

Mothers

Anxiously watch declining health of their daughters. So many are cut off by consumption in early years that there is real cause for anxiety. In the early stages, when not beyond the reach of medicine, Hood's Sarsaparilla will restore the quality and quantity of the blood and thus give good health. Read the following letter:

"It is but just to write about my daughter Cora, aged 19. She was completely run down, declining, had that tired feeling, and friends said she would not live over three months. She had a bad and nothing seemed to do her any good. I happened to read about Hood's Sarsaparilla and had her give it a trial. From the very first dose she began to get better. After taking a few bottles she was completely cured and her health has been the best ever since." Mrs. ADDIS PEEK, 15 Railroad Place, Amsterdam, N. Y.

"I will say that my mother has not stated my case in as strong words as I would have done. Hood's Sarsaparilla has truly cured me and I am now well." CORA PEEK, Amsterdam, N. Y.

Be sure to get Hood's, because

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Is the One True Blood Purifier. All druggists. $1 Prepared only by C. L. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Hood's Pills are purely vegetable, reliable and beneficial. $2c. Killed by a Rattlesnake.

A rancher of Antelope Valley, Cal., died from rattlesnake bite a week or so ago. He went to feed his dogs late one night, and thrust his hand into one of the kennels. A huge desert snake in the kennel bit him. He was not able to get medical attention until the next day, when it proved unavailing, and he died in great agony. Almost his whole body turned coal black.

A Bloodthirsty Monarch.

The King of Benin, on the west coast of Africa, believes in the efficacy of human sacrifices. When times are good he kills a large number of slaves, and in seasons of calamity he kills an equally large number of these unfortunate, and in both cases to appease the gods, who are supposed to be equally angry at the good and the ill fortune of mortals.

MOTHERS MUST GUIDE.

Should Watch the Physical Development of Their Daughters.

Information They Should Furnish at the Proper Time—Knowledge by Which Suffering May Be Avoided.

Every mother possesses information of vital value to her young daughter. When the girl's thoughts become sluggish, with headache, dizziness, and a disposition to sleep, pains in back and lower limbs, eyes dim, desire for solitude, and a dislike to the society of children: when she is a mystery to herself and friends, then her mother should come to her aid.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will, at this time, prepare the system for the coming change. See that she has it, and Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., will cheerfully answer any letters where information is desired. Thousands of women owe their health to her and the Vegetable Compound, and mothers are constantly applying to her for advice regarding their daughters.

FOR FARM AND GARDEN.

SUGAR BEETS FOR GREAT BRITAIN.

At a recent agricultural meeting in London, England, the cultivation and manufacture of sugar beets was strongly advocated. It was contended that the beets could be grown in Great Britain to produce as large a percentage of sugar as was produced on the continent, and a resolution was passed recommending that a deputation wait on the minister of agriculture to ask him to interest himself in the matter. —New York World.

TUMOR IN THE TEAT.

A tumor in the duct of the teat must be attended to immediately, or the teat and the quarter of the udder to which it belongs may be spoiled permanently. A milking tube should be used. This is a silver tube made for the purpose, and can be procured of a druggist or from a surgical instrument maker. It is greased with vaseline and carefully pushed into the teat at milking time, and when the cow gives down the milk it will run down from the tube, as well as from the other teats. The teat should be treated with iodine ointment, rubbed on opposite the tumor, twice a day. The cow should be given one pound of Epsom salts, and this is to be repeated the third day. During this treatment no grain food should be given more than a bran mash twice a day. Overfeeding with cornmeal often produces this trouble with cows. —New York Times.

A TOOLHOUSE FOR THE GARDEN.

A toolhouse for the garden is indispensable. It does not need to be more than six by eight feet, which will hold all the needed tools and implements. The list of these should comprise a hand plow, cultivator and seed drill combined; a steel rake, a hoe, and a spade for this ancient tool still has its uses in finishing up the corners where the hand plow cannot reach. The ground may be cultivated in the most successful manner with these implements, so that the horse need not be admitted into the garden any more. That is, unless it is a large one, and is laid out to suit the cumbersome awkwardness of a horse, plow, and driver, in a line of twenty feet, and requiring a great space to turn in.

