

When you see a married couple coming down the street, the one who is two or three steps ahead is the one that's mad.

Nickel steel first was used in a locomotive boiler shell in 1904, and the engine is still giving regular service.

In the last seven months of 1936 scheduled domestic air liners flew a total of 35,104,000 miles, an increase of 16 per cent over the corresponding period of 1935.

"Boy, your overcoat is rather loud!"
"Not when I put a muffler on."

HANDY POTATO

Housewives have found the potato to be "just what the doctor ordered" in more ways than one. The following suggestions will come in handy if clipped and placed in the front of the cookbook or some other convenient place:

To purify old lard, heat until it smokes, then take a potato, cut it into small slices and cook them till a golden brown. The potato takes all the impurities out of the lard.

Cut a potato in two parts, then rub the windshield thoroughly with the cut surface the next time you have to take the car out in rain or snow.

If you find soup too salty, cut up a potato in small parts and add to the soup. They cook quickly and absorb the surplus salt.

Telling The Truth

Judge: "I'll have to sentence you to jail for a month. Have you anything to say?"

Prisoner: "Yes, your honor. I just want to ask one favor. Please telephone my wife and tell her I won't be home for a month. She never believes any of my excuses."
—Frity.

Law Is Law

Country Constable: "Pardon, Miss, but swimming is not allowed in this lake."

City Flapper: "Why didn't you tell me before I undressed?"

Constable: "Well, there ain't no law against undressin'."
—Saniwaxer.

Reformer (to man sprawling in gutter): "I suppose that this, sir, is the work of rum?"

Prostrate One: "No, sir, this is the work of a banana-skin, sir!"

Henry: "I hear you stayed in a haunted house last night. What happened?"

John: "About midnight a ghost came through the wall just as if there was no wall there."

Henry: "Good heavens! What did you do?"

John: "I went through the opposite wall the same way."

A bricklayer working on the top of a high building accidentally dropped a brick on the head of a passing colored boy. "Be careful, big boy," yelled the darky, "you made me bite my tongue."
