

Dr. Padgett

Delivers Address At P.-T. A. Meeting Tuesday

The address of Dr. P. G. Padgett, county health officer, delivered at the regular meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association February 22, was heard by a record attendance of mothers and teachers. The program also included a special Washington's Birthday feature in speeches delivered by Andrew Patton, Claude Evans and Frank Leach, Jr., from Mr. Overcash's class in the high school.

Dr. Padgett preceded his address with a reference to the 41st anniversary of the Parent-Teacher organization which was celebrated last week, growing out of the World Congress of Mothers, who made the move to enlist teachers in the work of mothers in child welfare.

Dr. Padgett's address will be printed in the next issue of the Press, with its valuable and timely instruction on the "Nourishment of the School Child." Under-nourishment with its attendant effects of dullness, stooped shoulders, poor digestion and other physical handicaps received special emphasis. Valuable advice was given how these may be overcome by the poorest parents through knowledge of a balanced diet. Milk as a necessary food for the growing child was stressed, with a special plea that parents give their children milk to drink instead of selling all they produce—a prevalent custom—which amounts to starving one's children. The necessity of well-balanced, as well as hot school lunches, was also urged. Dr. Padgett cited the excellence of the Franklin school lunches directed by Miss Ethel Hurst as not only abundant but well balanced.

Mrs. Wasilik, president, announced that a prize of fifty cents would be given to the school room represented by the highest attendance of mothers at each meeting. The same nominating committee—M. D. Billings, Miss Olive Patton and Mrs. Harry Higgins—was elected to serve in 1938.
