45. Umpires, Klem and Orth. Second game: Boston... 000 001 405-10 12 0. Philadelphia... 000 201 150-9 14 1. Tyler and Rariden; Whaling; Seaton, Brennan, Cannitz, Mayer and Dooin. Time 2:15. Umpires, Klem and Orth. Chicago... 000 000 010-1 9 2. Pittsburgh... 011 040 000-6 11 1. Smith, Stack and Bresnahan; Gar-grove; Adams and Simon. Time 1:40. Umpires, O'Day and Emslie.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

Table with columns: Team, Won, Lost, Pct. Lists standings for Philadelphia, Cleveland, Washington, Boston, Chicago, Detroit, New York, St. Louis.

Results Yesterday.

At Boston 10; Philadelphia 4. At New York 9; Washington 3. At Detroit-Cleveland, rain. At Chicago 3; St. Louis 2. (10 in-ings.)

Philadelphia... 000 012 001-4 13 2. Boston... 250 200 100-10 14 0. Boardman, Houck, Pennock, Busch and Schang; Leonard and Cady; time 2:00; umpires Evans and Egan. Washington... 002 001 000-3 8 0. New York... 000 000 000-0 6 1. Boehling and Ainsmith; McHale, Keating and Sweeney; time 1:58; umpires Dineen and Connelly.

FOOTBALL NOTES.

Harvard, as usual has no mid-week game scheduled this year, and Yale only one, the game with Wesleyan. The greatest "prep" school game in the East is scheduled for Nov. 8th, when Exeter and Andover will clash at Exeter. The two Bakers in line with Trenkman and Dewitt should give the Princeton Tigers a strong backfield this fall. John Corbett, the former Harvard football star, has been secured to coach the foot ball squad of the A. and M. College at Stillwater, Okla. Nine of the regular Navy eleven that beat West Point 6 to 0 last year at Philadelphia, are members of the Annapolis team again this year. University of Texas has a player named Eddie Slaughter. If he lives up to his name his opponents on the gridiron will retire from the game in quick order. Eddie Mahan, captain of the crack Harvard freshmen eleven of last year, looks to be the most likely candidate among the punters of the Crim-son varsity squad. Yale's football coliseum, to be completed in 1914, will seat approximately 61,000 persons and will have standing room for at least 6,000 or 7,000 more. George Brooke, who not only was Penn's greatest punter, but the best game ever has produced, expects to have 150 men in his varsity squad at the University of Pennsylvania.

Tourist—How do I go from here to Blindalm? Innkeeper—You aren't going all that way up surely? Have a glass of beer, then, and then, perhaps, I'll tell you something about it.—Flegende Blaeter. "My son, be polite until you have accumulated your first hundred thousand." "Yes, dad." "After that, the regulation thing is to be crisp and terse."—Louisville Courier-Journal. "Karl, let's play papa and mamma. I'll be mamma." "Oh, no; you're much too stupid for that. You be papa."—Flegende Blaeter.

NO WONDER MUTT IS ALWAYS ABUSING HIM

FOR DRY DENMARK

Leader of Liberal Party Has Started Agitation for State-wide Prohibition in That Country—Pretty Danish Girl to Wed Eskimo.

Copenhagen, Sept. 26.—I. C. Christensen, leader of the Liberal party, has started an agitation for statewide prohibition in Denmark. Not long ago the Liberal party successfully fathered a bill which enforces important restrictions on the sale of liquor in bars, restaurants and similar places, and the Liberal leader evidently intends to follow this up with a law enforcing total prohibition of the sale of intoxicants in Denmark. During the past few years the Danish people have become more and more abstemious in their habits, and as the younger generation is especially temperate, the agitation for prohibition is not based on any growing sobriety on the part of the people of the country. In explaining why the Liberal party, which stands for a large measure of personal liberty, should be backing such a bill, Mr. Christensen says alcohol is a poison and that the state should forbid and regulate its use just as it does in the case of other recognized poisons. Until the late temperance legislation went into effect, Denmark had depended upon education to fight the evils of intemperance, and this is the first time the advocates of the prohibition movement have sought government regulation of the liquor traffic. It is believed that the people will acquiesce in the proposed legislation in spite of the alleged attack on personal liberty, which they feel must be limited for the benefit of the community. Some of the leading Liberal papers have protested strongly against the bill, one pointing out that a person is not educated by making him incapable of managing his own affairs, but by letting him live his life in the largest possible liberty under the responsibility of himself and the community. The opposition papers attack the minister's new policy, and insinuate that it is for the purpose of catching votes. By departing for Upernivik, Greenland, to wed an Eskimo named Cennity, Miss Ellen Groth, a pretty Danish girl, will set a precedence by being the first known white woman to wed an Eskimo. On the other hand several white men have married Eskimo women, and just recently the Arctic explorer, Dr. Freuchen, took an Eskimo woman as a wife. The Eskimo women are said to be very pretty. On leaving for Greenland Miss Groth was given an enthusiastic farewell by her friends and on board ship her arms were filled with flowers. The Eskimo bridegroom is a local missionary. Hearing that Andrew Carnegie had telegraphed to Copenhagen from Ber-

CAUSED SENSATION

Did the Immensely Wealthy Prince of India by High Play at Baccarat—Americans on Vacation in France Amazed at Exorbitant Prices.

