A GOOD TIP FOR RHEUMATIC FOLKS

Vegetable Preparations Superceded by Mineral Compound Unearthed Down In Mississippi.

Cheap As Dirt and Drives Out "Rheumatiz."

Waking up mornings stiff and numb with rheumatism won't let any man or woman do much work and when the pains get up around the shoulders and arms damp mornings you can't do anything at all. Climate has a lot to do with it but no use rubbing or waiting and the discovery of Acid Iron Mineral down in Mississippi gives most anyone a chance to soon be free from such troubles. One man, Mr. J. B. Watkins, of Troutville, Va., writes: "I suffered from rheumatism so bad I hadn't been able to raise my arm above my head and couldn't get my coat off for a long time, and damp days a dull throbbing pain in my shoulder, especially at night drove me crazy almost, but Acid Iron Mineral was recommended and one little bottle did the work for me and I want to recommend it. I can now use my arms and shoulders freely and even damp chilly mornings I am not troubled in the least. Its use proved its merit and I'm for it all the time."

GLADYS BROCKWELL DIRECTION WILLIAM FOX

In the Stirring Patriotic Spectacle, "For Liberty," at the Grand Tomorrow.

MILDRED HARRIS

IN the capable hands of such a director as Lois Weber, stage experience is one of those things which count not at all. At least, that is what Miss Weber herself thought when she saw Mildred Harris for the first time. The wonderful success of "The Price of a Good Time" is due to the wonderfully expressive face of this sixteen-year-old star, who never trouped or even recited. "Twas the night before Christmas" before she was elected to a motion picture career. And now comes the announcement that she is to have the leading role in the picture version of Mrs. Mary Roberts Rinehart's famous novel "K." The producers have chosen to call it "The Doctor and the Woman," and it must be admitted that it is a much more advisable title than the original. But just the same, the half million or so who bought the book are going to sorrow over the loss of the old title. They will not, however, stay away from the pictures on that account. Mildred Harris is just as pretty a "Sidney" as ever Mrs. Rinehart dreamed. True Boardman is the "K."

The exact number of destroyers now under construction never has been announced, but it is known to run into the hundreds.

CHEER UP GIRLS GOOD

Chorus Is Composed of Good Looking Lot of Girls

The Cheer-Up Girls opened their week's engagement at the Royal theatre yesterday and were well received both in the afternoon and at night, and heavy attendance is expected throughout the week, as the company's offerings are put across with snap and vim that is refreshing. The settings give one visions of road companies and all song numbers are handled in a very pleasing manner, the chorus working smoothly and harmoniously and being especially effective in the ensemble work. It is composed of extremely good looking young women and is very diversified in that it includes both blondes and brunettes, and one whose hair is as pretty a shade of red as one cares to see. The Cheer-Up Girls will be at the Royal for the entire week with three changes of bill and if the two new bills to come are as pleasing as the opening one the completion of their engagement will be regretted.

WENT OVER BIG.

Just about the neatest thing ever seen in a tabloid musical comedy show in the South was presented at the Royal for the first time yesterday afternoon and last night with the presentation of Hoey and Mozar's Cheer-Up Girls, with the greatest combination of vaudeville acts, specialties and musical comedy that Wilmington amusement lovers have ever witnessed. It played to packed houses, and will undoubtedly continue to do so throughout the entire week. Chief among them is Jeanette Mozar, in real Scotch singing, who made a distinct hit and called for many encores at every appearance. Miss Mozar is possessed of a voice of remarkable resonance and depth and put over both high and low register in an admirable manner. The Jazz Quartette is another big feature with this show, and Lillian Gay, in songs, Carter and Mozar in songs and dances, and Peggy Burns the doll girl, who appeals to everyone. The Gay Sisters in character dances and Nat Carter in comedy songs were other delightful features. The big opening bill will be repeated today and tonight for the last times.

RAWLINSON TRAVELS EAST.

Transcontinental trips are getting to be more than common now in spite of bad weather, fuel shortages and paternal advice against pleasure travel by the railroad regulator. Close on the heels of Wallace Reed comes Herbert Rawlinson, the star of "Come Through," and a long list of Universal features. Herbie came on to spend a slight vacation in the metropolis with friend lonely wife, whose stage name is Roberta Arnold, and to take care of sundry other matters closely pertaining to the well-known salary envelope.

ANCIENT EGYPT

A faithful reproduction to scale of one of the principal streets of the ancient city of Alexandria, Egypt, is a scenic feature of Goldwyn's production "Thais," Mary Garden's first motion picture vehicle, which is to be seen at the Grand theatre beginning next Monday and Tuesday. On the lot back of the Goldwyn studio at Fort Lee, N. J., there was erected a group of buildings reproducing in the finest and most artistic detail every architectural and structural feature of Egypt's "golden city" of the Fourth Century. Still pagans 400 years after the birth of Christ, Romans, Greeks and Egyptians worshipped in marble temples the old gods of their fathers, while the Christians, but lately free from three centuries of martyrdom, still prayed in dark caves and secret cellars in constant peril of fresh outbreaks of persecution. The Greek-Egyptian temple at the head of the street was the most imposing structure in the great set. The temple was 115 feet high from the foot of the steps to the peak of the roof and 140 feet wide. The street, of the width of the temple, was 350 feet long. On each side of it were a score or more of small shops, houses, booths and similar structures. A force of 50 men working seven days a week for nearly three weeks built this tremendous scene set. When the scene was photographed it was peopled by more than 1,500 men and women.

CAN ANY KIDNEY MEDICINE EQUAL THIS RECORD

I began the drug business in Thomasville, N. C., in August, 1897, and Swamp-Root was one of the very first preparations I placed in stock and not a day since I opened my business have I been out of any of the Dr. Kilmer & Co. preparations. Swamp-Root has been one of the best sellers I have carried and I can recommend it to my customers as a reliable remedy for kidney and bladder troubles. I have never had a customer bring back a bottle or report that Swamp-Root failed to benefit their case. It is a remedy that has given entire satisfaction. Surely Swamp-Root is a preparation of merit; had it not been during all these years, there would certainly have been a great howl going up through the country and it would have been banished from the market, but to the contrary it has increased in sales and now Swamp-Root still leads all other preparations I carry for its specific disease—kidney trouble. Any one suffering with kidney or bladder trouble would not go wrong in using Swamp-Root.
