 budget there was $93.60 less spent than the appropriation.
 "The price set for recording instruments is set by the legislature. I have charged less than the law required for recording, furthermore I have been recording all instruments pay or no pay, regardless of party standing.
 "In the appropriation for General County Government for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1932, there was $967.77 less spent than the amount of the appropriation.
 "As to the amount appropriated for Clerk to the Accountant of $600.00, will only say that I paid the total amount to my stenographer. I would be ashamed to offer any person any less sum that has spent time and money in schooling themselves for the work."
 "C. TOM BRYSON."

J. K. Bryson is seriously ill at the home of his daughter, Mrs. John Moore on White Oak street. Mr. Bryson is a Confederate veteran.

Zachary Paroled

Governor Grants Release Requested by Scores

Acting on a petition signed by scores of Macon County residents, Governor O. Max Gardner last week signed an order releasing Wiley Zachary from jail on parole. Mr. Zachary was sentenced to thirty days in jail. He had been charged with setting fire to the woods.
 Mr. Zachary, when first brought to trial, was fined for the misdemeanor, but he stoutly asserted his innocence and declined to pay. It was because of his failure to pay the fine that he was sentenced to jail, with labor on the roads.
 But when time came to take him to the roads, his daughter, Mrs. Agnes Higgins, protested so effectively that he was allowed to remain in the jail until the petition for his parole had been circulated.

Baptist Church Notes

BY REV. EUGENE R. ELLER

There will be regular services at the Baptist church Sunday morning and evening. The Sunday School will begin at 9:45. We are having a fine attendance with an average of more than two hundred now. But we should do even better. Let each and everyone go to work for the Sunday School.
 The morning worship service will be at 11. It is hoped that the entire Sunday School will remain in a body for the morning worship and that many others will come in for this service.
 The B. Y. P. U. will meet at 6:45 and the evening worship service will be at 8. S. S. Jennings of North Wilkesboro will bring the evening message. Brother Jennings is a life-long friend of the pastor and will bring a good message to us on this occasion.
 Next Wednesday night will be choir night in the prayer service. The choir will bring a special musical program. The public is most cordially invited to attend all of these services.

MIGHTY HUNTER PLAYS IN LUCK

tail of a squirrel. As he approached a small brooklet, whose cold, crystal water was gushing happily by on its way to the Gulf of Mexico, the first real call of the chase came to his ears—it was the barking of a squirrel. In a second another squirrel joined in the chorus, to shortly be followed by a full choir.
 Brother Charlie's heart began beating so strongly that it came near breaking the ribs of his under shirt. The gun flew from his shoulder and he hurried for the scene of action.

A small sap sucker who was sitting on a small limb of a large tree whittling its beak, gazed down upon the mighty hunter, to die with fright with the look. Fright took its toll and the poor innocent sap sucker waited its way downwards, hitting the ground with a light thump, which caused Brother Charlie to spring behind a large oak and make threats with the double barrel. Upon seeing the cause of the noise, Brother Charlie wiped the beads of cold sweat from his forehead with one end of the fertilizer sack and with a creeping step advanced toward the hunt.

The undergrowth and old leaves and brush made walking a public secret. Brother Charlie decided he had better wade the small stream, thereby drowning his footsteps.
 The water travel was slow and chilly. As Brother Charlie drew near the squirrels, he discovered that they were in a large hickory nut tree. Did his eyes deceive him, or was he gazing upon a tree loaded with squirrels? As he counted 13, he rubbed his eyes and started to count again. The count of 13 was recognized again, while the squirrels were busily eating a hickory nut breakfast.
 Creeping easy towards the tree, which overhung the brook, Brother Charlie had his eyes upon the tree rather than the brook. He felt himself sinking, to touch the bottom by the time the chilly waters reached his belt line. He nearly froze in his tracks. After a heroic effort, he waded through the pool and found himself under the hickory nut tree.

He was too excited to figure out the best way to play the hunter, so, cocking both barrels, he pointed the gun upward and with the trigger finger striking the discharge was ear splitting.
 How many squirrels do you think he killed? Not one! But the small twigs and leaves began to fall so fast and thick, he was quickly snowed under.
 It looked for awhile as if Brother Charlie would smother to death, but with a mighty heave, he rent asunder the massive brush and leaf pile and stumbled out of the ruins. Re-loading the trusty double barrel, he marched forward. Brother Charlie did a foolish thing by not taking a rest cure. He struggled upward toward the brow of a small mountain. About half way up the incline, he undertook to climb over a log. He had placed the gun over the log with the stock downward. Brother Charlie started to fall and clung to the gun barrel. The hammers got caught in some brush and in the wrestling between Brother Charlie and force of gravity they were drawn backward, to be released by downward push.

