THE BRITISH ARE HOLDING ALL GROUND

Heavy German Attacks have Failed to Shake General Byng Loose

RUSSIAN SITUATION CONTINUES SERIOUS

A Civil War Now Threatening—Bolshevik Making Peace Offers—Italians Bravely Hold Back Enemy

New German attempts to drive the British from their positions in Bourlon wood and the high ground dominating the Cambrai region have failed. General Byng's men have repulsed another enemy counter attack at the northeast corner of the wood. There was much severe fighting Monday around Moeuvres, west of the Bourlon wood and in the outskirts of Fontaine Notre Dame, immediately east of the wood, and toward Cambrai. German artillery has been active in the Ypres and Verdun regions. In Flanders, the British positions at Passchendaele, the northern part of the Passchendaele-Ghevelot route are being bombarded heavily by the enemy, but Crown Prince Rupprecht, of Bavaria, has not attempted infantry attacks.

On the right bank of the Meuse, where the French gained the first and second German defenses on a two mile front Sunday, German efforts to attack have been checked by French artillery while the enemy guns have been bombarding the new French positions. The activity of the big guns also has been violent in Belgium and north of the German des Dames. French and British soldiers have reached the fighting zone of the Venetian plains to aid the Italians in their drive against the invading Austro-German forces. Between the Brenta and the Piave the Italians are withstanding successfully massed enemy attacks. The invaders attempted to rush the defending lines on the left, in the center, and on the right of the short front between the rivers but were crushed everywhere.

British cavalry is now three and one-half miles west of Jerusalem and is closing in on the Turkish defenses from the southwest. The Turks are offering some resistance and are holding the Jerusalem-Shechem road to the north in strength. North of Jaffa, British patrols have been driven back to the southern side of the Nahr-El-Anjel.

The situation in Russia shows it is improving and the country is described as being on the verge of civil war. Efforts of the Bolshevik government to arrange an armistice, continue, and Berlin and Petrograd are reported in communication by wireless, presumably in connection with the peace offer of the Maximilian. The second army on the Russian northern front, has removed its offices, moved to the Bolsheviks' army headquarters and pledged its support to the extremists.

The American government has received the armistice note from the Petrograd government and it is under consideration. The ministers of the allied powers in the Russian capital, it is reported unofficially, will demand that reports if Russia enters into separate peace negotiations.

General G. H. D. Don Cossack leader according to a dispatch received in London, is master of the situation in Russia. He is in control of most of the grain-growing territory in the south and is said to hold the Russian side of the front. He was removed from Petrograd a year before the war broke out. The Russian soldiers at the front are reported desperate from hunger, due to the exhaustion of food supplies and mutinies are said to have broken out.

In a procession of taxicabs, the heroine militants, some of them showing the rigors of enforced feeding and willful starvation, were taken in a triumphant procession to the headquarters.

(By Associated Press.) Norfolk, Va., Nov. 27.—The clerks and longshoremen of the Norfolk-Southern, who went on strike about 10 days ago, are the latest to return to work. After a conference this morning with General Robert McWade, senior member of the conciliation commission, Joseph H. Young, president of the Norfolk-Southern, agreed to take back all of the striking clerks without discrimination and the settlement of the trouble as far as that line is concerned was concluded. It was further agreed by Mr. Young that there would be no interference with the rights of the clerks as American citizens which means that they will be permitted to become members of the Union.

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 27.—With the arrest of a large number of suspects early today in connection with Saturday night's bomb outrage which resulted in the killing of 10 persons, the police department was hopeful that before many hours they would secure something definite on which to fasten responsibility. His report contained few details but indicated the men in the new movement were of the conservative element and were determined to do what they could to hold back from their part of Russia the waves of disorder. The governing power has been placed in an assembly of 38 men.

No direct news came from Petrograd today but from Sweden reports were received that indicate the editors have manifested their sympathy for General Kaideines. Conditions in Finland are reported threatened with new complications by the probable renewal of a general strike. The food shortage is becoming more acute.

No special instructions have been sent to Ambassador Francis and it was indicated at the State Department his acts in Petrograd would be governed largely by his own judgment and that even his departure from Petrograd, in a case of emergency, would not be a question of instruction from Washington, but one for his own decision.