Paris, Sept. 26.—The Aga Khan, the immensely wealthy Prince of India, who among other things is head of the Mohammedan religion in his country, caused a sensation at Deauville Casino recently by his high play at baccarat. He seemed to be quite indifferent whether he won or lost and many people who observed him expressed their conviction that he had no actual knowledge at any time on this point. It was the custom of the Prince to go to the gambling rooms accompanied by a servant carrying a valise full of bank notes. The Prince, from time to time during the play would either request his servant, who stood behind his chair, to remove the piles of winnings and stuff them in the valise, or else to supply him with fresh bundles of 1000-franc notes to hazard. Perhaps the servant was more observing than his master and knew whether fortune smiled or not, but to observe he was as inscrutable as the Prince, and gave no sign. The Grand Duke Boris of Russia divided the attention of onlookers with the Aga, frequently winning or losing 50,000 ($10,000) francs at a sitting. Americans taking their vacations at French resorts this season have been amazed at charges which appear to be higher than anywhere else in the world. A room with a bath for 37 francs ($7) a day during July at one of the frequented hotels in Deauville, rose to 200 francs ($40) a day throughout August. The ordinary charge for a single room at the resort is 100 francs ($20) a day. These are prices asked of all comers, whether Americans, Russian Grand Dukes or Frenchmen. A Parisian journalist made note of his experiences at Deauville. The clerk at the first hotel he entered replied to his inquiry for a room that one remained at 80 francs ($16) a day, just a room for one person, with, of course, no bath. The clerk seemed to apologize for the low price, and to fear the visitor might suppose that a room so trivial a rate could not be of much account. "We abandon it to you at 80 francs," said he, "because it is not large, but it is a really good room." The enquirer hesitated at that and crossed the street to another establishment. The best that could be done there was a room for 120 francs ($24) a day; he returned and took the 80 franc room. A simple lunch at 31.50 (6.30), a cab to the races after considerable bargaining, 40 francs ($8), and dinner at 43 francs ($8.60) completed an expensive day. The refusal of several aeroplane manufacturers to enter their machines their employers. The actors are not inclined to accede to this demand.

CAUSED SENSATION

Did the Immensely Wealthy Prince of India by High Play at Baccarat—Americans on Vacation in France Amazed at Exorbitant Prices.

Paris, Sept. 26.—The Aga Khan, the immensely wealthy Prince of India, who among other things is head of the Mohammedan religion in his country, caused a sensation at Deauville Casino recently by his high play at baccarat. He seemed to be quite indifferent whether he won or lost and many people who observed him expressed their conviction that he had no actual knowledge at any time on this point. It was the custom of the Prince to go to the gambling rooms accompanied by a servant carrying a valise full of bank notes. The Prince, from time to time during the play would either request his servant, who stood behind his chair, to remove the piles of winnings and stuff them in the valise, or else to supply him with fresh bundles of 1000-franc notes to hazard. Perhaps the servant was more observing than his master and knew whether fortune smiled or not, but to observe he was as inscrutable as the Prince, and gave no sign. The Grand Duke Boris of Russia divided the attention of onlookers with the Aga, frequently winning or losing 50,000 ($10,000) francs at a sitting. Americans taking their vacations at French resorts this season have been amazed at charges which appear to be higher than anywhere else in the world. A room with a bath for 37 francs ($7) a day during July at one of the frequented hotels in Deauville, rose to 200 francs ($40) a day throughout August. The ordinary charge for a single room at the resort is 100 francs ($20) a day. These are prices asked of all comers, whether Americans, Russian Grand Dukes or Frenchmen. A Parisian journalist made note of his experiences at Deauville. The clerk at the first hotel he entered replied to his inquiry for a room that one remained at 80 francs ($16) a day, just a room for one person, with, of course, no bath. The clerk seemed to apologize for the low price, and to fear the visitor might suppose that a room so trivial a rate could not be of much account. "We abandon it to you at 80 francs," said he, "because it is not large, but it is a really good room." The enquirer hesitated at that and crossed the street to another establishment. The best that could be done there was a room for 120 francs ($24) a day; he returned and took the 80 franc room. A simple lunch at 31.50 (6.30), a cab to the races after considerable bargaining, 40 francs ($8), and dinner at 43 francs ($8.60) completed an expensive day. The refusal of several aeroplane manufacturers to enter their machines their employers. The actors are not inclined to accede to this demand.

CAUSED SENSATION

Did the Immensely Wealthy Prince of India by High Play at Baccarat—Americans on Vacation in France Amazed at Exorbitant Prices.

