maintain a market for the fresh produce grown and delivered to it by the Grower and, to that end, it will undertake to arrange with produce dealers in the various cities and towns throughout the territory, conveniently accessible to its cannery, for the sale and distribution of said produce.

3. (a) In consideration of the promises made, and the obligations assumed, by the Cooperative hereunder, the Grower agrees to plant and to cultivate the following crops:

The above acreage, after the first year, shall be subject to revision and adjustment if in the judgment of the Cooperative such revision or adjustment is deemed advisable.

(b) The Grower agrees that he will deliver all of the marketable portion of the crops produced by him, pursuant to this agreement, to the marketing division of the Cooperative, located at its cannery in before four (4) P. M. o'clock on the day it is gathered; said produce shall be delivered in shallow boxes or short hampers in such manner as not to bruise or to crush, or in any way damage, the produce. The Grower further agrees that he will not give or sell any of his crops covered by this agreement to any other person or buyer unless he has first obtained written permission so to do from the field representative, or other responsible agent, of the Cooperative.

(c) The Grower agrees that said produce may be commingled and/or pooled with the produce of a similar kind, quality and/or grade delivered by other growers making like contracts with the Cooperative.

(d) That said produce may be sold by the Cooperative in the Green Vegetable Market provided such a market can be secured by it.

4. (a) The Grower will pay the Cooperative its regular charges for its services, including handling, grading, storing, shipping, market isg, insurance and interest on money borrowed by the Cooperative as well as an investment charge not to exceed ten per cent (10%) of the gross proceeds, derived from the sale of said produce. From this charge of ten per cent (10%) a commercial reserve may be set aside by the Cooperative and deductions made therefrom for the benefit of the capital funds of the Cooperative.

(b) The Grower gives and grants the Cooperative the right to deduct such amounts as may be necessary, to cover the aforesaid charges, from the returns received from the sale of his produce.

(c) The Grower will pay the Cooperative for all seed, plants and/or containers furnished him pursuant to the terms hereof and agrees that the cost of said articles may be deducted from the returns received by the Cooperative from the sale of his produce.

5. (a) It is agreed that the legal title to all produce delivered to the Cooperative pursuant to the terms hereof shall vest absolutely in it and it shall have power, without limitation, to borrow money, in its name and on its own account, on the produce delivered to it by the Grower, or on the products manufactured therefrom, or on any accounts receivable from the sale of said produce or products, or on any drafts, bills of lading and/or any commercial paper held by it, and to secure the repayment of such borrowed money by mortgaging or otherwise pledging any and/or all of the produce, products, accounts or paper aforesaid. Nothing herein contained shall be construed as rendering the Cooperative liable to the Grower for any produce delivered to it and which it is unable to sell; nor shall anything contained herein be construed as constituting the Cooperative the purchaser of any of the produce delivered to it pursuant to the terms hereof.

6. (a) It is agreed that the Grower will not be responsible for failure to deliver the produce contemplated under this contract if his crop or crops be ruined by the weather or by other causes beyond his control.

(b) It is understood and agreed that the Cooperative is owned by, and that it shall be operated and conducted for the benefit of, its members and that the purpose of this agreement is to secure the highest average price possible for each member's produce.

(c) All books, accounts and other documents affecting the business to be conducted by the Cooperative shall, during business hours, be open to the inspection of the Grower, or to any person properly designated in writing by him so to do.

(d) This agreement shall remain in effect until January 1st, 1936, and thereafter, from year to year, unless terminated by the grower; but the same shall not be deemed to have been terminated by him unless he signifies his intention, in writing, so to do between January 1st and March 15th, both inclusive, of any year after January 1st, 1936. In the event the grower terminates this agreement as above provided his rights as a stockholder, if he be one, in the Cooperative shall be determined as provided for in the Cooperative's by-laws.

(e) This agreement may, in the discretion of the Cooperative's board of directors, be terminated at any time for any cause or reason which, in its judgment, warrants said termination.

(f) The grower, if a stockholder member of the Cooperative, shall be bound, in addition to the terms hereof, by all of the Cooperatives by-laws and by valid resolutions adopted by its members, stockholders and/or its board of directors.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF the parties hereto have caused this agreement to be executed, in triplicate, the day and year first above written.

will get behind the idea, in urging it upon Congress, is still uncertain, but Harold Ickes, Secretary of the Interior, is chairman of the group that advocates it, Frances Perkins, Secretary of Labor, gleefully predicts that it "will give everybody a job for 25 years," and the Secretaries of War, Agriculture and Commerce join in the recommendations.

Another important subject which will call for Congressional attention is the proposed extension of the Federal Government's powers in the war on crime. Something like a Federal training school for detectives and a national Scotland Yard are being talked about. The purpose is to eliminate not only ordinary forms of crime but to clean up the drug-traffic situation, which is becoming serious all over the nation.

planters in favor of continued restriction of cotton production. It is much more pleasing than the results of the corn-hog plebiscite. It is taken as assurance that what the people want is to be regulated. Look for more regulatory legislation at the coming session.

Among other things, there will be presented to Congress, proposals for the modification and continuance in modified form of NRA. It is no secret that a remark of Chief Justice Hughes from the bench the other day has disturbed many officials here. The case in court was one of violation of an executive order under the NRA, and the Chief Justice asked where that law was to be found in any Act of Congress. The executive orders which have, it is contended, the force of law, are being compiled. They will make a book of about ten thousand pages. Congress is pretty sure to be asked to give its sanction to many of the more important ones, so as to avert further embarrassing questions from the Supreme Bench.

By order of the Federal Reserve Board and the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, the highest rate of interest that banks, including savings banks, may pay hereafter is 2 1/2 per cent. This is expected to force depositors to put their money into Government bonds or else to invest it in business enterprises.

SUNDAY SCHOOLS GIVE CHRISTMAS PROGRAMS

Sunday school children of the Baptist church presented a program at the church Sunday evening just before gifts were given out from their annual Christmas tree. The program included Christmas poems by Eugene Gibson, Marvita Reese, Manilla Reese, Helen Alexander and Estelle Talley.

After a devotional reading by W. T. Potts and the Christmas song, "O Little Town of Bethlehem," sung by girls of the intermediate and junior classes, a pageant in two scenes was presented. The first scene was that of the angels and the shepherds and included a solo, Luther's "Cradle Hymn," by Marie Neely, and other carols.

Little Herbert Paul sang a solo, "Jolly Old Saint Nick," as the first presents were taken from the tree.

The Presbyterian Sunday school Christmas tree program was held at the church on Sunday evening at 6 o'clock. Several Christmas carols were sung by the choir and the Christmas story was read from the Bible by Sara Bridges Thompson.

During the program, Totsy and Ann Anderson and Martha Cobb, dressed as angels, sang "Hark! the Herald Angels Sing!"

The Episcopal Sunday school children enjoyed their Christmas tree service on Sunday morning.

Children of the Methodist church celebrated a "White Christmas" this year, sending the money it would have taken to finance a Christmas tree to needy families.

DANCE GIVEN AT CC CAMP

A dance given by the CC boys at their camp in Horse Cove last Thursday was enjoyed by a number of people from Highlands. Several visitors were also present at the bounteous Christmas dinner served Thursday evening before the dance.

The boys expect to give another dance at the camp New Year's Eve, or New Year's night.
