

RADICAL THIRD PARTY FEARED

Administration Having Hard Time Satisfying Everybody

(Special To The Press-Maconian)
WASHINGTON, August 7.—Now that the Democratic Senators and Representatives have had a little time to examine the President's tax-the-rich proposal in all of its aspects, their inclination is to rush some sort of a new tax bill through both Houses. The indication is that it will be just that—"some sort of a bill."

The leaders on both sides of the Capitol have no idea of making such a comprehensive revision of the estate, inheritance and income-tax laws as would be necessary if the purpose was to raise enough money to meet the budget deficit. About the best that could be expected from the drafts prepared by the Committee on Ways and Means would be enough additional revenue to take care of about one month's running expenses of the Federal Government. It will, however, be something which can be pointed to in the coming political campaign as an earnest effort of the party's desire to bring about a more equitable distribution of wealth, and this political effect is what most of the boys on Capitol Hill are chiefly concerned about.

It is certain that nothing which Congress may do will go far enough to satisfy either the LaFollette Progressives, who have a plan for increasing income taxes all the way down the line, or the "share-the-wealth" group, headed by Senator Huey Long. The followers of these leaders, and several other well organized radical elements are again being taken seriously as political figures in next year's Presidential election.

Still Third Party Talk

Some observers here still insist that a radical third party movement is shaping up. Discounting the fact that politicians are inclined to become jittery on the slightest provocation, it is certain that some of Mr. Roosevelt's followers are showing signs of fear that such a radical movement will make headway, because of the impossibility of getting through both Houses as sufficiently radical tax reform measure to satisfy any considerable proportion of discontented voters. Such a movement might draw upon the surplus of votes which the Democratic leaders hope will be cast for Mr. Roosevelt next year.

There is possibly even greater menace in a swing away from the Roosevelt Administration by Conservative Democratic leaders. Washington is beginning to regard it as a certainty that if Mr. Roosevelt is renominated, a Conservative Democratic ticket will be put in the field. Talk of candidates to head such a ticket is a matter of every day conversation. Former Governor Albert Ritchie of Maryland, and Lewis W. Douglas of Arizona, former Director of the Budget, are names most often heard.

All talk of a coalition party, combining Democrats with the Republicans, has ceased. Republicans and Democratic Conservatives, however, are in entire harmony in efforts to bring about a situation which would result in Mr. Roosevelt's defeat. They will do all they can to encourage any radical movement which shows promise of developing into a third party, and, indeed, might help in getting a fourth or even a fifth party launched. Anything to split the Roosevelt vote, is the political slogan of the Opposition.

G. O. P. Timber

Most of the talk about Republican candidates is in the nature of trial balloons. Names are suggested and the suggestors put their ears to the ground to listen for the popular reaction. Just now the man who is being thus promoted is Governor "Alf" Landon, of Kansas, whose chief claim to fame is that he has succeeded in balancing the Kansas State budget. Governor Landon is less well-known nationally than several of the others who are talked about as Republican Presidential timber.

Col. Frank Knox, publisher of The Chicago Daily News, seems to have a strong personal following which has grown up almost spon-

On Washington Bench

WASHINGTON . . . The District of Columbia now has a woman judge presiding in the Municipal Court of Washington, D. C. She is Judge Ellen K. Raedy, whose appointment has been confirmed by Congress.

taneously. One hears the name of former Senator "Jimmy" Wadsworth, of New York, but it does not seem to arouse much enthusiasm in the West.

Among the undercurrents of political gossip is the suggestion—and it may be more than that—that business interests may be, or are being, organized to back the "safe" members of the House of Representatives for re-election and to attempt to put "safe" men into Congress in place of those whom business distrusts. This would be something of an innovation in a national political campaign.

FAMILIES PLAN JOINT REUNION

Henderson and Peek Clans To Meet Aug. 17 at Pine Grove

The annual Henderson-Peek reunion will be held on Saturday, August 17, at Pine Grove church eight miles east of Franklin on state highway 28.

This reunion is composed of the descendants and relatives of Charles Henderson of Laurens County, S. C., and William Peek of that section of Buncombe County, N. C., which is now Madison county. The reunion is held in Macon county because it originated with the immediate descendants of Canada Henderson and Zachariah Peek, both of whom settled in Macon county during the first half of the 19th century.

Thomas Henderson, a brother of Canada Henderson, married Ruth Peek, a sister of Zachariah Peek, and settled in the neighborhood of Flat Rock, then in Buncombe county, but now in Henderson county. Several of his descendants are now living in Henderson county. George Henderson, son of Canada Henderson, married Millie Peek, daughter of Zachariah Peek, and settled in Transylvania county, where most of his descendants now live. John C. Henderson, the only living child of Canada Henderson, lives in Macon county in the community where the Henderson-Peek reunion is held.

Canada Henderson married Polly Tillery, whose father lived in what is now Madison county, in the section between Mars Hill and Marshall. Zachariah Peek married Sarah Moore of Macon county.

Other members of these families, too numerous to mention here, settled in various parts of this state, South Carolina, Georgia, Tennessee and other states of the Union.

It is hoped that this year there will be present at the reunion representatives of the various families of Hendersons, Peeks, Tilleries, Moores and others related to these families.

Each group is expected to bring luncheon, the picnic dinner to be spread on a table prepared on the church lawn between the church house and Walnut creek.

Miss Amy Henderson, daughter of Charles W. Henderson, Gneiss, is chairman of the program committee. She and other members of her committee are arranging an excellent program for the reunion this year.
