

CHURCH SCHOOL WELL ATTENDED

50 Children Enrolled in Classes at Methodist Church

A vacation church school was begun at the Franklin Methodist church Monday morning. About fifty children were enrolled in three departments. The school is for children between four and 11 years of age. Mrs. W. E. Furr is director of the school, which will continue for two weeks, five days a week, two hours each morning from nine to 11 o'clock.

Mrs. W. E. Furr is superintendent of the beginners' department for children four and five years old. She is assisted by Mrs. Jess Shope, and this department is studying "Children in God's World." The primary department is in charge of Mrs. F. M. Arnold, who is assisted by Mrs. C. W. Allen and Mrs. T. J. Johnston, Jr. The primaries are studying "Learning About Our Church." The unit which the Junior department is studying is entitled "The Land Where Jesus Lived." This department is in charge of Mrs. B. W. Lefler, who is assisted by Mrs. C. C. Herbert, Jr. Miss Grace Conley is registrar of the school.

The purpose of a vacation school is to give children religious training under careful supervision in addition to that received at Sunday school. In a school such as the one in session at the Methodist church where the children are taught two hours a day, five days a week, for two weeks, a total of twenty hours of instruction are received by each child. It takes approximately five months of Sunday school training at the rate of one hour a week to equal this amount of religious instruction.

EXPANSION OF PUBLIC HEALTH WORK PROPOSED

At the present, he explained, this work cannot be undertaken because the county does not have a sanitary inspector to supervise it.

One of the advantages of the larger public health program would be dairy inspection, which would assure to the milk-buying public "A" grade milk and place the dairies of the county on a standard with dairies of other counties.

Mr. Byrd announced that the county commissioners would hold a public hearing on the public health proposal at 3 o'clock Monday afternoon. He urged that all persons interested appear before the board at that time, saying that all would be given an opportunity to voice their opinions in the matter.

Congress May Yet Enact Some Form of Bonus Bill

(Special To The Press-Maconian) WASHINGTON, May 29.—The President's veto of the Patman Bonus bill does not end the Bonus matter, by any means. The accepted interpretation here is that the President's real objection is not to prepayment of the veterans' Bonus, but to the inflationary "greenback currency" provision of the Patman measure. Either the Vinson bill or the Harrison "compromise" measure will pop up, and one or the other may be passed, and will not be vetoed.

While the President's position is against inflation, he is strongly insistent now upon the Eccles banking bill, which has the political value of promising inflation to the inflationists and control of inflation to the anti-inflationists. There is a better outlook for the ultimate passage of this measure than seemed apparent a few weeks ago. It will put complete control of all of the major functions of banking in the hands of the Government. Protests against it have come mostly from bankers and big business men.

There is a strong feeling here that Father Coughlin's radio appeals for centralized banking control have had a strong influence upon Congress, though the Eccles bill is not Father Coughlin's plan. The "radio priest" with a following of nobody knows how many million voters, looms up now as one of the most potent political forces of the time.

Explain Change of Tactics
Another reason for the recent speed shown by the Senate is the apparent decision of the Republican minority to use no more obstructive tactics, a decision in which some of the anti-Administration Democrats appear to have concurred. There are several reasons for this change of tactics, the principal one being the belief that the Supreme Court will nullify more than one of the measures now in process of passing. The Wagner Labor bill is one of those, whose constitutionality is seriously questioned even by those who voted for it; so, also, is the Social Security bill, which is all set for Senate enactment.

The amendments to the Agricultural Administration Act will undergo a good deal of change before this measure gets through. As drafted, the bill would make all distributors of agricultural products practically public utilities and subject to Government regulation.

Washington has been quite stirred up over the question of who paid the expenses of the several thousand farmers who came to Washington to demand continuance and strengthening of AAA. It can be stated definitely that their expenses were not paid out of Federal funds, though the movement may have been encouraged.

Al Smith Coalition?

Looking ahead to next year's Presidential elections, as everybody here is doing with one eye, whatever he seems to be looking at with the other, the most interesting development is the talk of a conservative coalition of Republicans and anti-Administration Democrats, under the leadership of Al Smith. Your correspondent passes the gossip along for what it is worth. It is not as absurd as it may seem to many at first glance. There is little hope that the Republican party alone and under that name can challenge Mr. Roosevelt with any great hope next year, especially since the La Follette crowd of Northwestern Progressives seem ready to come into the Roosevelt tent. Perhaps a Coalition or Fusion Party might get somewhere—provided anybody could get them to coalesce in the first place and that they would stay fused up to election day.

SPEEDING CAROLINAS GROWTH

Natural growth of any section is slow . . . only those sections of the nation grow and prosper where the people have vision and initiative.

THE GROWTH AND PROSPERITY IS GENERALLY GUIDED BY THE INITIATIVE OF THE PEOPLE.

The Carolinas may have, as we believe, superior advantages . . . our lands may be rich in minerals, our resort and recreational areas may be more beautiful, our industrial opportunities may be more numerous, but what or it . . . Only a few people know the Carolinas . . .
