WILFRED TURNER ESQ.
The Democratic Candidate For Lieutenant Governor.

Wilfred D. Turner, of Iredell county, was born in Iredell county, January 30th, 1855. His father, for whom he was named, was a farmer and the pioneer cotton manufacturer in Piedmont North Carolina. Mr. Turner graduated at Trinity College in 1876 and in 1879 the degree of A. M. was conferred on him by his alma mater. After graduation he read law and in June, 1877 began to practice in Asheville. He was a painstaking, studious able and conscientious attorney, and his practice grew steadily. In 1885 he formed a partnership with the late Judge Robert F. Armfield, and in 1886, when Judge Armfield went on the bench. Mr. Turner formed a partnership with Mr. Chas H. Armfield. It is one of the strongest legal firms in Piedmont North Carolina.

Mr. Turner was one of the delegates in the National convention that nominated Bryan in 1896 and in the campaign which followed canvassed his district with eloquence and power. Mr. Turner formed a partnership with the Chicago platform and the great Nebraskaan. He is a strong and effective speaker and will be a power on the stump in the campaign.

In personal life Mr. Turner has a clean record. He has no weak place. He is straightforward, manly, upright true in all the relations of life. In Iredell county no man has lived who enjoyed the confidence of the people to a fuller extent than Mr. Turner. He is a straightforward and direct, the sort of man who will grow in popular confidence. He has been twice married. His first wife was Miss Lanier, of Alabama. He was married a few years ago a second to Miss Julia H. McCall, of Statesville. He is a trustee of the State Normal and Industrial College at Greensboro. Mr. Turner is a Methodist.

Mr. Turner is not only an able and successful lawyer, but a man of fine business qualifications as well. He is president of the Monbo Cotton Mill Company, located in Cataba county, of which his brother is secretary and treasurer and is connected with most of the important enterprises of this county.

SOME OF OUR STATE DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATES

Short Sketches of Their Lives and Peerless Leader

Charles Brantley Aycock.

Charles Brantley Aycock was born, near Freemont, Wayne county, N. C. Nov. 1, 1859. His father was a farmer and a man of prominence and influence in his county and held the office of clerk of court from the August term 1853, to the May term 1861. He represented the 32nd Senatorial district in the Senate in 1864-65-66. The Democratic candidate for Governor attended school at Fremont and was prepared for college at the Wilson Collegiate Institute. Mr. Aycock took rank as the most brilliant member of his class, and was head or next to head. In the debating societies he took great interest and was as a mere boy easily the best debater and speaker. Before he was old e-

Mr. Aycock read law at the University under Dr. Kemp P. Battle and afterwards at Goldsboro under the late A. K. Smeds and began the practice in Goldsboro in January, 1881 in partnership with State Senator Frank A. Daniels. That partnership was formed when Mr. Aycock and Mr. Daniels were school mates, and is one of the first legal firms in North Carolina. He has held the following positions: Superintendent of Public Schools of Wayne county in 1881; Chairman of the Board of Trustees of the Goldsboro Graded Schools for the past ten years; City Attorney for Goldsboro for two years;

BENJ. R. LACY,
Nominee of the Democratic Convention for State Treasurer.

Benjamin Rice Lacy was born in Raleigh, June 19th, 1854, and is the youngest son of the late Rev. Drury Lacy, D. D., LL. D., long the foremost Presbyterian divine of North Carolina.

In 1870 Mr. Lacy went into the machine shops of the Raleigh and Gaston railroad as an apprentice and worked in the shops until 1875 when he became an engineer on the road. He ran an engine on that road for a number of years and made a reputation as one of the best engineers in the railway service. For several years he was foreman of the Raleigh and Gaston machine shops. In that position he showed capacity of a high order, winning the confidence and esteem alike of the officers of the road and the employee. Early in his administration in 1893 Governor Carr appointed Mr. Lacy Commissioner of Labor Statistics which position he held until the Fusionists turned him out in 1897. Mr. Lacy organized in Raleigh in that year the Mechanics Dime Savings Bank with a capital of $15,000 of which he was made cashier. As proof of Mr. Lacy's popularity and capacity, the bank now has deposits aggregating $12,000 and there are offers of 125 for the stock but the stockholders do not desire to sell it.

