

Six Big Programs For Wilmington

Six good programs have been planned by Mrs. Kate B. Vaughn, the celebrated Better Foods, Better Homes lecturer, who will conduct a Home Economics school here under the auspices of the Dispatch. Every afternoon next week at 3 o'clock, Mrs. Vaughn will deliver a lecture that will appeal to both the hearts and minds of women interested in efficiently caring for their homes and families. This lecture will be followed by a cookery lesson in which she will teach every known cookery process. Her method of cookery is not merely to say, do this, or do that, and hold up to the admiring and envious glances of her guests a beautiful dish which she may or may not have prepared by these directions. Instead she gets out her pans, kettles, knives, spoons and spatulas, flour, sugar and other ingredients, lights her gas stove or prepares her fireless cooker and with sleeves rolled up she actually cooks. She mixes cakes from the very initial process, the creaming of the shortening and sugar, and tells why certain shortenings are best for cake making and why she prefers certain kinds of sugar, and shows to just what degree of creaminess they must be worked in order to have light fine grained cake. Then she tells all about over temperatures, what is meant by quick ovens and slow ovens and which kinds of foods must be baked with each.

Baking is not the only cookery process that is taught in detail. Sewing, boiling, frying, all come in for their share of instruction and women that watch Mrs. Vaughn prepare foods, listen to her different rules for success and taste the foods thus prepared may go home and adopt her clearly explained methods in their own kitchens, and cook just as well as she does.

Her lessons in the Boys' Brigade Auditorium will be free and every woman in the city is invited to avail herself of this opportunity afforded by The Dispatch to learn easy cookery methods from which all drudgery has been eliminated, from one of the most noted cookery experts in the country.

FROM EDUCATOR'S NOTEBOOK.

Manchester, England—The Manchester Municipal School of Technology, which has as its principal J. C. Maxwell Garnett, late fellow of Trinity College, Cambridge, has a most complete schedule of technical courses this year, covering engineering of various kinds, textile industries for which the most complete sets of practical appliances to be found, printing, photography, mining and other technological subjects. The library of this municipal school has eight thousand volumes and two thousand pamphlets relating solely to applied science and technology.

Cambridge, Mass.—The report from state of Baroda, in India, that there are now 3,088 educational institutions there, including one arts college, four high schools and fifteen special institutions, recalls the fact that Baroda is the only State in India with a compulsory education law. It is also recalled here that the ruler, the Gaekwar of Baroda, sent his son to Harvard. The young "Gike," as he was called here, was one of the most popular men who ever came from out of the far East to Harvard. He took a deep interest in education, and went deeply into American methods. That his influence has been felt in the growth of education among his people is shown by the report from Baroda.

West Point, N. Y.—In a recent address before the New York State Historical Society at West Point, Commissioner of Education John H. Finley expressed the opinion of many educators relative to military training in the schools. "I have objected to introducing military training into our public schools as a mean of conscripting chil-attention was given to this important need. In fact the greater part of the states neglected their schools. The Constitutionalist government is contemplating the organization of a general office in the City of Mexico which may correspond to the Commissioner of Education in the United States, and a certain amount of money is to be distributed from the federal revenues for the betterment of public schools."

Detroit, Mich.—The new engineering is now completed, and the alumni association is giving a dinner tonight to signalize the dedication of this new structure. Dr. James J. Walsh, dean of the College of Medicine of Fordham University, New York, will be the principal speaker.

New York—The official sanction of college presidents has been placed on the students' camps for military training. At a recent meeting here of college heads, presided over by Dr. John Grier Hibben of Princeton, it was decided not only to endorse the student camps but to recommend them to their students. "We regard this movement as in no way militaristic," declared one of the college heads. "Its object is to train the students of our colleges and therefore serve a useful purpose to the country. The education which the students receive under officers of the army is of the greatest value to them and to the nation, and we feel that the summer camps are agencies for good which the universities should do their utmost to encourage."

Hideous Golfing.

As Grantland Rice tells the story, a certain English actor, whom we may safely call Jones-Brown, plays a persistent, but horrible, game of golf. During a recent visit to this country the actor in question occasionally visited the links of a well-known country club in Westchester county, near New York.

After an especially miserable showing of inaptness one morning he flung down his driver in disgust.

"Caddie," he said, addressing the silent youth who stood alongside, "that was awful bad, wasn't it?"

