SHIPMENTS TO CONTINUE

Maryland Liquor to Replace Virginia

After First of November.

The fact that Virginia will be included in the ever-growing group of prohibition States after November 1st will not affect whiskey shipments into this city and State in the opinion of Mr. J. W. Smith, local agent of the Southern Express Co. The Grier law, making it unlawful for one to receive more than one quart every fifteen days has greatly diminished the import but so long as "booze" can be obtained in Wilmington will, in all probability, receive her pro rata part.

The "whiskey department" of the express company will not be closed when Virginia "goes dry." Mr. Smith thinks the number of packages received will not be diminished in any particular. The quarts will thereby start from some other State. Jacksonville and Baltimore firms are already distributing literature profusely, telling of the many brands to be had and quoting prices that are very reasonable when compared with the reported prices of alleged boot leggers.

Mr. P. J. O'Bryant, formerly postmaster at Durham, was in the city yesterday, a guest at the Orton Hotel.

COLD WEATHER IS DRAWING NEARER

The Palm Beach is Being Replaced With Heavier Wearing Apparel

Straw hats and Panamas are almost a thing of the past now and while a few of the more courageous still indulge in surf bathing the advent of heavier wearing apparel has caused the swan song of the palm beach suit to wax louder and louder and in a few short weeks it will die away in one last hollow note to be heard no more until another summer has come and gone. While there will yet be many the fly and mosquito are not yet ready to give in and follow in the wake of the many millions that have preceded them the coming of fall is easily noted. There is something in the air, a feeling of loneliness and oppression, that makes one feel as if one had lost something never to be regained.

The fall season is with us but because the sun continues to smile down in a friendly manner few realize it and although the beach is closed the same happy throngs will continue to spend their Sunday afternoons there until the indications of colder weather become more pronounced. In an incredibly short time the green and luxuriant foliage of the trees will change to a glorious red and begin filtering to the ground in a manner that will cause thoughtful man to realize the opportunities he has let slip.

The whirl of the electric fan will continue for a time but already furnaces are being overhauled and coal bins stocked. Awnings and porch shades are being taken down and carefully packed away and lawn and porch swings will be in demand but a short while longer. The fall season is here and it will be a long time before the trees again burst into buds and sweet-scented flowers blossom profusely along the hedges and fences.

The iceman will soon cease to bother each morning but the coal man will take his place and hubby's affectionate glance toward the refrigerator will change to a scowl as it rests upon the untitled coal scuttle. The easy-going gait of the laborer will change to a rapid stride as the balmy breeze of summer is replaced with the crisp autumn air and later to the sharp stinging blasts of winter. Cold weather is almost here and while Old Sol is fighting detrimentally to ward off Jack Frost it is a losing fight and grows weaker and weaker as the inevitable climate change becomes more pronounced.

BUOY REPLACED

Statement issued by Lighthouse Inspector Beck of Charleston.

According to a statement issued by order of the Bureau of Lighthouses Inspector H. L. Beck, of the Sixth district, the Flying Pan Shoals Gas Whistling and Submarine buoy, 2 A. F. P., recently reported adrift, was replaced on its station at 2 p. m. September 22. The announcement was made by order of the Bureau of Lighthouses and for the benefit of mariners.

ARMY CAPTAIN MAY COME HERE

It Is Probable That Officer Will Be Stationed With W. L. I.—Major Greig

It is very likely that Wilmington will be the headquarters of a regular United States army officer, beginning January 1, 1917. One who will act as an inspector-instructor of the Coast Artillery Corps, of the North Carolina National Guard, as it is now the plans of the War Department to assign two such officers to the Coast Artillery of this State instead of the present one and also detail three additional sergeant-instructors, to assist the one now on duty.

The Wilmington Light Infantry, which is the Second Company of the Coast Artillery, is one of the most efficient units in the Corps and as this city is regarded by officers of the Corps as one logical location for an inspector-instructor, it is highly probable that the War Department will select as one of the headquarters, and Raleigh, which is now the headquarters of it the present officer, as the other.