Upon the return of the Democrats to power, Mr. Lacy was elected to his old position, with some changes, as Commissioner of Labor and Printing which he now holds. One of the proofs of his wise and conservative course is the fact that in his contest for the State Treasurership employers and employees vied with each other in his support. In the Legislature of 1897, Mr. Lacy did much to secure the passage for the Fellow Servant Act which is now a law of the State. His earnest championship of this measure and his persistent efforts to secure its passage greatly endeared him to the engineers, mechanics and all labor unions of the State. He is a member of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and has often represented them in the national assemblies. He is regarded by the labor forces of the State as their leader.

Mr. Lacy was married in June, 1882, to Miss Mary Burwell, the oldest daughter of Capt. John B. Burwell, and has seven children. He is a member of the Presbyterian church, an active Mason, member of the Junior Order American Mechanics, and President of the State Sunday School Association.

CHARLES BRANTLEY AYCOCK,

nough to write his speeches, old and young were charmed at his talent as a declaimer. During his school days at Wilson, he boarded in the country and walked to and from school every morning and evening. His schoolmates had faith in his genius and have always had confidence that he was endowed with high gifts for some exalted station and high public services.

Mr. Aycock entered the University at the fall term of 1877. He was elected, after a hot contest that showed that then he had political wisdom, Chief Marshal in 1878. He graduated in 1880, receiving the Wiley P. Mangum medal for oratory and the Bingham Essayist Medal. He excelled at the University in English, making most reputation as an orator and essayist. He has often said that he had no talent as a mathematician, and got through on Conic Sections, by main strength and awkwardness. He was highly esteemed at the University, being regarded as a youth of uncommon talent, eloquence, purity of life, and sweetest of temper. Every man who was at college with him, who could get to Raleigh at the State convention, was there to receive the highest honor the Democratic party has ever conferred upon any man in North Carolina—the compliment of an unanimous nomination for Chief Magistrate of the commonwealth.

The class in which Mr. Aycock graduated was composed of the following, all of whom are now living: Charles B. Aycock, Henry E. Faison, Locke Craig, Alex L. Phelps, W. R. Stude (Georgia), C. C. Cobb, A. D. Betts, L. C. Vaughan, T. C. Brooks, Thos.

County Attorney of Wayne four years; District Elector in 1888; Elector at large in 1892; U. S. District Attorney 1893 to 1898, and has also been a trustee of the University. Mr. Aycock was married in 1881 to Varina V. Woodard, daughter of Elder Wm. Woodard, of Wilson county, who died in 1890, leaving two children. In 1891 he married Cora L. Woodard, a sister of his deceased wife. He has seven children, the oldest Charles B. Aycock, Jr., is now a student at the University.

S. C. PATTERSON,

There's nothing new about it. Your grandparents took it. 'Twas an old Sarsaparilla before other sarsaparillas were known. It made the word "Sarsaparilla" famous over the whole world. There's no other sarsaparilla like it. In age and power to cure it's "The leader of them all."
It is a well-known fact that Ayer's Pills cure constipation. A few softening pills I was induced to try and they cured me. I would advise all who have constipation to try Ayer's Pills. It is the best medicine I ever used and it has cured me of it. I have used it since then and it has cured me of it. I have used it since then and it has cured me of it. need not lose flesh in summer if you use the proper means to prevent it. You think you can't take SCOTT'S EMULSION in hot weather, but you can take it and digest it as well in summer as in winter. It is not like the plain cod-liver oil, which is difficult to take at any time. If you are losing flesh, you are losing ground and you need

Scott's Emulsion and must have it to keep up your flesh and strength. If you have been taking it and prospering on it, don't fail to continue until you are thoroughly strong and well.
