

Seen On Broadway

By O O McTye. New York, April 20.—The news that a real live band of Parisian Apaches had come to New York—real live ones with guns and everything—gave the snappy loungers something to talk about during the week. There are reported to be about twenty-five of the montmartre rascals working as waiters in hotels. It is probable that they will not be lonesome, being so near the hot pirates. With the coming of the Apaches comes the revival of the apache dances—the rough and tumble struggle held affairs that used to be popular in the suburbs. These distinguished visitors this week were Mary Pickford, Douglas Fairbanks and Charles Chaplin who came in from California to whom the Liberty Loan in every city and villa through which they passed thousands greeted them. In Salt Lake City, 16,000 people waited hours in a blinding snowstorm to see them. They were accompanied by Jack Gleason who introduced them at every railroad station. It was hard to sell which one is the most popular. Down in Wall street where they aped some antics said the Miss Pickford got the most applause but they may have been in a desire to be set. Lillian Lorraine has gone back to the management of Florina Ziegfeld, and whose management she started. Miss Lorraine was one of the first baselines to help in making Ziegfeld famous as an employer of beauty. She broke with him, however, and went into vaudeville for herself—now she is going back as a star in a midnight show. William Barrett Riggley, former U. S. Comptroller, now developing a mine in the West, arrived in town this week to attend a banquet given in his honor, and told one of the best stories of the week. The day after the second draft quota had reached a Western camp, according to Mr. Riggley, a rookie strolled into camp after dark. As he was going past a sentry, he was challenged. "Who goes there?" "Machine gun 301," answered the rookie. "Advance to be recognized." "Aw, you don't know me, I've only been here a couple of days." And here is another war story that has been going the rounds of Broadway. A certain regiment is one of the big Eastern contingents became very impatient to go abroad some weeks ago, and was very much disappointed at the likelihood of having to undergo several weeks more of training. Two members of the command succeeded in getting transferred to a battalion that was going across immediately. Whereupon the rest of the regiment hoisted a service flag with two stars on it. One of the stars of the circus is "Dainty Marie," a Venus who reports in a swinging waltz in white silk. She is said to be the most popular of the other day that when she was a little girl in St. Leavenworth, Kansas, she was the ugliest girl in town. She had freckles, cross eyes, scraggly red hair and an upturned nose. She was sour asemic and ill-tempered. She saw a circus lady on a trapeze one day and became ambitious to be one herself. She ran away, outdoor life, swinging on the trapeze and an operation for cross eyes made her one of the famous big top beauties. She believes that an ugly young girl can do the same thing—but not every ugly young girl wants to join a circus and swing in a trapeze in gauze tights. Many of them would just as leave remain homely.

Mrs. Isaac Margolis and little daughter have returned from New York, where Mrs. Margolis has been for several months for medical treatment for her little daughter. mer in their home here, to the pleasure of all Wallace friends. Mrs. John Parker and little daughter, of Hopewell, Va., are visiting relatives here. Mrs. Parker was formerly Miss Bessie Newkirk, of Wallace. Mrs. LaFayette Southerland and sister, Miss Lizzie Reade, left Wednesday for their old home, Timberlake. Mrs. Southerland stopped over in Raleigh, where she was a delegate to the Methodist Conference. Miss Reade has spent the winter here with her sisters, Mrs. Southerland and

Mrs. F. P. Powers, and has been such a power in the work of the town, especially Red Cross, that everyone feels that her leaving is quite a loss. Miss Lula Boney is visiting relatives in Wilmington. Mr. Herbert Cavanaugh, son of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Cavanaugh, has enlisted in the navy this week, and is now awaiting orders. In the meantime this Red Cross chapter is getting ready his comfort kit, sweater, etc.