Besides the W. L. I. there are five other companies in the Corps and the units that do not have an officer stationed with them, will be assigned a sergeant-instructor. It is understood that Sergeant Elmer Wilson, who is now on duty with the Corps as sergeant-instructor, will be stationed in Salisbury with the Fourth Company.

Capt. Alexander Greig, Jr., the regular army officer who has been with the Corps for the past four years, and who has recently been promoted to the rank of major, will be transferred when the changes go into effect the first of the year. It is not known who will succeed him or who will be selected for the new office. It is known however, that both will be from the regular coast artillery.

Major Greig has always been in close touch with the Wilmington Light Infantry and has often visited here. He is highly regarded by the officers of the Second Company, and by all of the officers of the Corps. They regret very much to see him transferred to the regular troops. Major Greig's headquarters have been in Raleigh since he has been with the North Carolina Guardsmen.

MEET TOMORROW NIGHT.

Call issued to the Executive Committee of the Corn Show.

Chairman T. R. Ames has called a meeting for tomorrow night of the officers and executive committee of the Corn Show. The meeting will be held in the Chamber of Commerce rooms. Chairman Ames has sought to impress upon the committee and officers the necessity of their attendance as there are a number of very important matters to come up for discussion.

MILK QUESTION IS SERIOUS ONE

Expansion of Industry Urged As Means of Reducing The High Price

The high price of milk and the big demand for dairy products are being pointed out to farmers as an excellent reason why more should engage in the dairying industry. The ever-increasing cost of living is causing many citizens to renew efforts to increase the supply of milk.

According to Dr. Charles T. Nesbitt, county health officer, the prevailing high price of milk is primarily due to the low production, undeveloped grazing lands and wasteful methods of distribution.

While Dr. Nesbitt would not go so far as to say that Wilmington people are paying the highest known prices for milk he did say that residents of this city are probably paying next to the highest prices received anywhere for their milk. Continuing Mr. Nesbitt said:

"There has never been an adequate supply of milk in Wilmington. Every drop of milk produced here finds a ready market at high prices. The solution of the city's milk problem lies largely in getting more men into the business and increasing production. There is some milk and butter shipped into the city from the State farm and from outlying points, but the city depends largely on the local supply, which as I stated above is wholly inadequate.

"There is no good reason why the industry should not be greatly expanded. In this connection, attention should first be paid to the development of grazing facilities. The native crab grass here is a fine pasture crop. More of it should be grown. As it is now, local dairymen depend largely on silage for feed for their cows. With farmers paying from $30 to $40 a ton for fertilizer, this is very expensive feed for dairy animals. If enough cattle were raised on the farms, the land would be built up in fine grazing pastures by the use of compost, which is the cheapest fertilizer obtainable.

"As I have pointed out before very important economies could be effected through proper distribution, that is, the establishment of a central milk depot. This would take of the hands of the producers the bother of marketing their product, which they could at wholesale prices. At the same time, instead of having some 20 teams make deliveries twice daily, a half dozen wagons could make the deliveries for the entire city if the milk depot were established. It would also make the standardization and inspection of the city's milk supply a much simpler matter.

"Another idea which should be impressed upon the minds of the people with reference to the production and sale of milk here is that all milk is far from being of the same quality and value. The conscientious, intelligent, clean dairymen produce a more wholesome and more valuable product than does his slipshod and half-clean neighbor, and he is entitled to a better price for it."

MANY ATTENDED.

Meeting For Men Only at St. Andrew's Church Was Well Attended.

The meeting for men only at St. Andrew's Presbyterian church yesterday afternoon was well attended and Dr. John E. Hurt's splendidly delivered address on "Spiritual Markmanship" was greatly enjoyed. The singing of Alexander hymns was an enjoyable feature and indications are that these meetings, which are held monthly in Memorial Hall, will be well attended. Yesterday's meeting was the second of the series which was planned during the summer but abandoned for the time because of the oppressive weather. Similar meetings will be held monthly until June, if plans do not miscarry, and the intention of those behind the movement is to bring some of the best speakers of the State to the city.