Brother Charlie felt the breeze of the passing shots and the hot burns of the escaping powder. But luck was with him; and with the exception of an ebony face and a smarting sensation on his face, he was not harmed.
 Before the hundreds of shots were spent, they tore a squirrel's nest from its mooring between two large dead branches of a tree, sending the family of four dead squirrels to the feet of Brother Charlie. The shots were not satisfied with their work of wiping out the entire family, but continued on their way and tore off a several feet fragment of one of the dead branches from its maternal home, which came crashing downward and tapped Brother Charlie, none too gently, on the head.

BY REV. NORVIN C. DUNCAN

During the summer months the Life Abundant Center has made a distinct contribution to Saint Agnes Church and now that the Bells are leaving for their winter schedule of missions we wish to make due acknowledgement of their service, and to express our sincere appreciation. The Center has been well attended, and those in attendance have testified to its value in the highest terms. The guests there have attended the services at Saint Agnes, thereby considerably increasing attendance, and giving us the inspiration of their presence and interest. Dr. and Mrs. Bell have been generous; Dr. Bell taking a service nearly every Sunday either here or at Highlands, and Mrs. Bell taking a Bible class. Both have given their services, with no hope of reward, except the good which they might do. We deeply appreciate their presence and help, and our prayers and best wishes are with them as they go out upon their tour of missions. They are pretty well filled up with engagements for the fall and winter, and we wish them great success. Also, we assure them of our hope that they are with us again next summer in the center, with another season of activity. In the meantime we shall carry on here with something of the spirit of the Life Abundant Movement, seeking to advance the Kingdom of God in a more abundant life for all His children.

U. D. C. Meets

Will Give Seven Crosses to Confederate Veterans

Mrs. Carl Slagle was hostess to the Macon County U. D. C. chapter on Monday afternoon at her home on Cartoogechaye.
 The program for the annual thirty-sixth state convention to be held in Greensboro Oct. 12 to 14 at the King Cotton Hotel was announced. The Macon County chapter is entitled to one delegate and the president, by virtue of her office, is entitled to attend.
 Further discussion on the Crosses of Honor to be presented to the remaining Confederate veterans followed. Seven crosses have been ordered and are expected during the month.
 The fiscal year closes October 1 and reports have to be in to the state president, Mrs. Glenn Long of Newton, by that date. Mrs. Slagle gave a most interesting summary of her report as chapter president.
 The election of officers takes place in October and Miss Lillie Rankin will be hostess.
 Mrs. Slagle, assisted by her daughter, Mary Louise, served tea and sandwiches.

Frank Got There

Student Johnson Reaches College in Wheezy Truck

Claiming the world's record for the Franklin to Chapel Hill dash in a $30 truck loaded with furniture, Francis Johnson completed a many-stop drive at the University town Wednesday night of last week and crawled gratefully into bed.
 Frank left Franklin Monday morning in his amazing contraption, speeded on his first lap by the best wishes and catcalls of his brothers William (the demon press feeder) and Blackburn. By Tuesday morning, what with head winds, carburetor trouble, flat tires, slipping clutches and general cussedness, he had got only as far as Sylva. But from there on, with the unaccountable whimsicality of antique Chevy trucks, that depraved vehicle caught its second and probably last wind and roared down the mountains like a ghost escaped from Hades.
 Most remarkable to relate, none of Mrs. Johnson's furniture was scattered on the highway or even scratched. Well, not much, anyway.

ROTARIANS O.K. HIGHWAY PLAN

Highway Commission, although not planning any immediate work on No. 286, is planning to send a surveying crew here to map a shorter route from Franklin to Bryson City. It has been suggested that by drastic changes in the route beyond West's Mill the distance can be shortened by about 10 miles.

but No. 28 west of Franklin is not included in the list.
 According to information received by The Press, however, the Highway Commission wants to begin work on No. 28 by October 1 and is planning to proceed with this work, beginning outside the corporate limits, as soon as possible. It has indicated a disposition to build the highway through Franklin when the town reaches an agreement over the routing.

LIST 300 HEAD IN CATTLE SALE

After inspecting some of the largest pastures of the county, Mr. Sloan said that he found some of the cattle carrying good fat, while others are not so fat because the pastures were crowded and the dry weather had cut down the grass supply.
 Of the cattle listed with Mr. Sloan, he expects there will be about three cars of feeders. Any person that is interested in buying a number of good feeders should get in touch with Mr. Sloan to get the full particulars.
 Mr. Sloan says that the farmers of the county are becoming better acquainted with the different grades of cattle and are realizing that they must have a good grade before they can make cattle raising a profitable business.
 On the day of the sale all cattle will be sold to the highest bidder as it leaves the scales. By selling this way all farmers are given an equal show, if he has one head or fifty to sell.
 A. C. Walker, of Haywood county, will have four ram lambs for sale or to trade for cattle. These lambs are spring lambs, of purebred Hampshire stock, and will weigh about 115 pounds each. Mr. Walker sold Gilmer A. Jones a purebred ram last Saturday, one of the best developed rams to have been seen in Franklin in many a day. This ram was about two years old and weighed around 200 pounds.

The Rev. Father A. J. Racette of St. John's Cathedral, Waynesville, will conduct services Sunday morning at 8:30
