Scrub Dairy Bulls Always Expensive

A hard-headed business dairyman once said, "You pay for a good bull whether you have one or not."

"If you have a good one, the profits from the herd enable you to pay for him.

"If you keep a scrub, the lowered efficiency of the herd will cost you more than a good bull."

So if dairymen are going to pay, one way or another, for a good bull, there is no reason why they should not have one, said John Arey, extension dairy specialist at State college.

The herd sire represents 50 per cent of the future of the herd, Arey pointed out. A few poor cows may do some damage to the herd, but a scrub sire will ruin the best of herds in a few years.

The term "good bull" is used to mean a purebred bull of good type with a continuous production record through his ancestry, Arey explained. Such a bull will transmit both is type and his high production strain to his offspring.

The late session of Congress appropriated nine and one-half billions—an all time record in peace time.

Only one-third of the world uses knives and forks. One-third uses chop sticks and one-third use their fingers.

TOYS FOR CHILDREN

(From a Kansas State College Bulletin)

Now that Christmas time is approaching, parents are beginning to plan for Santa's visit to the children. Modern and wise parents wish to select toys which will help a child to learn. Playthings of the right sort for children from two to five have these qualities:

1. Good playthings are suited to the child's development. They call forth some effort on the child's part, yet are not discouraging.

2. The right playthings are of absorbing interest to the child. A child does not tire of the right plaything so easily.

3. The best playthings stimulate wholesome development in one or more of the following ways:

By training the child in bodily control and exercise of the arm and leg muscles. (raised planks to walk on; trapeze, large floor blocks).

By training in eye-hand coordination. (Beads to string, peg board, clay.)

By developing imagination. (Crayons, paper cutting, sand pile.)

By training for creative activity. (Clay, crayons, blocks.)

By developing interest and ability along useful lines. (Doll dishes, brooms, gardening tools, carpenters' tools.)

By stimulating keen observation. (Simple puzzles, picture nest of boxes.)

By furnishing sensory training. (Colored beads, harmonica, blocks of various sizes.)

4. Good playthings help in establishing such worthwhile habits as these:

The habit of perseverance.

The habit of concentrating.

The habit of reasoning.

The habit of self-reliance.

The habit of keeping happily busy.

The habit of using property carefully.

The habit of orderliness.

The habit of resourcefulness.

5. The right kind of toys are the "do with" type, not the "sit back and watch" type.

Lists of toys for children of different ages may be secured free at the office of the Home Demonstration Agent.