Paris, Sept. 26.—The Aga Khan, the immensely wealthy Prince of India, who among other things is head of the Mohammedan religion in his country, caused a sensation at Deauville Casino recently by his high play at baccarat. He seemed to be quite indifferent whether he won or lost and many people who observed him expressed their conviction that he had no actual knowledge at any time on this point. It was the custom of the Prince to go to the gambling rooms accompanied by a servant carrying a valise full of bank notes. The Prince, from time to time during the play would either request his servant, who stood behind his chair, to remove the piles of winnings and stuff them in the valise, or else to supply him with fresh bundles of 1000-franc notes to hazard. Perhaps the servant was more observing than his master and knew whether fortune smiled or not, but to observe he was as inscrutable as the Prince, and gave no sign. The Grand Duke Boris of Russia divided the attention of onlookers with the Aga, frequently winning or losing 50,000 ($10,000) francs at a sitting. Americans taking their vacations at French resorts this season have been amazed at charges which appear to be higher than anywhere else in the world. A room with a bath for 37 francs ($7) a day during July at one of the frequented hotels in Deauville, rose to 200 francs ($40) a day throughout August. The ordinary charge for a single room at the resort is 100 francs ($20) a day. These are prices asked of all comers, whether Americans, Russian Grand Dukes or Frenchmen. A Parisian journalist made note of his experiences at Deauville. The clerk at the first hotel he entered replied to his inquiry for a room that one remained at 80 francs ($16) a day, just a room for one person, with, of course, no bath. The clerk seemed to apologize for the low price, and to fear the visitor might suppose that a room so trivial a rate could not be of much account. "We abandon it to you at 80 francs," said he, "because it is not large, but it is a really good room." The enquirer hesitated at that and crossed the street to another establishment. The best that could be done there was a room for 120 francs ($24) a day; he returned and took the 80 franc room. A simple lunch at 31.50 (6.30), a cab to the races after considerable bargaining, 40 francs ($8), and dinner at 43 francs ($8.60) completed an expensive day. The refusal of several aeroplane manufacturers to enter their machines their employers. The actors are not inclined to accede to this demand.

CAUSED SENSATION

Did the Immensely Wealthy Prince of India by High Play at Baccarat—Americans on Vacation in France Amazed at Exorbitant Prices.

Paris, Sept. 26.—The Aga Khan, the immensely wealthy Prince of India, who among other things is head of the Mohammedan religion in his country, caused a sensation at Deauville Casino recently by his high play at baccarat. He seemed to be quite indifferent whether he won or lost and many people who observed him expressed their conviction that he had no actual knowledge at any time on this point. It was the custom of the Prince to go to the gambling rooms accompanied by a servant carrying a valise full of bank notes. The Prince, from time to time during the play would either request his servant, who stood behind his chair, to remove the piles of winnings and stuff them in the valise, or else to supply him with fresh bundles of 1000-franc notes to hazard. Perhaps the servant was more observing than his master and knew whether fortune smiled or not, but to observe he was as inscrutable as the Prince, and gave no sign. The Grand Duke Boris of Russia divided the attention of onlookers with the Aga, frequently winning or losing 50,000 ($10,000) francs at a sitting. Americans taking their vacations at French resorts this season have been amazed at charges which appear to be higher than anywhere else in the world. A room with a bath for 37 francs ($7) a day during July at one of the frequented hotels in Deauville, rose to 200 francs ($40) a day throughout August. The ordinary charge for a single room at the resort is 100 francs ($20) a day. These are prices asked of all comers, whether Americans, Russian Grand Dukes or Frenchmen. A Parisian journalist made note of his experiences at Deauville. The clerk at the first hotel he entered replied to his inquiry for a room that one remained at 80 francs ($16) a day, just a room for one person, with, of course, no bath. The clerk seemed to apologize for the low price, and to fear the visitor might suppose that a room so trivial a rate could not be of much account. "We abandon it to you at 80 francs," said he, "because it is not large, but it is a really good room." The enquirer hesitated at that and crossed the street to another establishment. The best that could be done there was a room for 120 francs ($24) a day; he returned and took the 80 franc room. A simple lunch at 31.50 (6.30), a cab to the races after considerable bargaining, 40 francs ($8), and dinner at 43 francs ($8.60) completed an expensive day. The refusal of several aeroplane manufacturers to enter their machines their employers. The actors are not inclined to accede to this demand.

IF ITS QUALITY SHE likes, get

The Apollo Chocolates. The Chocolate that are different and appreciative

PEOPLE'S POPULAR PLACE

Warren's

500,000 BRICKS FOR SALE Roger Moore's Sons & Co Brick Manufacturers and Dealers in Building Material. PHONE 154

KORRECT SHAPE SHOES

FOR MEN $4, $4.50 $5, $6 All Guaranteed Patent Leathers Included.

Carl F. Strunck & Co. 128 South Front Street. WILMINGTON, N. C. Phone 800-J.