To lay out a garden in this way, everything should be in rows, and at each end of the garden, twice as long as it is wide, there should be a wide strip of grass for the horse to turn upon. Worked in this way, with a narrow share, the land may be plowed with one horse as deep as may ever be required. But even then all the hand implements mentioned above will be needed for the after cultivation. —New York Times.

APPLE ORCHARDS AS WINDBREAKS.

Wherever forests are cleared off there soon comes a demand for a windbreak of some kind to shelter buildings and stock from the cold blasts, and to protect the farm from the severest winter winds. It is a good practice to set an orchard either on the windward side of the farm or of the house and other farm buildings. It is true the trees are bare in winter, and unless there is a close fence to obstruct the wind near the surface it will blow under the trees nearly as strong as if no orchard were, in the way. This can be remedied by planting a row of evergreens on the windward side. This will also hold the snow from being blown away from the orchard. Most fruit trees suffer from lack of water in the summer season when they are perfecting their fruit. It is abundance of water that enables their roots to take up the mineral plant food, which is essential to seed production. It is the lack of water that causes so large a proportion of fruit to fall soon after it is formed. The time comes for forming the seed, and the mineral element needed is either not in the soil or is unavailable, because there is not water in the soil to dissolve it. —Boston Cultivator.

ALFALFA CULTURE.

Alfalfa, or lucerne, as it is often termed, is a very deep-rooting plant. This habit enables it to withstand drought well, thus adapting it to arid regions. It grows very slowly during the first season, making irrigation necessary to establish it in dry climates and rendering it liable to be choked out by weed or killed by frost in cold climates.

To those who wish to experiment with this plant the Ohio station offers the following suggestions as the method of culture: Select loose soil, preferably sandy, lying above a gravelly or porous sub-soil, with, if possible, a subterranean water supply. The soil conditions which are found in many of our river-bottom lands would seem to be most favorable. Avoid a soil on which water stands or one having hardpan near the surface.

Prepare the land by ploughing and harrowing most thoroughly, as soon as it can be worked in the spring. Sow the seed (which should be American grown) at the rate of twenty to thirty pounds to the acre and cover it with a light harrow. When the weeds have grown to sufficient height clip them off with a mowing machine, with the cutter bar turned up so as not to cut close to the ground, repeating this as the weeds grow during the season.

No crop is to be expected during the first season, but it should give two cuttings the second year, and after that about three cuttings each year. If a good stand is secured on suitable soil it will not need renewing for many years. —New York World.

INSECTS AND FUNGI.

Insects are divided into two classes, viz., biting and sucking kinds. The biting kinds gnaw the wood and foliage and chew their food, and therefore can be killed by outward applications of poisons, but the sucking insects get their food and do their damage by inserting their long snouts through the outer coverings into the top or soluble life foods of the plant. The remedies for either kind are called insecticides. Fungi are also divided into two classes such as mildews, spots and blights, which are minute plants, and the parasitic fungi, simply thread like bodies such as are often seen in delicate tracings over grape and other leaves. You state that tomatoes are your chief crop. Moulds, root blight, leaf blight and black rot are the chief enemies of the tomato plant and fruit. To protect the tomato from these enemies, William S. Powell of Maryland recommends to first soak your seed in a weak solution of the ammoniacal solution of carbonate of copper, then dry and sow. As the plants put forth the third leaf spray them in the beds with the same solution. When they are set out pour around each plant one-half pint of the same. This answers as a watering and impregnates the ground and prevents root blights, which cannot be cured by spraying foliage. This application also induces rapid starting of the plants in growth, caused by the volatile ammonia the solution contains. Then spray until the fruit begins to color up. It is well to remember damp and cloudy weather induces disease in plants, as well as in human beings and animals. Therefore in such seasons, or when constant rains occur, the spray pump must be kept going. —American Cultivator.

FEED FOR EWES WITH EARLY LAMBS.

One of the most successful raisers of early lambs in Connecticut, Charles E. Lyman, writes: "I think a mixture of corn, peas and wheat middlings, equal parts by weight, will produce the best results of anything I know of for ewes suckling lambs. Care should be taken in not over-feeding the ewes with this mixture while the lamb is quite young, for the combination will produce very rich milk." C. B. Lyman of Massachusetts thinks corn and oats with linseed meal as good as anything.

