COMMENDS WORK OF DEMONSTRATION AGENT

Editor Franklin Press,
Franklin, N. C.
Dear Sir:

In behalf of the farm women of Macon county, I wish to say a few words in regard to the great work which has been done among us for the past year and a half.

Through the efforts of our home demonstration agent, Mrs. Katherine O'Neil, who came to us over a year ago, and through our cooperation with her in the work, I feel that we have already accomplished much. We have learned better methods of caring for the home and family, both from a physical and aesthetic standpoint. We can feel now that nothing we do is in vain, because we have found a way to work purposefully, and with results. We know that our surplus food supply can be turned into cash, through our home demonstration curb market. The work of the clubs in the different communities has aroused a competitive spirit among us, which makes for a higher standard of work, and a greater enthusiasm. Last, but not least, we have been made to realize that for the farm women, life can be filled with beauty instead of drudgery.

All these things have a lasting value. Ideals and methods which have already been established will last through generations to come and will improve the standard of living of our people.

It is our earnest desire that the great work may continue.

Sincerely,

Mrs. Ed. Byrd,
Past President, Macon County Council, Home Demonstration Clubs

CANNING DEMONSTRATION

A canning demonstration will be held in the county on April 6, to which the public will be invited. Let us bring up the standard of our canned products and have it equal that of the more advanced counties in the state. Canning demonstrations have been given for twenty years in some of our counties. Macon county has come up to others in home demonstration work in other phases. Women, let us bring this up also. The place and date of the demonstration will be given in next week's Press.

District Meeting

The district meeting of home demonstration clubs will be held at Sylva, sometime in May. Let us begin to plan to attend the meeting. There one will meet farm women from the six neighboring counties. Friends will be made, problems will be discussed, and work planned for the coming year. Some of our women will have part on the program. Let us set our goal at two hundred. We can do it.

Labor Peacemaker

some of the groups when they have a program. It will do you good to see them in full swing. Examine some of the handiwork that the boys and girls have made. It will give you an hour of recreation and pleasure.

Yours for the continuance of the good work,

Recreation Program

By T. J. O'NEIL
Supervisor of Recreation

Franklin, North Carolina
March 22, 1937

Editor Press:

We wish to express through your columns a word in regard to "The Project of Recreation," and "The N. Y. A.," being sponsored by Mr. T. J. O'Neil and Mrs. J. A. Ordway. Both are very much alike as they deal with young people and the average citizen should be very much interested in the various problems with which they deal. Training young folks to work with their hands as well as their minds, seeing things in the light of artistic beauty and arrangement and guarding their health so they will grow to be strong and fit for these battle of life is a wonderful work.

Recreation means much if you think of it in the right way, and is a large subject. Under it would come health, amusements, life extension, etc. It is not only the children who need play or other relaxation to keep them physically and mentally fit; grown people, those who give up most of their time to work, are no less dependent upon some form of recreation. The man whose work is monotonous and deadening needs play to invigorate his mind; the student or the man of large affairs needs it as a mental rest, as a let-down to a mind too tensely keyed.

There is thus a valid reason for many of the amusements which have been devised in almost infinite numbers, because different people demand different kinds of recreation. They may relax with all sorts of games, all kinds of work.

Some would prefer games of skill in which they might take a part, others would like to watch the skillful moves of others, therefore spend the summer afternoons at the ball game. Still others, when they become skilled or even as a fad, would find amusement in the use of tools, seeing things grow from rough wood and forming into things that may be useful. How many rainy afternoons have been spent in the wood shed or little shop by scores of boys? It would surprise you to even know, perhaps you had never thought of it, but it is even so. Then would it not be a shame not to give the boy an even break and let him saw and cut to his heart's content?

There are many of these amusements that are harmful, that the mind invents. Now is the time to train the boy for the future citizen. Let some one who can, direct this play habit into its natural course.

Using the muscles as well as the mind makes strong men and women. They understand the rules of hygienic living and by sheer will-power extend life many years. This extension would not mean adding a few years to feeble old age, but adding to the years of youth and strength and postponing the years of senility. A life thus lengthened is broadened, both in usefulness and in enjoyment.

The projects above referred to are giving Macon county a chance that she has never had before. While the iron is hot is the time to strike. Let's give it a boost and work hand in hand with our helpers, and remember that much of the loose thinking of our time is due to poor educational drill. In fact, the failure of schools to teach pupils how to apply minds and how to think is one of their common reproaches. The mentally trained person who is also physically strong has the combination that puts his powers at easy command. He can be joyously busy doing the impossible because the doing of it has been made easy by training.

How much native power there is in all of us that for want of power training or sympathetic encouragement never comes to maturity! How many of the finer qualities of character that for want of cheerful companionship and wise direction failed to mature and now lie dead in us. Very many people are only partly alive. A large part, and in some, the best part, is dead. The capacity they show is probably only a small share of a fine inheritance which, not knowing how to use, they allowed to die. Should we commit this great and sad mistake to the rising boys and girls. No we must not. We must give them a square deal and help to uplift and support the cause that is giving them the means whereby they can surmount these giant obstacles.

The public schools cannot give them this kind of training. They do not have the time, because they must give them the prescribed course of study. Our government has discovered the situation and has given us the chance. Are we going to throw this away too?

Think about this, fellow citizen. If you do not understand the workings of the program, ask some one who knows and they will gladly give you the information. When you know you will get the spirit and get the benefits also. It doesn't need boosting, it's already boosted and doing noble work, but the workers would like for you to really see the marvelous and wonderful things they have accomplished and plan for the future.

Come and spend an hour with
