

More Libraries For Rural Communities

A love of books and good literature is one of the marks of an educated person, said Ruth Current, state home demonstration agent at State college.

"Many of our home demonstration club women over the state like good books," she continued, "but often they don't have a chance to get the books they would like to read."

"For this reason, we are trying to establish home demonstration club libraries in the different counties. Some have been established already, but many more are needed."

The Johnston county home demonstration library reported that during the month of December 183 books were loaned, and one woman said she read till four o'clock one morning to finish a book she had become interested in.

At various club meetings, Miss Current added, some of the women make reports on books they have read, and in this way the others are given a chance to learn about more books than they would have opportunity to read in full by themselves.

Miss Current has urged all home demonstration agents to push library work this month as they present the year's program of work to the club members.

Marjorie Beal, secretary of the N. C. Library commission, is co-operating in the library work, and has supplied lists of books that are especially recommended for rural readers.

The list covers fiction, history, biography, religion, books for children, and books of an informative or educational nature.

Tobacco Course To Be Given At State

The four-day tobacco short course to be held at State college, January 25-28, will offer North Carolina farmers an opportunity for extensive studies of tobacco production and marketing.

Leading authorities on the weed crop will discuss the best cultural practices, new methods of insect and disease control, how to market leaf to best advantage, and explain the tobacco outlook for this year.

Laboratory work in grading tobacco will be given Wednesday and Thursday afternoons.

A high-light of the first day's program Tuesday morning will be a talk by J. B. Huston, assistant AAA administrator and director of the east central region, on prospective control legislation.

W. G. Finn, assistant regional director, will go into the leaf outlook, and E. Y. Floyd, extension tobacco specialist and state AAA director, will discuss the 1938 agricultural conservation program in the afternoon Tuesday.

Plant pathologist, agronomists, entomologists, marketing specialists, and other experiment station and extension workers are also on the program to present various aspects of the tobacco growers' problems and point out the best known methods of solving them.

Dan M. Paul, State college director of agricultural short courses, has announced that there will be no tuition fee for the tobacco short course. A $1 registration fee will be charged.

Rooms and meals will be available at a moderate price both on the campus and in homes close by, he added.

CONSERVING SOUTHERN FORESTS

Atlanta, Ga., December — "Southern Railway System—The Pioneer Railroad in Forestry" is the title of an attractive leaflet issued by the System and illustrated by views in the Southern Railway Demonstration Forest.

The leaflet tells of the continued interest of the management of the railroad in preserving a perpetual supply of forest products in the territory served by its lines, urging up annually have almost completely eliminated fire losses.

There were on the land on June 1, 1925, 1,778,059 pine trees four inches or more in diameter at breast height. Up to September 1, 1937, 81,011 trees have been cut for lumber and poles and 3,880 cords of pulpwood were salvaged from their tops. Longleaf trees nine inches and over in diameter are being worked for naval stores prior to being cut for poles and pulpwood.

Slash Pine Trees — Southern Railway Forest— 11 Years from Seed.

Slash pines have been planted in the cleared fields and in areas with sparse stands. The illustration shows trees over 35 feet high and 6 to 10 inches in diameter at 11 years from the seed. As a result of fire prevention natural reseeding has taken place in all parts of the forest. There are now 3,928,000 pine trees in the forest and its value has been increased by 2,231,000 trees added by plantings and natural reseeding, plus twelve years' growth on the 1,697,048 trees of the original stand remaining in the forest.

This forest is accomplishing its purpose of demonstrating the practicability of growing pine trees profitably on large tracts or on farm woodlands in the South by showing that a properly managed forest will yield an annual profit and continually increase in value. It is constantly being visited by foresters, timber operators, students and others interested in the problems that have been worked out. Visitors are always welcome.

all owners of timber lands to practice conservative forestry. Southern Railway System has not merely advocated sound forestry by others, but, since 1925, has been operating a demonstration forest on 11,043 acres at Pregann, S. C.

On this land, which has been owned by the Company and its predecessor companies for more than a century, there was a thrifty stand of pine, principally second-growth. Fire lines plowed around and cleaned lems that have been worked out. Visitors are always welcome.

In connection with Dr. Charles H. Herty's demonstration that many kinds of paper and superior rayon can be made from southern quick-growing pines, Southern Railway Demonstration Forest is of particular value as showing that paper makers can depend upon an abundant and perpetual supply of pulpwood in the South.
