Hot Weather Rules for Work Horses

1. Load lightly and drive slowly.
2. Stop in the shade if possible.

3. Water your horse as often as possible. So long as a horse is working, water in small quantities will not hurt him. But let him drink only a few swallows if he is going to stand still. Do not fail to water him at night after he has eaten hay.

4. When he comes in after work, sponge off the harness marks and sweat, his eyes, his nose and mouth, and the dock. Wash his feet but not his legs.

5. Do not use a horse-hat, unless it is a canopy-top hat. The ordinary bell-shaped hat does more harm than good.

6. A sponge on top of the head, or even a cloth, is good if kept wet. If dry it is worse than nothing.

7. If the horse is overcome by heat get him into the shade, remove harness and bridle, wash out his mouth, sponge him all over, shower his legs, and give him two ounces of aromatic spirits of ammonia, or two ounces of sweet spirits of nitre, in a pint of water; or give him a pint of coffee warm. Cool his head at once, using cold water, or, if necessary, chopped ice, wrapped in a cloth.

8. Watch your horse. If he stops sweating suddenly, or if he breathes short and quick, or if his ears droop, or if he stands with his legs braced sideways, he is in danger of a heat or sun stroke and needs attention at once.

9. If it so hot that the horse sweats in the stable at night, tie him outside, with bedding under him. Unless he cools off during the night, he cannot well stand the next day's heat.—L. A. Armistead, in Progressive Farmer.

Despondency Due to Indigestion

"About three month ago when I was suffering from indigestion which caused headache and dizzy spells and made me feel tired and despondent, I began taking Chamberlain's Tablets," writes Mrs. Geo. Hon. Macedon, N. Y. "This medicine proved to be the very thing I needed, as one day's treatment relieved me greatly. I used two bottles of Chamberlain's Tablets and they rid me of this trouble." Obtainable everywhere.

12 Things to do in August

1. Continue cultivation on all late planted crops, maintaining a dust mulch to conserve moisture.

2. Go after the weeds everywhere about the farm; don't let any of them make seed to stock the place another year.

3. Select your seed corn from among the best stalks and plan to have, next year, a special seed corn patch.

4. Make the turnip patch rich and make an extra big sowing for fall and winter greens.

5. Order your clover seed if you did not save them, plant crimson clover in the extreme northern part of the Cotton Belt.

6. Keep the farm canner going on all surplus fruits and vegetables, that grocery bills may be cut to a minimum next winter.

7. Plan now for putting in a big fall oat crop; get seed if you haven't them already.

8. Keep up with the opening cotton; see your local banker about helping you to hold your crop if prices are not right.

9. Watch the live stock, and if pastures get short supplement their feed.

10. Clean up, paint up, repair the rotting fences and buildings, and put the place to rights for another year.

11. Study our Education Special again, and then see if you can't do at least one thing to improve your local school.

12. Keep up the fight against flies and thus avoid doctors' bills.

How We Marketed Our Berries

Like most farm people, we had to feel a real need and then search aimlessly around, as none of our neighbors could tell of a place to get baskets and crates. But Sister and I are used to finding out new things and clinging to difficulties until we solve them satisfactorily, and we solved the problem of containers for our berries by getting three shipping crates and ninety-six quart baskets. They cost $1.65, and we paid 37 cents express. Now we pick in the baskets and place in crates, and when filled fasten the lid. They can be placed one on the other and handled with ease. We like them because they are light, too, and the berries are as fresh looking when we deliver them each morning as when we picked them the evening before. We let the crates stay in the bed during the night so as to cool the berries. The plan we used in getting customers was simple, as we had no competition until the bulk of the crop was sold. We sold from house to house. It is a lark to us, although we are learning business principles, how honesty in marketing pays in keeping customers. In each thing that we've marketed we have found that to get good prices we have to have something that is wanted and be ahead of the others. Those of us who sprayed the fruit trees have perfectly good fruit to market, when just a little way off our neighbor who doesn't read the Progressive Farmer is losing the orchard.

Greens X Roads Baracas

The members of the Baraca Class of Greens X Roads met at the home of W. T. Asbell last Monday night. After singing "Trying to Walk in the Steps of My Savior," W. T. Asbell led in prayer. Ex President G. W. Castellow was asked to preside. Minutes of last meeting were read by the secretary. Mr. J. W. Sanderlin, Jr, was appointed chairman on non attendance committee, the class having some money in hand it was ordered that it buy some paint and paint the pews in the church. About fifteen months ago our class was organized; since that we have been laboring under many difficulties. We have been abused and criticised but yet we are doing things—as our motto is to do things. When our county convention met at Windsor in May we were glad to know that we had the second best report in the county classes. Now we are working for still better at our next convention at Mars Hill in November.