Much attention has been given to the whole question of raising lambs at Cornell experiment station, and the director, I. P. Roberts, writes: "Mix equal parts by weight of cottonseed meal, corn meal (or whole corn if the sheep are young), oats and bran; the oats and bran may be left out if it is not convenient to procure both, as it will make little difference which one is fed, but if both are handy, put them in. Also, give as much good clover hay as will be eaten up clean, and as many pounds of mangolds and turnips per day per sheep as it eats of clover hay. The drinking water must be abundant, clean and always accessible. On the side of the pen, slat up a small place so that the lambs can retire to a separate trough, where some corn meal and bran should be placed every morning. If any remains uneaten, the trough should be cleaned and fresh material put in. It will often pay to buy some sugar and sprinkle over this lamb ration. It will induce them to go to eating early and it will tend to make them eat more of it, thereby making up for any lack of nourishment from their mothers. This is all written with supposition that these are early lambs which it is desired to force as rapidly as possible for the early lamb market. Lambs for the fall market are injured by being forced rapidly when but a few weeks old." —American Agriculturist.

Tried, Mrs. Hector—I know what kind of a temper you've got.

Mr. Hector—I don't doubt it. You've tried it out enough. —Jud.

Booth's Message Scratched on Glass.

On August 13, 1864, John Wilkes Booth was playing a dramatic engagement in Meadville, Pennsylvania. Upon his arrival in the city that day he registered at the McHenry House, then kept by a Mr. R. M. U. Taylor, and after the performance in the evening retired alone to his room. When the servant entered his room the next morning, after Booth had left the hotel and city, an inscription was discovered scratched in a large hand on one of the window panes: "Abe Lincoln departed this life Aug. 13th, 1864, by the effects of poison." Little attention was paid to the writing on the glass at the time, but as soon as it was learned that Booth had killed the President, the circumstances connected with the window inscription were recalled, the glass was removed from its sash, framed in a plain black wood frame, a piece of dark velvet being placed at its back to facilitate reading, and the signature of Booth entered on the register on August 13 was cut from the book and attached to the window glass. The original pane is now in the possession of the War Department, to which it was presented by the daughter of the owner of the hotel, Miss Mary McHenry, some time after the assassination of the President. All of the circumstances in connection with the glass are certified to by Miss McHenry, and by other residents of Meadville. —Cent ury.

A Faithful Dog Postman.

He is a faithful, cautious official, the hero of the East Sullivan, Me., dog story. Don, the dog postman, has been taught to carry the mail daily across the field to the home of G. E. Simpson, a distance of about one-fourth of a mile, where he makes known the arrival of the mail by barking at the door, and, although not a Government employe, exacts his pay in the form of something to eat, and will bark until his demand is granted. One day last week he carried the mail, as usual, but on arriving at the house could not gain admittance, as Mr. and Mrs. Simpson were away, and, as it was about noon, he was anxious to deliver the bundle of papers to get his commission. As the only person about the place was a young man hauling wood (a stranger to the dog), he would not give up the mail, but with a crestfallen countenance brought it back to his master. The Bar Harbor Record thinks there are emptier heads than Don's. —Lewiston (Me.) Journal.

What Neglect May Do.

There are some infirmities that only a surgeon's knife will relieve, and mostly strictly because of neglect. A neglected nerve pain may become so chronic as to cripple, and this is often the case with Sciatica. If taken in time, it is easily subdued. Like other nerve pains, and vigor and health are restored. Thousands of cases have been treated by the use of St. Jacobs Oil, with the result of a prompt and permanent cure and restoration to health of the affected nerve. People cannot be too careful with their nerves. There is too much to suffer to admit of foolish neglect, and the simple thing of getting a bottle of St. Jacobs Oil and applying promptly may save years of misery and perhaps years of crippled condition. Let this warning serve to show what can be and what ought to be done without delay in an attack of this disease.

Six Weeks Without Water. An incident that shows the wonderful power that sheep possess of living for a long time without water is reported from Invernesshire, Scotland. About seven weeks ago three sheep were missed from the farm of Balseparden, Ardersier. Every effort was made to find them, but without success. A few days ago, however, a barley stack was taken down, and the missing animals were discovered imprisoned in the wooden framework in the center. They had subsisted for more than six weeks on barley alone. One has since died.

ALMOST ORAZED.

