Christy Mathewson's Birthday. St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 11.—It's a forty-first cinch that the Cincinnati Reds will try their "darndest" to win tomorrow's game against the Cardinals and thereby do their bit in celebrating the birthday of Christy Mathewson, who this season is adding more leaves to his wreath of fame by his success as manager of the Reds.

Christopher Mathewson, affectionately known to all followers of the national game as "Matty," "Big Six" and the "Old Master," was born at Factoryville, Pa., Aug. 12, 1880.

After pastime with the Keystone academy and the Bucknell university ball teams, he joined the professional ranks in 1899 as a member of the Taunton (Mass.) team.

In 1900 he pitched for the Norfolk (Va.) team, winning 21 games and losing 2 during the season. Then he was drafted from the Virginia league by the Cincinnati club, who traded him to the New York Giants for Amos Rusie.

Mathewson's record for 1901, his first full season with the Giants, showed 20 games won and 17 lost. Almost immediately he developed into one of the world's greatest baseball stars. Year after year he continued to pitch the "Matty" brand of ball until 1915, when a lame shoulder forced him from the mound. Last year he became manager of the Cincinnati Reds, a tall-end outfit which the "Old Master" has succeeded this season in tuning up to a winning pitch.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is catarrh. Catarrh being greatly influenced by constitutional conditions requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Medicine is taken internally and acts thru the Blood on the Mucous Surfaces of the System thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in the curative powers of Hall's Catarrh Medicine that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address F. NEW YORK—DAY-BY-DAY.

(Special Correspondent of the Dispatch). New York, Aug. 11.—Little Frances White, who came out of the west and jumped from the chorus ranks to one of Broadway's most popular stars, has found six weeks of married life entirely sufficient—and has sued for a divorce.

The story of her meteor like rise is one of the Rialto's favorite stories. She had had very little stage experience except with a small repertoire company that toured the tanks.

She met William Rock, perhaps the best known dancer in the theatrical world. He trained her nimble feet and she became his partner. For several years they have been featured at the Midnight Frolics. It had been rumored many times that they were to be married.

But just a few weeks ago the announcement was made that Miss White was to continue dancing with Rock but would marry Frank Fay, a vaudeville actor. Rock and the girl continued to dance and each night her husband waited for her at the stage door.

As a wedding present Rock, who is about twice her age, presented her with a handsome car. And now the little dancer is tired of her husband and wants the bonds severed and to add a dash of excitement to the case Fay, the husband, has sued Rock for $100,000 charging that he alienated the affections of his wife for "personal and financial motives."

The suits were filed in the morning and that night Miss White and Rock laughed at reporters and before a large audience Mr. Rock sang: My best girl's a corker, nor the kind that's slow.

A born and bred New Yorker I'll have you all to know. You may talk about your Mollies, your Nellies and your Pearls. They're all back numbers when compared to my best girl.

A football for soda drinkers is the latest. A soda fountain has been installed in the foyer of the Hotel Majestic because the management believes that it will be only a short while until soft drinks will be the universal beverage.

In a symposium prepared by the hotel it was stated that a tried and true bar tender has consented to take charge of the soda fountain in the lobby provided that for old time's sake a brass football would be placed in front of the fountain.

Incidentally the hotel also announces that the price of soda water will be thirty-five cents each. Whisky highballs are doubling in price all over town. At one la-de-da dansant, frequented by night birds, a highball is one dollar a copy.

He was young and some day he will be rich. He was propelling his fair companion by the arm up and down the walks in Riverside Park. From the way they bumped into other pedestrians, stumbled over benches and fell over rocks at the turns theirs was a hopeless case.

So far the young man had spent nothing but the afternoon. The girl had hopes, however. In an unguarded moment he allowed her to lead him in sight of a small peanut roaster. The girl's nose tip-tilted expectantly. "My, my, how good those peanuts smell," she exclaimed seemingly in nasal ecstasy.

"They certainly do," agreed the complacent swain. "Let's go closer so we can get a better smell."

Down in Hester street and Baxter street mothers and their little children are sleeping out on the sidewalks on blankets. These narrow streets are insufferably hot and it is the only way to get a bit of fresh air. The patrolmen are careful that teams do not pass through the streets and awaken the sleepers.

Who Pays For The Advertising? Wouldn't you prefer, if you had a clothing store, to sell a hundred suits of clothes in a day, making an average profit of $2.00 per suit, to selling ten suits in a day, with an average profit of $5.00 per suit?

Suppose that, to sell the hundred suits a day you should spend, say, $20.00 per day in advertising. Who would be "taxed" for the advertising? Your patrons? Scarcely—when they pay you $3.00 less than they would have to pay for the identical suits to the merchant who does NOT advertise.

You Scarcely—when you make a great deal more money than you would if you "saved" your advertising appropriation. Your non-advertising competitor—in the penalty he pays for not doing so large a volume of business as he COULD do by advertising, and taking a smaller per-sale profit? That's it—precisely!

OUTFIELDER MARSANS BREAKS LEG IN A SLIDE

(By Associated Press.) New York, Aug. 11.—Armando Marsans, the Cuban outfielder recently procured by the New York American League club from St. Louis in trade for Lee Magee, broke his right leg in the first inning of the game between New York-Cleveland here yesterday. Marsans met with the injury while sliding home. His spikes caught in the plate and snapped the bone just above the ankle.

"Red Heads" to Hold Reunion.

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 11.—Arrangements are being made for the second annual reunion soon to be held here by the Red Head League of America. Several hundred "red-heads" from Illinois, Michigan, Iowa, Indiana, Kentucky and other States of the Middle West are expected to attend this year's gathering. The only requirement for membership in the organization is that one have red hair.
