straight burglarly work, but when it comes to making even the briefest address he is trebly nonplussed.
So when arraigned in the Supreme Court in the Bronx for sentence he answered Judge Gibbs' questions regarding whether he had anything to say in this way:
"Your honor, I never was much of a speaker, but I would be pleased if you would say anything that may occur to you in my behalf."
"Well," said Judge Gibbs, drawing a long breath, "I think that your general conduct might be improved by a stay of twenty months in the State prison. That is the sentence of the court."

A man employed on the copy desk of one of the big New York dailies was in a local hospital recently as a patient. When he had recovered sufficiently to walk about the halls of the institution, a picture theatre proprietor named Cohan was brought in for an appendicitis operation.
The operation left Cohan pretty ill, but he soon began to gain strength and then became inquisitive and talkative. Seeing the newspaper man passing the door of his room, Cohan called him in.
"Patient?" asked Cohan.
"Yes," replied the newspaper man.
"What's der name?"
"John Blank."
"Vat business?"
"Newspaper."
Cohan was quiet a moment. Then he asked: "Where's your stand?"

Seen around the town: Irvin Cobb in a bright green hat on lower Fifth Avenue. A famous Nickel Nurse trying to get by a hat boy without tipping him and looking like he had just robbed a bank. A well dressed woman smoking a gold-tipped cigarette in front of Chali's studio opposite Carnegie Hall. An ex-wife of Kid McCoy delivering a suffrage lecture in Times Square. A Hebrew street car conductor. A blind man with a patriotic flag in his coat lapel. A well known head waiter coming out of Tiffany's with a delicate looking package.

POLITICS BOILING IN SOUTHPORT

Strong Line Up For Municipal Positions—Civic League to Elect Officers.

(Special to The Dispatch.)
Southport, N. C., April 13.—The political pot has begun to boil. In May a mayor and six aldermen are to be elected to govern Southport during the next two years. In order to learn whom the voters want to vote for at the May election it is the custom to hold primaries—not regular legalized primaries—but the soap-box variety—for the purpose of nominating candidates. There is nothing binding about these primaries and a dozen men might make the race in the election, but they show something in regard to the wishes of the voters, and in the case of tightly drawn lines between candidates or issues they serve to indicate the way the election will go. There seems to be no real issue this year, and the rivalry between the individual candidates isn't distressingly heated.
Wednesday night the first of the ward primaries was held when about half of the voters of the first ward met for the purpose of nominating candidates. S. B. Northrup was made chairman and Price Furness was made secretary, while Will Davis and C. E. Gauss acted as tellers. The voters prepared their ballots and marched by and deposited them in a hat. The tellers counted the vote and found that M. G. Thompson, present incumbent, had 29 votes; Charles Hewitt, present incumbent, 17 votes, and George H. Ruark, whose friends were knocking for his admission into the charmed circle of City Dads, had 16 votes. Under a previous ruling of the chairman that the low man would drop out, Thompson and Hewitt were declared the nominees. The meeting adjourned sine die in peace and harmony, but there is a thing to prevent Ruark's friends present and absent last night from voting for him on election day.
The primary for the purpose of selecting a candidate for mayor will be held Friday night. Two years ago the bond advocates for water and sewerage and the anti's. This year there is no issue. The present incumbent, J. W. Ruark, was elected on the water and sewerage issue, and the friends of the proposition rallied around his flag two years ago in a way that would have delighted even a Tammany Hall chief. He is a candidate for re-election but the issue is gone. Price Purples, on former occasions mayor, is being boosted for the place also. The salary of the mayor has been increased some over former years, and while the salary is not regarded with over-zealous delight, still it lends attraction. The two candidates will not be very active themselves, but their friends may get busy along about Friday dusk and bring to the meeting a number of supporters of their favorites.

The Civic League, an organization of the women—partly social and partly public spirited in its nature, and quite a bit political—will also elect its officers at an early date. Last year the ins and outs made a rather active campaign, and ins won out—and taking the idea that Old Andy Jackson promulgated, "to the victor belongs the spoils," much to heart, they didn't place the outs on many committees. The outs have been a little indifferent this year about attending and yet holding back until the very last to the annual dues—if they meant to pay at all. The ins, as the little boy said, took "roundens" on 'em, if current report is to be believed, and along during March—or maybe it was in April—passed a ruling that no one could vote in the May election that had not paid their annual dues on or before the first day of April—a pattern after the general election law. There is no report as to whether or not any are exempt from paying poll tax—at any rate if the age limit is 50 years—that's a ripe old age.
But the report comes that there are three candidates for president among the present paid-up poll tax payers and those who would solicit the support of the non-paid-up members have their hands tied, for haven't they made a ruling? Of course they may have members join on the day of election and vote them, but it will be necessary to rescind the ruling. None but the inner circle, so rumor goes, have seen the ruling and it may have—like many a law—a saving clause in which new members are exempt from the provision of the law for a whole year. To a looker-on in Vienna it is all very interesting.

Broadway now has its own magazine de luxe. It was started by C. N. Reinhardt, a young man of journalistic ability. The publication is called "Broadway Brevities," and it contains all of the spicy gossip of Flash Alley in a bright and breezy style.
It has a way of presenting the salacious talk of the White Way by letting the reader read between the lines. Thus in its first issue it tells of a famous playright who has been "bitting the pipe"; a newspaper man who is quite attentive to a well known actress, although he is married and of a man who is now fitting about in society posing as a duke.
If the editor escapes the fate of William F. Brann, the Texas Iconoclast, and the vigilant Mr. Sumner, of the vice society the journalistic fledgling promises to pass the pin feather stage and become one of the magazine successes of the past few years.

A movement has been started to put bells on all cats. It is declared now that the felines are killing too many birds in the parks, but if they wore bells the noise would frighten away the object of their prey before the cats could get in their deadly work.

NATIONAL GUARD NOW RECRUITING

To be Continued Till Companies Are at Full Peace Strength in Numbers.

(By Associated Press.)
Washington, April 13.—Army department commanders have been ordered to resume recruiting National Guard organizations to the peace strength of the regular army, 100 men to the company. Many companies now have as low as 65 men.
A War Department statement was issued today to make plain that National Guard recruiting had not been discontinued.
"Such an impression is not correct," the statement says, "and department commanders have been informed that National Guard organizations may be recruited to the maximum peace strength of the regular army."
Recruiting of the Guard to war strength will not be undertaken until Congress has authorized the emergency enlistment contract, to hold during the war. Otherwise men would be required to obligate themselves to six years service in the Guard, irrespective of the present emergency. It is felt that this would be unfair to men who wish to volunteer for the war only.
No decision has yet been announced as to the possibility that the States may increase their number of units to the full quota authorized by the national defense act. If every State took that step, twelve full divisions of National Guard would be available with a peace strength of 440,000 enlisted men and a war strength of approximately 650,000. Many additional officers would be required, however, to organize new units and that may result in delaying this element of mobilization.
