MR. HUGH LEE SUTTON KILLS HIMSELF

Commits Suicide at The Home of His Mother, Mrs. L. E. Stokes of Vaughn on Wednesday January 22nd. Ball Enters Breast.

ILL HEALTH AND DESPONDENCY CAUSE.

The sad news of the suicide of Mr. Hugh Lee Sutton, which were flashed over the wires here Wednesday, was a great surprise and shock to his relatives and friends in Windsor. Mr. Sutton was at Vaughn, this state, where he had been for several months employed in a mill, superintended by his brother in law, Lillian E. Stocks. The particulars as we have been able to gether them are:

Mr. Sutton was boarding with his sister, Mrs. L. E. Stokes. And on the morning of the tragedy, Mr. Stokes went to Mr. Sutton's room when he found him lying in bed with a book reading. Mr. Stokes asked him if he was ready for breakfast, and Mr. Sutton replied that he didn't care for any, that he was feeling badly. Mr. Stokes then went down, ate breakfast and left for his work. Mrs. Stokes was busily engaged about the table when she heard a report of a pistol. Going immediately to her brother's room she reached there just as he was in the act of falling. He had shot himself in the breast and died immediately.

A note addressed to Mr. Stokes was found; in which Mr. Sutton thanked his brother for the many kindnesses he had shown him and with a loving message to his sister and people he ended his life. From the note the cause of the rash act was inferred to be despondency due to ill health.

Mr. Sutton was a son of the late Captain Sutton of Windsor and was a young man much liked by his comrades. At the time of his death he was unmarried, his wife who was Miss Dora Watford, at Colerain, having died several years ago.

Mr. Sutton's remains were carried to Colerain where they were interred Thursday. The Ledger joins with the many friends of Mr. Sutton's family in extending their sincere sympathy.

WHAT TYPE OF A MAN DOES A WOMAN LIKE?

Woman is not the beauty worshiper that man is. She does not place near as high a value on good looks.

If a man looks manly and well groomed she does not care how plain his face is.

The very handsome man is apt to be selfish and conceited.

He takes no trouble to please a woman, but seems to think that his good looks may cover a multitude of deficiencies of manner.

Of course there hundreds of charming men who are also very good looking, but I am speaking of the man who has good looks and nothing else to commend him.

No matter how uninteresting a woman may be she will have dozen of men after her if she is good looking. They can't help it; they are absolutely carried away by a pretty face.

A woman may walk the length of Broadway and never notice whether or not she had passed a pretty man. But do you think a man misses with women.

He is not, as a rule, a favorite with women.

any of the pretty faces he passes? I fancy not.

There are dozens of qualities that a woman places far above personal beauty.

A man will tell you that he places small value on beauty, but he does not practice as he preaches.

The handsome man is not by any means the most popular type of man with woman.

There are many other types that she infinitely prefers.

For example, take the kindly man, the masterful man, the strong man, they appeal to her more than the merely handsome man.

I know one woman who married a man absolutely for his good looks. He was vain, shallow, selfish, but a young god as far as personal appearance went.

Her love for him barely out lasted the honeymoon.

There was nothing lovable about him. She could not depend on him or look up to him in any way. She could not even respect him.

If she had married a plain, honest every day man she would in all probability be a happy wife today.

As it is, she is a miserable unhappy woman, with every illusion shattered, and I am quite sure has not a very exalted opinion of good looks.

Fortunately the women who fall in love with handsome faces are few and far between.

We hear of hundreds of girls who fall in love with handsome stage heroes, but the heroes are always performing deeds of valor or enacting some part that shows them to be very brave and wonderful, as well as handsome.

It is the character as much as the face that the girls admire.

When a woman says a man is "nice looking" she means that he has an honest, kindly face, a face she knows she can trust.

She is quite satisfied with that sort of face and never envies the sister who may have married an Adonis.

It has been pretty well proven that the handsome men do not make the best husbands.

They are usually too vain to be satisfied with the admiration and adulation of one woman.

The sensible woman is quite content to marry a plain, good man and leave the beauty where he belongs—in the ranks of the bachelors.

Coroner's Verdict.

In The Inquest Held Over Madison Hoggard, Colored.

We, the jury, for our verdict say: That Madison Hoggard, late of Bertie County, came to his death on 18th, day of Jan., 1908, from a wound inflicted by a pistol ball fired from a pistol in the hands of Zachary Tayloe of Bertie County, under the following circumstances, to wit: At the time of the homicide Zachary Tayloe was a duly qualified Constable of Mitchell's Township, in Bertie County, and had with him a valid criminal warrant ordering the arrest of the deceased, Madison Hoggard, and charging him with incest; that on the morning of the 18, day of January 1908, said Zachary Tayloe being the proper officer to execute said warrant, deputised J. L. Tayloe and Jos. Phelps to go with him to the home of the deceased to make the arrest; that they went to the home of the deceased and the house being open they entered the room where the deceased was sitting by the fire; that said Zachary Tayloe spoke to the deceased and started to read the warrant when the deceased jumped up from his seat and made a vicious assault on said Tayloe with an iron fire stick, about two and one half feet long, and saying that he would kill him; that said Tayloe was forced to shoot the deceased to protect himself and in defence of his own life. We, therefore, find that Zachary was justified in killing the deceased, Madison Hoggard, and we render our verdict that the killing was justifiable homicide, and exonerate him from any and all crime or blame therefor.

TO MAKE THE WHOLE STATE DRY

Bill Presented in the Extra Session to Knock "Booze" Out Entirely of N. C.—One to Form a New Judicial District Out of Bertie, Pitt and Martin.

PROHIBITION LEFT TO VOTE OF PEOPLE.

Only two bills of importance, so far, have been introduced in the Extra Session of General Assembly now being held in Raleigh. One bill—which prompted the call by Governor Glenn for an extra session—calls for the undoing of what the legislature did, viz: the repeal of the passenger rate bill of 2 1/4 cents and in lieu thereof another rate to be fixed as have been agreed upon by Governor Glenn his counsel and the railroads. A committee is now engaged in preparing the compromise bill which will call for a higher rate—two and one half cents.

The second bill of importance to the state is on the liquor question which makes the entire state prohibition.

It prescribes that a general election shall be held on the first Thursday in August, and that the prohibition law shall go into effect January 1st, 1909. The bill has the endorsement of the North Carolina Anti-Saloon League, and was prepared by some of the leading lawyers of North Carolina.

Of course, this bill in its text may be changed somewhat. But the fact is clearly apparent that a State prohibition bill will be passed by this extra session. It is possible, if not probable that the time of its going into effect may be changed from Jan. 1909. Some favor it being called later while others want it earlier.

The Democratic caucus acted very wisely in deciding to submit the question to the voters to be decided by them in election. Any other way would be suicidal to the party and undemocratic, in principle and letter.

As soon as the bill is settled on or passed we will publish it into.

No other bills of any importance have been presented, and we don't think will be, at any rate they should not. As to how long the session will hold or continue it is impossible to say. However, extra sessions have been wisely limited to twenty days. When they expire the pay roll of the members cease to be made out and home coming will follow. There is no necessity for it to last longer than

A member by the name of Fleming has introduced a bill to make a new judicial district out of the county of Martin, Pitt and Bertie but its passage at this session is impossible.