MRS. DE SAULLES CROSS EXAMINED BY PROSECUTION

District Attorney Week's Puts Most Searching Questions to Defendant

TODAY'S EXAMINATION WAS NOT EXPECTED

Had Been Thought Mrs. De Saulles Would Not Have to Undergo Ordeal at This Time

(By Associated Press.) Mineola, N. Y., Nov. 27.—A letter in which the defendant told her husband "it was the greatest regret of her life" she had not been "able to make him a good wife" was read into the record today during cross examination of Mrs. Blanca De Saulles on trial here charged with murdering her divorced husband, John L. De Saulles.

There were indications this letter would be used by attorneys for the prosecution in their attempt to break down the story of "indifferent neglect" on the part of her husband, told in direct examination by the young woman yesterday. The letter was written while Mrs. De Saulles was on ship board bound for Chile to visit relatives in 1916 prior to the granting of her divorce decree.

At that time, the witness said, she felt that her married life was ended—permanently. Mrs. De Saulles countered her admission that she wrote the letter saying "she was to blame for everything" by stating "De Saulles always made me believe that I was at fault."

In his questioning District Attorney Week asked apologetically into into Mrs. De Saulles' marital relations. "Is it not a fact after the birth of your son you refused to live with John De Saulles as man and wife?" was one of the interrogations.

The witness said this was not true. "Did you not tell an intimate woman friend that you did not care who your husband married around with as long as he stayed away from you?" asked Week.

"That is a lie," was Mrs. De Saulles' reply.

War Department's Weekly Communique Exudes More Optimism

FORECAST OF MORE GAINS IN THE FUTURE

Italians Have Been Able to Check Teuton Effort, and the British Dealt a Heavy Blow

(By Associated Press.) Washington, Nov. 27.—"The week just closed has been one very favorable to the allied arms," says the War Department's official communique today reviewing military operations for the week ending Saturday.

"The success of the British offensive in the region of Cambrai and the steady resistance of the Italians in the face of the repeated attacks of the Austro-German forces are two factors which may be considered as correlative elements of one and the same movement."

"It is evident that the enemy took the offensive in Italy hoping thereby to extricate himself from the increasingly difficult position in which his forces find themselves in the west. * * * Both the French and British have though dispatched large contingents to Italy, this has in no way hampered the continuance of their offensive operations."

"It is the wastage of the enemy forces, the slow, yet relentless, sapping of his man-power by continued and sudden offensive thrusts, which must eventually result in the softening of his line in the west. * * *"

"The military situation is dominated by the spectacular success gained by the British forces in their thrust towards Cambrai. By adopting new tactical methods, by evolving a strategy daringly conceived and brilliantly executed, the British forces have been able to record a greater success when measured by captured terrain than any hitherto achieved by either belligerent in the same space of time along the western front. While seemingly continuing his offensive engagements in Flanders by an intense artillery bombardment in the sector stretching from Ypres to the North Sea, Field Marshal Haig was able to mask successfully his plans for an offensive thrust between the Scarpe river and St. Quentin."

"The usual preliminary artillery preparation was dispensed with. The elements of surprise so essential to victory played a large part in the success gained. The British, by a preponderant numerical superiority in men and mobile material, by improving the skillful tactical maneuvering of an unusual number of tanks and by co-ordinating with precision the deployment of cavalry, made use of these two arms to bear the brunt of the counter-attacks. Then was called upon to hold and consolidate the terrain gained. Thus the British were able to record a decided success with very great economy of munitions, and slight casualties. Three successive German lines of defense, on a frontage of six miles astride the Cambrai-Bapaume road were captured, and the Scheidt canal, in front of Cambrai, was crossed. * * *"

"The British forces, while still pressing forward, are meeting with increased resistance."

"Cambrai, the center of very important railroad and canal lines of communications, now comes under the immediate fire of British field guns, while the large calibre high velocity and naval guns can readily search out the enemy side for miles in the rear, harassing hostile territory and rendering the continued tenure of the city by the enemy difficult. * * *"

"The number of prisoners enumerated hitherto is over 10,000, which exceeds the total British casualties."

"While the battle for Cambrai has resulted in so rapid and sweeping an advantage for the British forces, apparently without extensive preliminary preparation, it must not be forgotten that it was only made possible by the continued pounding of the German line in Flanders. In the meantime, the British have not ceased to keep the enemy busy in the Ypres salient, and gains of terrain are noted to the southeast."

"Along the front held by the French forces, the latter have achieved a successful coup de main south of Juvincourt, in Champagne, resulting in the capture of some elements of enemy trenches and the taking of numerous prisoners."

"In the sector where our troops are training increased artillery activity is noted. Small detachments, while on patrol duty have gained some useful (Continued on Page Eight)."
