Laughing Around the World With IRVIN S. COBB

There Spoke Envy's Voice

By IRVIN S. COBB

THE town drunkard of a small Scotch community went on an especially vehement tear. The village authorities locked him up until he had entirely recovered.

On the second day of his captivity, as he sat in his cell, thirsty beyond words, the minister, who was of a fall habit of life, came to give him consolation and good advice.

They sat down side by side and the dominie read the parable of the Prodigal Son. The prisoner seemed to hang on the words. He nudged up closer and closer, bending forward until his face was almost in the minister's face, and listened.

"Please read it over once more," he said when the dominie had finished the chapter and started to close the Good Book.

Touched by this further sign of penitence, the minister read it again. "Tell me, poor man," he said when he was done, "what was it held you so close the while I was reading—was it the lesson of the Scripture or was it the words?"

"Nay, nay," said the tippler—"twas your grand breath!"

He began to slow the car down near the store, and she started to get out, thinking the car was going at a slower rate than it actually was. MEMORIAL or Decoration Day as many of us still call it, begins the out-door season. Fresh air encourages an appetite to raid the picnic hamper.

Picnic meals need not be sandwich meals when the markets offer all sorts of interesting fresh and prepared foods at prices to suit even lean pocketbooks.

Potato salad and deviled eggs or cheese offer good cold fare, while frankfurters or bacon and spaghetti in tomato sauce cooked over an open fire are warming. Peanut butter and a box of crackers will help to fill up the youngsters.

Among particularly good buys for this week-end's marketing are new potatoes, spinach and oranges.

The Quaker Maid Kitchen has planned three interesting menus which make use of foods which are plentiful and in season.

Pork or Veal Chops with Gravy
Boiled Rice
Sautéed Bananas
