

Careful in Feeding Minerals to Livestock

Feeding minerals to livestock, without due consideration of the animals' needs, often does more harm than good. Minerals do need minerals, however, said R. H. Ruffner, head of the animal husbandry department at State college, and one of the most important is salt. He recommended that grain mixtures fed dairy cows should contain one per cent salt, but no more. Blocks or salt in a box should be kept before the animals, so they can lick up any salt they want in addition to that in their feed. Next in importance are phosphorus and calcium. But if the crops are grown on land well fertilized with superphosphate or other phosphorus fertilizer, and well supplied with lime, the feed will contain enough of these minerals to supply the animals' needs. Calcium may be added to the ration at the same rate in the form of ground limestone, ground oyster shells or clam shells, or wood ashes. Wood ashes contain only two-thirds as much calcium as ground limestone. Never feed unslacked or over-slacked lime. There are 10 to 15 other mineral elements necessary for dairy cows, most of these are furnished in adequate amounts in the average ration made up of feeds grown in North Carolina, Ruffner pointed out. To attempt to supply minerals other than salt, phosphorus, and calcium is expensive and sometimes dangerous, he warned.

Chevrolet Reports Record Truck Sales

Record-breaking sales of motor trucks during the first six months of 1936 are declared by W. E. Fish, manager of the Chevrolet Motor Company's commercial car department, to be an index of higher levels in business, industry, and agriculture throughout the country. Chevrolet's first six months' business in trucks," said Mr. Fish, "is a record of sales that exceeded the previous first half in the history of the company, with a total of 119,294 new units delivered, as compared with the previous record of 102,321, which has stood since 1929. The increase over the corresponding period of last year is 91%."

Watch Your Kidneys!

Be Sure They Properly Cleanse the Blood. Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as nature intended—fail to remove impurities that poison the system when retained. Then you may suffer nagging backache, dizziness, scanty or too frequent urination, getting up at night, puffiness under the eyes, feel nervous, miserable—all upset. Don't delay? Use Doan's Pills. Doan's are especially for poorly functioning kidneys. They are recommended by grateful users the country over. Get them from any druggist.