THOUGHT HER CHILD WAS GOING TO DIE.

The Terrible Ordeal of a Mother—Her Little Girl Almost Faded Away—Saved in the Nick of Time—A Story That Will Touch the Heart of Every Mother.

From the Journal, Detroit, Mich.

A very grateful mother is Mrs. A. L. Hartness, of 676 Grandy Avenue, Detroit, for the wonderful cure which her daughter has received by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Said Mrs. Hartness: "Yes, my daughter's life has been saved by using Pink Pills, thanks to a kind friend who recommended them to me."

"Blanche was sick for over three years. She had the care of the best physicians procurable, and no expense or trouble was spared to give her relief. She was so thin that she was fairly skin and-bones, her digestion was out of order and she had the most awful headaches. We gave up all hope of her recovery. Her long, thin, listless face made me nearly crazy, and we did everything in our power to give her strength and induce her to take an interest in anything."

"One day a friend told me about the Pink Pills, and Mr. Hartness went down town and got three boxes. She had taken about one box, when, to my amazement, one morning I heard her playing on the piano. I could hardly believe it, for it had been over a year since she had played an instrument."

"Soon she began to take short rides on her bicycle, and soon she went strolling around the house, our own happy, hearty little daughter once more."

"She thinks nothing of a spin on her wheel over to Mt. Clemens or Pontiac, and is as well as she ever was."

"I had a girl living at our house who was a great sufferer from impoverished blood, and who received instant and permanent relief from the use of one box of the pills."

"If this information can be of any use to help some poor sick one, it is given with the greatest of pleasure."

The proprietors of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills state that they are not a patent medicine, but a prescription used for many years by an eminent practitioner who produced the most wonderful results with them, curing all forms of weakness arising from a watery condition of the blood or shattered nerves, two fruitful causes of almost every ill to which flesh is heir. The pills are also a specific for the troubles peculiar to females, such as suppersions, all forms of weakness, chronic constipation, bearing down pains, etc., and in the case of men will give speedy relief and effect a permanent cure in all cases arising from mental worry, overwork, or excesses of whatever nature. They are entirely harmless and can be given to weak and sickly children with the greatest good and without the slightest danger. Pink Pills are sold by all dealers, or will be sent post paid on receipt of price (50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50—they are never sold in bulk or by the 100), by addressing Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

Gladness Comes

With a better understanding of the transient nature of the many physical ills which vanish before proper efforts—gentle efforts—pleasant efforts—rightly directed. There is comfort in the knowledge that so many forms of sickness are not due to any actual disease, but simply to a constipated condition of the system, which the pleasant family laxative, Syrup of Figs, promptly removes. That is why it is the only remedy with millions of families, and is everywhere esteemed so highly by all who value good health. Its beneficial effects are due to the fact, that it is the one remedy which promotes internal cleanliness, without debilitating the organs on which it acts. It is therefore all important, in order to get its beneficial effects, to note when you purchase, that you have the genuine article, which is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, and sold by all reputable druggists.

If in the enjoyment of good health, and the system is regular, then laxatives or other remedies are not needed. If afflicted with any actual disease, one may be commended to the most skillful physicians, but if in need of a laxative, then one should have the best, and with the well-informed everywhere, Syrup of Figs stands highest and is most largely used and gives most general satisfaction.

RIPANS TABLETS

Mr. Charles Austin Bates, the famous advertising writer, makes a specialty of medical advertisements. He has studied medicine and has a habit of analyzing the ingredients of every medicine about which he is asked to write, relating to write advertisements for medicines which he cannot endorse. He says of Ripans Tablets: "I had the formula and went through it from the ground up. I found that every one of the ingredients was put in for some special purpose, and was good for the purpose intended. I have as much confidence in Ripans Tablets as I have in anything I ever wrote about. I take them myself when I have eaten a little too much or feel nausea or symptoms of headache coming on, and I find them quicker to act than any medicine I ever took. I know some people who think they can't possibly get along without them. My wife went to call one day on some friends she had known always. She found they were sworn by Ripans Tablets. They did not know that she knew anything about them or that I had written anything for them. By the way, if you swallow them properly, you don't taste anything in the mouth. Swallow them quickly and you are all right. You can feel their action in the stomach almost immediately; a very pleasant sensation."
