NEW MINISTER COMING HERE

Rev. Frank Bloxham To Be Rector of St. Agnes Church

The Rev. Frank Bloxham, rector of St. Paul's church, Clinton, N. C., has accepted a call to become rector of St. Agnes Episcopal church, Franklin, and the Church of the Incarnation, Highlands, succeeding the Rev. Norvin C. Duncan, who resigned in December on account of ill health.

Rev. Mr. Bloxham visited Franklin and conducted services at St. Agnes church the first Sunday in January. He is a young man, but has had a wide experience in many fields. He is a native of Birmingham, England, and attended an English church school and the high school of Birmingham. Then he was apprenticed to a firm of machine tool makers, where he was employed until he went into active service in the British army in France during the World War. Invalided in 1919 with shrapnel wounds in a hand and a leg, he went to the College of Technology at Birmingham University, being graduated with an associate membership of the Institution of Mechanical Engineers.

Served in Church Army After a time in the commercial world, Mr. Bloxham joined the Church Army, a layman's society of the Episcopal church, and did mission work throughout England for three years. Then he was sent to the United States to do pioneer work for the formation of a sister society in the Episcopal church in this country. In that work he travelled through 31 states.

This work completed, Rev. Mr. Bloxham decided to enter the ministry. He took his theological work at the Virginia Seminary, Alexandria, Va., from which he was graduated with the degree of Bachelor of Divinity. While at the seminary he had charge of work at Trinity church, Arlington, Va., and under him the church grew to be almost self-supporting.

On graduation, Rev. Mr. Bloxham married Miss Gertrude Porter, of Torrington, Conn., and Springfield, Mass., and was appointed to the work at Clinton. He also served churches in the near-by towns of Faison, Warsaw and Burgaw.

Mr. and Mrs. Bloxham are expected to arrive in Franklin next week, accompanied by Mrs. Bloxham's mother, Mrs. Ina C. Porter. They look forward to a happy and useful ministry in this section.

CWA WORKERS ON HALF TIME

All of the workers on the payroll of the Civil Works Administration in Macon County went on half time work this week as a result of the announcement from Washington that expenditures were running ahead of the appropriations for the emergency recovery.

Meanwhile, no new employed are being placed on jobs and no new projects undertaken, although new quotas of workmen and approval of new projects already had been granted or were expected.

Workers who hitherto have been employed 30 hours a week are now working only 15 hours a week, but no projects already undertaken have been abandoned.

Den Containing 10 Snakes Uncovered

Snakes are seldom seen in the winter, so it was real news when 10 of them were found last week at a mine at Mica City on the headwaters of Cowee creek.

Charles Bradley, who operates the mine, reported the find. Workers uncovered a den which contained eight copper-heads and two rattlers.

Mr. Bradley said he was convinced that rattlers shed their rattles during the winter, for the two snakes of this species found in his mine had only one or two rattles and a button, although the snakes were of large size, indicating mature age.

It has been generally thought that the number of rattles on a rattler, indicated its age, but in recent years scientists have proved that this is a false theory.

CWA PLANNING SEWING ROOMS

New Project To Start as Soon as Authority Is Received

BY MRS. G. A. JONES (Director of Women's Work in Macon County under the C. W. A.)

Plans are progressing for establishing a number of sewing rooms in the county to give employment to women out of work and in need of assistance. Nothing can actually be started until permission is given by the state administrator at Raleigh to put on a given number of women, which number will also be decided by the Raleigh officials. It should be understood that this work is only for women in actual need, except in cases where forewomen cannot be obtained for the particular work to be done, out of the number of workers. Employment is to be given without regard to previous affiliations and only to women in actual need, and the only preference shown is to put on the neediest women first.

Materials Needed The garments made by these women will be turned over to the Red Cross and to the welfare officer to be used for the people in the county who are helped by the Red Cross and the welfare department. These women are paid for their work as the men are, with the same number of hours allotted, but nothing is provided for rent, fuel, lights, water, etc., for the places where the work is to be done. This is all done by donations of individuals, and anything donated will be gladly received. Especially appreciated would be scraps for quilts, quilt patterns, raw wool for making wool-filled quilts, materials of any kind which may be used for baby clothes, children's dresses, etc. Another thing which will be most useful is patterns for plain dresses for women and children of all sizes, men's shirts, baby clothes, night wear, bathrobes, etc. Also chairs, quilt frames and sewing machines to be used and returned.

HOSPITAL HERE IS REORGANIZED

Provision Made by Duke Fund for Charity Patients

STAFF UNCHANGED

Institution To Be Managed By Non-Profit Corporation

Angel Brothers hospital has been reorganized on a non-profit basis, enabling it to receive financial assistance from the Duke Endowment, it became known this week. Hitherto, the hospital, operated by Dr. Furman Angel and his brother, Dr. Edgar Angel, has been unable to obtain provision for charity patients from the Duke Endowment because it was a private institution.

Reports of a reorganization of the hospital have been current here for several weeks. Confirmation of these reports came Tuesday with the announcement in news dispatches from Charlotte that the Duke Endowment had approved the reorganization and granted an allowance to the hospital of one dollar a day for each charity patient.

Corporation Formed A charter has been obtained for a new corporation, known as Angel Hospital, incorporated, which has leased the hospital property from the Angels and will have supervision of the management.

A. B. Slagle, Macon county sheriff, is president of the corporation; Robert A. Patton, state senator for this district, vice president; and R. S. Jones, Franklin attorney, secretary and treasurer.

No changes in the hospital staff have been announced. With assistance from the Duke Foundation assured, the hospital, one of the largest in Western North Carolina outside of Asheville, will be in position to render a broader service to the general public.

Established in 1923

Dr. Furman Angel organized the hospital in 1923, using an old residence on Palmer street. In 1925 he purchased the Elias property and erected a modern brick hospital building. The hospital's business increased and in 1927 Dr. Angel built an annex, which increased the institution's capacity to 50 beds. For a time a nurse's school was operated, but this was discontinued about two years ago.

Dr. Edgar Angel, who has been connected with the hospital in an active capacity for about two years, is now acting as head surgeon for the institution in the absence of his brother, who is in Florida recuperating from a recent illness. He is assisted by Dr. Charles Solms.

Explains Placement Of Service Men on Jobs

John W. Edwards, manager of the Franklin office of the National Reemployment Service, explained Wednesday the regulations regarding the placement of ex-service men.

"Many veterans seem to think," he said, "that there are no rulings or regulations concerning their placement in jobs. Some are laboring under the idea that they should be given jobs ahead of all others. This is not necessarily the case. The first thing to decide in the placement of an ex-soldier is whether he is actually unemployed. If a former service man is a farmer and he has had a sufficient crop to carry him through the year, he could hardly be classed as unemployed."

Another thing which must be taken into consideration is that the ex-soldier must have dependents before he is entitled to preference in placements. A dependent is a person who, by law, must be provided for—that is, a wife or child. Otherwise, an ex-soldier is considered in the same order as any other citizen.

"Concerning a war veteran placed on a C. W. A. project—if he draws a pension, it will be reduced to $6 a month, should his wages on the C. W. A. project exceed $50 a month."