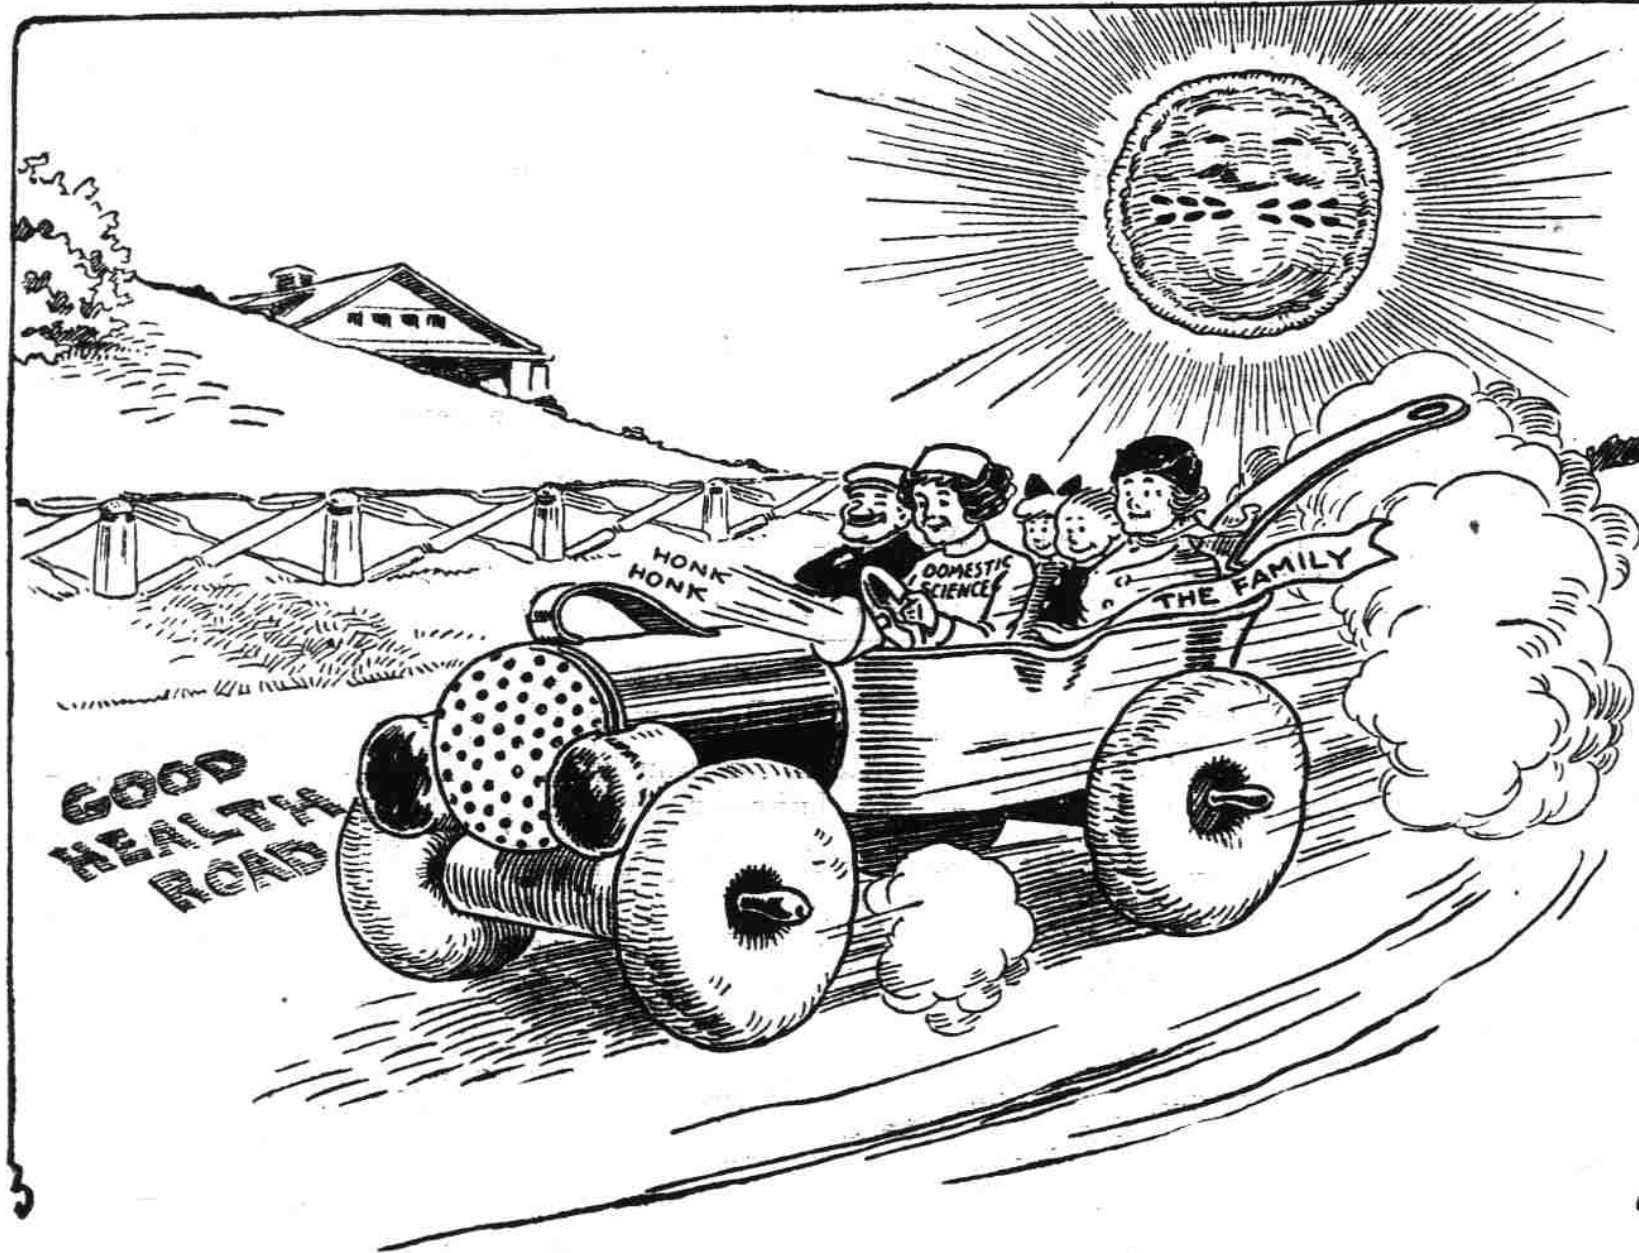

"Parry bad, sir," stated the body.

"I freely confess that I am the worst golfer in the world," continued the actor.

"Oh, I wouldn't say that, sir," said the caddie, soothingly.

"Did you ever see a worse player than I am?"

"No, sir, I never did," confessed the boy, truthfully, "but some of the other boys was tellin' me yestiddy about a worse player than you are. They said his name was Jones-Brown."—Saturday Evening Post.
