THE UNFORTUNATE DR. SIMONS

Dr. Simons German foreign minister is a prophet without honor not only in his own country but also abroad. The Doctor is certainly out of luck.

When he appeared before the allied council in London with German reparations proposals he went from that assembly under warm disfavor with the council. Lloyd George was sure that the German proposals were out of the question, and the world generally agreed with the Premier.

Dr. Simons' utterances were severely criticized.

The other day Dr. Simons forever embittered himself with French people and other right thinking people when he wrote suggesting that France is making use of her injuries as a beggar would his sores. He said, "There seems to exist in France only a limited degree of concern for the rehabilitation of the devastated region," and that, "influential opinion in France sees in the devastated region a remarkable opportunity for a political agitation which will always make a deep impression in the minds of the people of France and on foreigners." This obviously biased and somewhat unscrupulous statement makes the Doctor appear in an ugly light to the world generally.

And yet the unfortunate Dr. Simons can find no solace at home, for he is very unpopular in Germany. While the American, British and French newspapers are busy belaboring him for his remarks, the Berlin press is sharply criticizing the foreign minister for further remarks. The Germans feel that Dr. Simons has been too generous in his remarks as to Germany's capacity for meeting reparations demands. The press even goes so far as to urge the removal of the Doctor from office.

And while the Germans are talking together of selecting another man to represent them among the foreign countries the foreign countries are wondering among themselves if Germany couldn't find a more reasonable man to consult with them about reparations and the fulfillment of reparations.

QUEER PEOPLE.
This world is full of any number of queer-minded people. These persons have never been committed to an institution for the insane and they go about the world accounted as sane. Then some day they furnish the newspapers with a front page story of some abnormal affair they have staged.

There was Roy Harris who persisted in declaring that he had committed murder, had participated in the killing of Joseph Elwell, rich New York club man, whose death has puzzled the police for months. This unimportant Roy Harris, probably tired of his unimportance, desired to be classed as a murderer, to be tried before a solemn Court on the charge of killing a man in cold blood. He had a long and intricate story of the details of the bloody affair and he tried desperately to make the police believe the story. He was beside himself to make his story credible. And then the whole thing fell through. His earnest desire to go down on the books as a murderer aroused the suspicion of the police and they led him through a maze of questioning calculated to get him confused, and he did get confused. He got his stories mixed, and confessed the pitiful truth the whole story was a hoax.

Then the other night as the bright lights of a New York night were coming on a young woman alarmed theater goers in the midst of the New York theater district by pursuing a young man down the street and shooting at him with a pistol. A woman across the street was slightly injured, and the very much frightened young man escaped. On the sidewalk while patrolmen drove back the morbid crowd that grew denser every moment this shameless young woman told those who might hear the story of a desperate love for the young man in the case, a love entirely unreturned, and at last in desperation over his indifference she decided to shoot him and then kill herself.

More than likely you read in the papers about the young man, a swimmer and athlete of some repute, who jumped off Brooklyn bridge and landed safely in the Hudson river. This happened just a few days ago. The fellow said he "had up a bet" on the proposition.

Oh, the world is full of them.

SCHOOL OF METHODS CLOSING TOMORROW NIGHT
The School of Methods and Teacher Training at the First Christian Church closed its third day last night. While the enrollment has not been heavy, a number of out of town Bible schools have been represented. A number of visitors who were able to spend only a day have come in and encouraged the workers by their presence. Owing to the transient nature of the attendance the number of graduates will not be as large as expected.

One of the best features of the school is the special work being done for the Atlantic Christian College. At 10 o'clock each day the entire student body hears Mr. Charles Darcie lecture on "The Bible and Missions". At 1 o'clock in the afternoon the work in the three departments of the Bible School, elementary, secondary and adult is presented in separate class rooms by Miss Irvin, Miss Maus and Mr. Darcie. The attendance at these classes is increasing daily, and much interest is being manifested. As these young people will go out over the State for their life work the far reaching benefits of this instruction may readily be seen.

The School of Methods will close tomorrow night. All those interested in the great work of religious education are invited to attend the sessions at 3:45 in the afternoons and 7:15 in the evenings. A special invitation is extended to the public to visit the school for the graduation and recognition services at 7:30 Friday evening.

The Free-Westinghouse
ELECTRIC SEWING MACHINE

A sewing machine that is ALWAYS in use—because when it isn't sewing it is a useful piece of furniture.

We have Mr. W. E. Davis from the factory to demonstrate for us.

A Treat For Women Who Sew

THIS week this store is going to give special attention to women who sew. An expert, from the Free Sewing Machine factory, will be here, and you are cordially invited to come in and see the really marvelous sewing machine which he is demonstrating. You'll find it quite worth while—and you'll be glad you came.

We believe the Free-Westinghouse to be a better sewing machine than any which hasn't its exclusive feature of bobbin movement, tension regulation and other advantages.

Also it's a really electric machine—because the motor is built-in, not hooked on. It will run as slowly as you want it to, or as fast as 800 stitches—perfect stitches—a minute.

And when not opened for sewing, it's a well designed, good looking desk or serving table. It's useful all the time—easy payments—and your old machine can apply on a new one.

NEW HAVEN HERE TODAY
The New Haven Club, champions of the Eastern League are here for a game today. This team is one of the very strongest in Minor League baseball, and it should offer quite a source of amusement and entertainment for the spectator. Chief Bender, probably the greatest pitcher that has ever donned a uniform is managing the New Haven team, and it is quite likely that he will be seen in action for a brief period today. The New Haven aggregation has a number of former big league stars in its line up, and also possesses several recruits of much promise.

RALEIGH PLAYS HERE TOMORROW
Tomorrow at four p. m., the Capitol City team piloted by Joe Ward who was so successful last season, and who has won a reputation as a minor league manager will appear in the city for a brief session at the Wilson League Park. The Raleigh team is in the Piedmont League, elevated this season to class C, and all reports have it that Ward has collected a very promising bunch of youngsters. He promises to do all in his power to give the local aggregation a good licking, and Clarke's bunch is equally anxious to show up the fellows from over Raleigh way. It is a thing to be desired and especially is this true since Raleigh is a larger town playing in a lower class league, and again it is remembered in the local camp that when Wilson tried to gain a berth in the Piedmont league we were denied that gracious privilege, and were consequently taken into the Virginia League, and elevated a couple of notches above our ancient rivals. These things will be remembered tomorrow, and while there is no animosity present in the local camp there is a desire to show the Piedmont league that they made a mistake something more than a year ago when our knock at the portals was made in vain.

Don't Worry.