Y. M. C. A. IS BEING REMODELED

Literary Societies of Guilford College Will Have Halls in Upper Floor

Guilford College, Sept. 25.—The Young Men's Christian Association building is being completely remodeled and when finished will be an up to date institution in every respect. The action of remodeling the institution was taken after both of the literary societies of the college and the faculty had approved. In the remodeling the second floor that was formerly used for a dormitory will be used for a society hall for the two literary societies of the school. The societies have been without society halls since the burning of the King building some time ago.

Ad-itorial from the New Bon Marche

There are several distinct classes of Charge Customers. Only one of these classes is considered desirable by this store.

There's the person who has things charged without even considering where the money to pay for same will come from. As a rule, this class only has one account at a store—and it's still running.

Then, there's the man who would like to pay, but buys beyond his means. He strives and strives, and never gets out of debt. He worries far more about what he owes than his creditors. He is usually honest and a hard worker, but just got behind, and has never been able to catch up.

Then, there's the person who has plenty of money, property, etc., and knows that she is good for it, and takes her time to pay her debts—sometimes letting them run four to six months, without a thought about the Merchants' side of it, or his inconvenience.

Then, there's another class—the only one that makes a Credit Business worth while—the person who pays promptly—before the middle of the month following the purchase of the merchandise.

This store will open accounts with responsible people, who can and will give the proper references, provided they agree to the strict rule of payment in full before the 15th of the month after purchase has been made.

This is the only basis upon which we will do a credit business, because we have marked our merchandise to sell at CASH prices, and cannot afford to sell on long time credit, no matter how good the account may be.

The Merchant who does a long time credit business must either be over-capitalized or put an extra amount of profit on his merchandise, in order to make up for the interest he must pay the Banks, in order to tide him over.

If you would consider it in the same light as the business man does his obligation at the bank—and endeavor to keep your credit good, so that when the Merchant called the Association, and asked, "Is Mrs. Jones' credit good?" the answer would come back: "Oh, yes; she pays all bills promptly," then, indeed, would the Credit business be a pleasant one for both interested parties.

It has taken years of experience, and costly experience at that, to bring our Credit system up to the point of efficiency that it now stands—and we mean to make use of that experience in conducting our Credits here.

Thursday's papers will tell date of Informal Opening. Be sure to read them in this same space.

DECREASE EXPECTED

Wilmington Gasoline Higher Than Savannah—Former Expects Advance.

There is a difference of two cents on the gallon of Wilmington and Savannah, Ga., gasoline and while the latter is looking for a further drop in price the former is expecting a rise. Savannah agencies have received advices from the Standard Oil Co. and the Gulf State Refining Co. that the wholesale price of buzz wagon fuel will drop from 20 to 19 cents and that it will be retailed at 21 cents. Gasoline is retailing at 23 cents here today and while some of the agencies are expecting an increase in price others are looking for a slight decrease.

Gasoline began advancing a few months ago and after reaching a new high mark began slowly dropping back. Savannah expects oil to be selling for 15 cents in a short time. The opening of new wells in Texas and Oklahoma are said to be the cause of the decrease.

Fuchs' Department Store Now On a Strictly Cash Basis At Lowest-in-the-City Prices

This store service to the community on a strictly cash basis started on our re-opening. The store began business with a well defined plan of conducting business in the future. To buy for cash and to sell for cash. To give the patron of this store the benefit of an economical wise purchasing power by shearing the cost of the merchandise to them of all unnecessary expense incidental to maintaining a credit department. To make the goods for sale so attractive in themselves as to preclude the necessity hereafter of offering Clearance Sales, etc. Our slogan hereafter will be to say boldly,

"We Sell Dependable Merchandise at Lower Prices Than Any Other Store, But We Sell for Cash Only."

To make this slogan an axiom of the store's business life. To inform the people about the new things that come into the store daily and the price changes, in our daily advertisements. To censor these advertisements so they speak truthfully.

To render a most efficient intelligent service. This is our Aim—Our Hope and Our Aspiration.