A Promising Young Farmer

The Charlotte Observer prints the photograph of Clyde May, an eighteen-year old Caldwell county boy who led his county corn club last year, with a yield of 145 bushels to the acre. The Observer correspondent adds: "For several years he has managed his father's farm and is a good manager for his years. Since he was large enough to wield a hoe, he has worked on the farm and has never worked anywhere else. From a financial standpoint he is as successful as in that of farming. He has earned and saved $670 in money and has it loaned out at interest. He is a hard worker and enjoys farming, takes an interest in new farming methods, puts them into practice on his father's farm, and plans out all the work himself. This young man's farming methods are the direct outcome of mixing brain and soil coupled with hard work and a determination to succeed."

Be Careful What You Say

In speaking of a person's faults, Pray don't forget your own; Remember those in homes of glass, Should seldom cast a stone. If you have nothing else to do, But talk of those who sin, 'Tis better you commence at home, And from that point begin. You have no right to judge a man, Until he's fairly tried, Should you not like his company, You know the world is wide. Some have faults—and who has not? The old as well as the young— Perhaps we may, for aught we know, Have a hundred to their one. I'll tell you of a better plan, You'll find it works full well; To try your own defects to cure Before of others tell. And though I sometimes hope to be No worse than some I know, My own short-comings bid me let The faults of others go. Then let us all, when we commence To flatter friends or foes, Think of the harm one word may do To those we little know. Remember curses, like our chickens Always roost at home— Don't speak of others faults until We have none of our own. ---Anonymous.

Mount Gould Picnic

Tomorrow, Friday, the 6th. Brass Band, Speakers, Public Cordially Invited

Good Bathing; Good Water

There is not a more ideal place in Bertie county for a picnic than Mt. Gould. It is situated on a high bluff on the Chowan river with a plenty of shade and one of the best springs of mineral water to be found anywhere. And it has one of the best beaches for bathing on the whole river front, in fact it is second only to Ocean View or Virginia Beach. The annual picnic at Mt. Gould has become as well attended as any annual picnic we have in the county. The public is cordially invited to go and carry a basket of dinner. The Rocky Hock Brass Band will be on hand and enliven the occasion. There will be several speeches and plenty of dinner. An effort has been inaugurated to build a large pavilion on the water with two bath houses—one for the ladies and one for men. Over two hundred dollars was subscribed last year. With a little money to assist nature Mt. Gould could be made an ideal picnic or excursion ground where all denominations, orders or individuals could have their annual picnics. The picnic tomorrow is under the auspices of the Farmers Alliance and they cordially invite all others to participate with them, carry a basket and all enjoy a day of social intercourse and pleasure. Remember, tomorrow, August 6th, Friday is the day.

THE NEWS FROM AULANDER

Mr. and Mrs. Raleigh W. Dodson and daughter, little Mabel Lee, of Richmond Va., are guests of relatives in town.

Misses Edna and Maye Twining of Wilmington, and Miss Susie Constable of Norfolk are guests of the Misses Dunning.

The play "Arabian Nights" was presented here last Friday evening by local talent and attracted a good crowd. The Orchestra furnished music, and the entertainment is said to have been one of the best ever given here. The play and concert will be given in Windsor on Friday evening of this week.

Mr. Jewell of Raleigh who has been employed to assist in laying the foundation of the Farm Life School in the capacity of Civil Engineer, is a splendid Clarinet player and added much to the music of the orchestra on the evening of the play.

Mr. Sted Burden died at the home of his mother here last Thursday night after a short illness of typhoid fever. Mr. Burden had recovered sufficiently to take nourishment and it is thought he ate too freely of food, which caused a relapse. Mr. Burden was about 26 years old and esteemed by all who knew him. He leaves a mother and several brothers and one sister. The interment took place at the family burying ground near Burden store.

Roanoke Rapids won the game from Aulander last week by a score of 9 to 5. Several errors at critical times helped the visitors. Both Scott and Hoggard pitched well.

Aulander and Ahoskie played a tie game last Thursday in Ahoskie, score 4-4. These teams will play again.

A good many people from here will go to Windsor on Old Soldiers day. The orchestra has been engaged to furnish music.

Mrs. T. C. Williford has returned from a visit to friends in Windsor.

Quite a crowd from this place attended the Woman's Missionary Convention in Windsor last week.

The Clerk Guaranteed It

"A customer came into my store the other day and said to one of my clerks, 'have you anything that will cure diarrhoea?' and my clerk went and got him a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, and said to him, 'if this doesn't cure you I will not charge you a cent for it.' So he took it home and came back; in a day or two and said he was cured," writes J. H. Berry & Co., Salt Creek, Va. Obtainable everywhere.
