The Dahlonega Mint

The mint at Dahlonega, Ga., existed from the 1830's until the Civil war. Dahlonega is situated among the foothills of the southern portion of the Blue Ridge mountains in a gold mining region. The name is from a Cherokee phrase meaning "gold." The coins minted there were gold, and bore the mint mark "D."

Four-Point Blankets

The term, four-point, in reference to a blanket, means weight. A point is a Canadian unit of weight slightly more than a pound. A Hudson Bay blanket is a very heavy all-woolen blanket used by trappers and traders—like an army blanket, except that it is even heavier. It may be gray, tan or patterned, but a favorite color is red.

Ancient Secret Revealed

Why Christian Serbs in the Petch district of Yugoslavia have for centuries placed lighted candles in the cemeteries of an old Moslem mosque, known as St. George's columns has been revealed by excavations. Those who followed the custom did not know why it was done, and had never heard a satisfactory explanation from their ancestors. The excavations show that the mosque was built by victorious Turks on the site of an ancient Christian monastery dedicated to St. George. It is evident that even after their monastery had been removed the defeated Serbs continued to place the lighted candles.

Does Not Shed Horns

The pronghorn antelope does not shed horns, being the only member of the deer family that does not. These horns are hollow and attached to the skull by a bone core like domestic cattle. The texture of the horn shows a grain running lengthwise of the horn not seen in moose, elk or deer horns.

Relationship of Cousins

Children of brothers and sisters are first cousins to each other or cousins-germane; children of first cousins are to each other second cousins; and a child is a first cousin, once removed, to the first cousins of its parents. These last are often mistakenly called second cousins.
